U. S. Threatens to Seize Trucks

TELLS DRIVERS TO END STRIKE BY TOMORROW

Union Plans Move at 11 A.M. Meeting

With the government prepared to seize and operate Chicago's trucking facilities, paralyzed by a five day strike of the independent Chicago Truck Drivers union, the following developments are scheduled for today:

1. Officials of the striking union, who received an ultimatum from the war labor board in Washington, D. C., yesterday, will appear before a meeting of strikers at 11 a. m. today to warn them of government action if the strike is not ended by tomorrow morning.

Soldiers, Sailors to Man Trucks

2. Hundreds of army and navy trucks, operated by soldiers and sailors, will begin moving raw materials into vital war plants, whose operation has been impeded by the strike, and moving finished products out.

3. More than 400 police squads will be on duty to protect any civilian trucks which attempt to operate.

Resumption of truck service anxiously was awaited by thousands of retail stores whose stocks were running low in the absence of daily replenishments from warehouses. The list of places affected included drug stores and hospitals and firms dealing in perishable goods, nondelivery of which means rapid spoilage.

Hint Strongly of Seizure

At yesterday's meeting in Washington, the WLB told officials of the striking union the government will be forced to act unless the strike is terminated by Tuesday. This is interpreted to mean government seizure of the struck trucking facilities.

Lloyd K. Garrison, WLB vice chairman, told representatives of the striking union the board will not consider their demands until they return to work. However, the board did accept for consideration demands of a rival union, local 705 of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters [AFL] which is not on strike. These coincided with demands previously made by the striking union.

The strike was called in protest against a WLB decision granting an 8 cent hourly wage increase for a 51 hour week.

Seek 48 Hour Week Pay Base

The drivers seek $47 to $56.50 for a 48 hour week, compared with the previous 51 hour scale of $42 to $51.50, depending on the size of the truck.

Also represented at yesterday's session in Washington were the Cartage Exchange of Chicago, the Central Motor Freight association, and the Illinois Motor Truck Operators' association, employers who had been invited to attend.

LOSES HIS $700 A MONTH JOB OF DOING NOTHING

De Kalb, Ill., May 20 [Special]—A. C. Utterback, who was suspended as an examiner for the farm credit administration March 28 on charges of insubordination, said here today he has received a dismissal order signed by Agriculture Secretary Wickard.

For six months before his suspension, Utterback sat around his Kansas City, Mo., office with nothing to do because of a dispute with his superiors regarding his report on the condition of a federally financed bank for coöperatives in Houston, Tex. Utterback got national attention during his six months paid vacation. He received a salary of $700 a month, plus $6 a day for expenses, reporting each day to a bare basement office in the Kansas City federal building.

"I do not intend to appeal," Utterback said here tonight. "It would be an expensive procedure."

SHOW GOERING'S $200,000,000 ART LOOT TO YANKS

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN

(Picture on page 8)

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

BERCHTESGADEN, Germany, May 20 — Hermann Goering's personal array of art treasures, looted or purchased on his own terms from the greatest private collections in Europe, was displayed today.

The paintings sculptures, tapestries, rugs, bejeweled gold and silver ornaments, and tableware are estimated by experts to be worth more than 200 million dollars. Even that figure may not be an accurate expression of their value, for some of the items could not have been bought at any price, had not Goering forced the rightful owners to sell.

Among the masters represented on canvas and wood are Rembrandt, Van Dyck, Rubens, Franz Hals, Andrea del Sarto, Boucher, Van der Weyden, Memling, Holbein, Masolino, Goya, Breughel, Renoir, Bellini, Veronese, Fragonard, Watteau, Clouet, and Cranach.

Slave Labor Digs Cave

The collections from which these treasures were taken included several of the Rothschilds in France, the Contini in Florence, and the Gouldstiker and Koenig firms in Amsterdam.

The stolen and "holdup price" trove was uncovered around Berchtesgaden — in Goering's private train, in a garage, and in a specially dug cave in a mountain. The work on the cave, which is a quarter of a mile long, was done by slave laborers, who, when it was finished, were taken into the woods and shot to death by SS [elite] troops.

Some of the paintings and other art objects were crated when they were found. Others were flung about, and would have been ruined beyond restoration had they not been rescued when they were.

Represents Goering's Taste

The collection is distinguished from other looted art found in Bavaria and Austria in that it represents Goering's personal taste, and its contents were selected by his own agents, usually on his specific instructions, and sometimes in direct competition with the agents of Adolf Hitler.

Goering's collection is now on exhibition in a hotel on the southern edge of Berchtesgaden. It is guarded by the American 101st air borne division.

Supervising the assembling and cataloging of the treasures are Maj. Robert S. Smith of Indianapolis, Ind., military government officer for the 101st division, and Lt. James J. Rorimer of New York City, cultural monuments officer for the 7th army. Rorimer is curator of the medieval art department and the Cloisters at the New York Metropolitan Museum of Art.

Assisted by Buying Agent

The Americans are being assisted by Walther Andreas Hofer, who was Goering's agent in procuring most of the paintings and sculpture. Hofer gave identifying data.

There were nine Rembrandts. Two of the three which particularly intrigued Hofer were the portraits of the Dutch genius' first wife and his sister, Elizabeth. The third was the head of a bearded old man—it had miraculous nuances of gray and

TRUMAN'S ADDRESS TO JOINT HOUSES ON AIR AT NOON TODAY

President Truman today will address a joint session of congress at noon, Chicago time, on the occasion of the presentation of the 100th congressional medal of honor during the war. Sgt. Jake William Lindsey, 24, of Lucedale, Miss., will receive the honor.

Sgt. J. W. Lindsey

Sgt. Lindsey arrived in New York yesterday after a flight from Czechoslovakia, the Associated Press reported. When he learned that arrangements for the President's address depended on his arrival in the United States he exclaimed, "Boy, that's something, holding up the President. I'm sure glad I made on time."

The address, to be carried by all major networks, will be heard on W-G-N and other Chicago stations.

ARMED GERMANS WATCH AS YANKS LAND IN CRETE

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune]

MELIMI, Crete, May 20 — This island today presents the odd spectacle of surrendered German troops carrying side arms mingling with the British to whom they surrendered and whom they outnumber 20 to 1.

When American troops landed today on Melimi air field German soldiers wearing pistols and knives stood curiously watching the first American soldiers they had seen getting out of an American plane.

The explanation of the peculiar situation is that 10,500 Germans surrendered to only 500 British troops and the Germans were permitted to keep their arms lest the populace avenge itself for German brutalities. The Germans gradually are being collected in a small area.

FINDS U. S. PUBLIC WANTS 5,852,000 REFRIGERATORS

Washington, D. C., May 20 (AP)—The public wants to buy 5,852,000 mechanical refrigerators, 4,501,000 vacuum cleaners, 3,451,000 sewing machines, 5,085,000 radios, 5,195,000 electric irons, 5,835,000 washing machines.

The war production board's office of civilian requirements says it knows the figures as a result of a nation-wide survey conducted for it by the census bureau.

The demand for these items has increased 25 to 100 per cent in the last year.

KEEP ISLE BASES, 3 HEROES PLEAD

Unfair to Dead Marines to Give Them Away

Two marines and a sailor who took part in the bloody fighting on Iwo Island declared yesterday that the United States should not relinquish islands won in the Pacific to any other nation, league, or trusteeship. The three are survivors of six men who charged up Mount

Suribachi on Iwo to place the American flag at its 550 foot summit on Feb. 28.

The fighting men, who were here to spur the 7th war bond drive, are Pvt. Rene Gagnon, 20, of Manchester, N. H.; Pvt. Ira Hayes, 22, of Phoenix, Ariz., and John Bradley, navy pharmacist's mate 2d class, of Appleton, Wis., who had been assigned to the marines during the fighting on Iwo.

Give Emphatic Answer

A reporter asked them if the United States should turn over Iwo and other islands won in the Pacific to a trusteeship or league which is now being considered at the San Francisco conference.

"Hell, no," was their answer.

"The marines fought and died to take these islands," Gagnon said. "We had 20,000 casualties on Iwo alone. We don't want to go thru that again. The only way to insure that is to keep the islands, and not give them to some other nation or league. Give the islands to the marines and they'll make sure they are kept safe."

Bradley and Hayes asserted that Gagnon expressed the sentiments of the marines.

Three Flag Raisers Killed Later

The men with them on the charge up Mount Suribachi were killed in later fighting on the northern end of the island. Bradley was wounded, but not seriously.

Don McKiernan of the bond division of the treasury department reported that 1¼ million dollars' worth of bonds were sold at the Covenant club Saturday night after the three spoke.

MARLENE DIETRICH SEEKS TO LEARN FATE OF MOTHER IN BERLIN

BELSEN, Germany, May 20 (AP)—German born Marlene Dietrich, branded by the Nazis as a saboteur for becoming an American citizen, is attempting to learn the fate of her aged mother in Russian occupied Berlin, the movie actress' sister said tonight.

Marlene's sister, plump 50 year old Mrs. Elizabeth Wills, said their mother's big watchmaking firm in the star's native Berlin had been seized by the Gestapo a year ago after their mother had been charged with sheltering Jewish refugees.

Mrs. Wills is living with her husband above a movie theater in Belsen military barracks.

Her identity as Marlene's sister was disclosed when British soldiers went thru her apartment recently and noticed large photographs of the star.

"I told them I was her sister and soon the news spread and Marlene heard that I was here," she said. "She came to Belsen on May 9 in Gen. Eisenhower's personal plane which brought her direct from Munich."

HUGE AIRPORT IN N. Y. WILL BE READY IN FALL

New York, May 20 [Special]—The gigantic Idlewild airport in Queens will be ready for operations in "early fall," Mayor La Guardia announced today.

Construction of the first three runways and a temporary administration building will be completed by then, the mayor said, and the field, tho still in its first stage, will be capable of handling 84 planes an hour.

The first tenants will be the National, Northeast, Northwest, and Pennsylvania Central air lines. The others will follow as airport facilities expand. Plans call for three construction stages. The second stage, with six additional runways, should be finished by 1947, the mayor said, and the third, providing 12 more runways, is slated to begin three years later.

RULING ON GAS RATION HIKE MAY COME THIS WEEK

Washington, D. C., May 20 (AP)—The nation may know this week how much extra civilian gasoline will be available as a result of war's end in Europe.

A spokesman for the petroleum administration for war said the decision likely would be reached within that period.

SHURI CITADEL SURROUNDED ON THREE SIDES

Meet Strong Enemy Resistance

GUAM, May 21 [Monday]—(AP)—American 10th army troops are enveloping the citadel of Shuri in the center of the southern Okinawa battlefront, Adm. Nimitz announced today.

The Yanks gained slowly in all sectors against the heaviest kind of resistance yesterday to ring the fortress city, key to the enemy's stiff line of the island.

Tank-led marines of the 1st division drove thru heavy small arms and mortar fire to ridges on the northwestern outskirts of moated Shuri and found that ancient capital of the Ryukyu chain, like the near-by Okinawa capital city of Naha, reduced to rubble and debris. They fought 800 yards thru elaborate defenses to gain commanding heights.

Believes Japs Weaker

Some disintegration of Japanese resistance on Okinawa was seen today by Maj. Gen. John R. Hodge as three Yank divisions moved to encircle Shuri. Hodge, commander of the 24th army corps, told newsmen there was "some indication that the Japanese are disintegrating as an over-all fighting unit," and that he noted a sharp decrease in enemy artillery shelling.

The marines established forward elements about 800 yards south of Dakeshi town, on the western approaches to Shuri. The 77th infantry division, repulsing three counter-attacks, captured a strongpoint 900 yards northeast of Shuri. The 96th infantry division was advancing westward from bitterly contested Conical hill against intense fire.

Meet Strong Resistance

The Yanks thruout the day met strong resistance from caves and pillboxes and intense small arms fire.

A few Japanese planes raided American positions early yesterday but no damage of consequence was reported.

Thunderbolts of the 318th army fighter group hit targets in the Ryukyus north of Okinawa Friday night.

[Japanese broadcasts said an allied task force appeared to be attempting to approach Kyushu, southernmost of Nippon's home islands, and that Tokyo area air fields were raided by 80 American Super Forts.]

Hold Sugar Loaf Hill

On the west flank the 6th marine division held Sugar Loaf hill, gained for the fifth time by the Yanks on Saturday, and made local advances east of the Naha suburb of Takamotoji.

Apparently the Leathernecks were making no attempt to occupy Naha in force until heights covering that capital city on the east were cleared.

There was no break in the 10th army pressure sustained against the strongly entrenched Japanese since the four division drive to envelop Shuri was launched May 11. The

BRITISH LABOR PARTY PAPER ASSAILS RED TACTICS IN EUROPE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, May 21 [Monday]—The Daily Herald, organ of the Labor party, today attacked Russia's policies in Europe. "The parallel between the Hitler technique and what is happening today is painfully obvious," it said. "Territorial and political settlement of eastern Europe is being effected by decrees and actions which later the peace conference will be asked to ratify."

The Herald deplored Marshal Stalin's policy of reaching decisions without discussion with the allies, whom he "virtually blackmails into approving them as fait accompli for the sake of allied unity."

"Stalin clearly regards the settlement in the east of Europe as primarily of Russian concern and any intervention in it by the Western powers as a nuisance," said the labor organ. The policy of Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia is identical, the Herald warned, finding in it an even greater parallel to Hitlerism.

BERLIN THRU AS CAPITAL FOR ALL TIME—BRITISH

Anti-Nazi Mayor

LONDON, May 21 [Monday]—(AP)—The Moscow radio said today that Dr. Arthur Werner, a German architect persecuted by the Gestapo, has been named mayor of Berlin. Werner thanked the allies for "liberating us from tyranny" in an address yesterday at the first meeting of the soviet controled Berlin administrative council, composed of Berlin residents, the broadcast said. "We wish to build a democratic republic," Werner was quoted.

HDQ. BRITISH 2D ARMY, May 20 [Reuters]—Berlin, cradle of German imperialism, never will rise again from its ashes to be the administrative and military center of a "fourth reich," it was officially stated here tonight.

In one of the most important statements yet made on the future of Germany, an official of the British military government said the third reich is to be decentralized. The political and administrative power hitherto concentrated in Berlin will be taken over by the great industrial, maritime, and agricultural provinces.

Col. B. K. Thomas of the operations and planning department of the British military government, said, however, the reich would not be dismembered in the crude sense of the term.

Control 18,000,000 Germans

When the British take over the area of occupation finally agreed upon there will be 2,000 military government officials controling about 18,000,000 Germans.

Free German refugees in Britain and elsewhere will play their part in this military government.

One such refugee already is occupying an important post at 21st army group headquarters.

"The exact boundaries of the area of British occupation of the reich are not yet finally delineated," Col. Thomas, a former London stockbroker, declared.

"These matters are still under political consideration at a very high level. But in general the British area, spread over what was once Prussia, includes part of the Rhine province west of the river and the provinces of Westphalia, Hanover and Schleswig-Holstein."

Nazis Draw $30 a Month

IN GERMANY, May 20 (AP)—The American military government froze the financial assets of nazi leaders today and limited them to $30 a month for living expenses.

Their safety deposit boxes were sealed and institutions which yielded the nazi income must make future payments into the frozen bank balances.

Lt. Col. Charles L. Prather, staff financial expert for the 15th [occupation] army, explained:

"Our immediate purpose is simply to take hold of the assets to be sure they are not hidden or dissipated before legal claims can be determined."

No attempt has been made to deal with the return of property stolen from occupied territories or assets confiscated from victims of discriminatory nazi laws.

"Restitution will come later and much of it will be handled by civilian courts of a reconstituted Germany which probably will be swamped with litigation for the next 100 years," Prather said.

Exempt Germans Get $100

Germans not on the American list for mandatory arrest and financial freezing are allowed to withdraw from their banks sums up to 1,000 marks [$100 at the occupation rate] monthly for living expenses instead of the 300 marks allowed the nazi "upper class."

Most German tax laws will be retained, Prather said, but those discriminating on the basis of race, creed, or political opinion "are being suspended or abrogated to the extent necessary to eliminate such discrimination."

Prather predicted that pensions "in most cases" would stop for former loyal servants and militarists of the nazi reich.

"Exceptions will be that the old pensions may be continued when they are given for disabilities affecting ability to work and when they have been awarded to dependent widows or orphans. But there will be no government support of a traditional military caste," he explained.

TENSION GROWS IN DISPUTE TO RULE TRIESTE

Allied Envoys May Quit Belgrade

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, May 19 [Delayed]—(AP)—American and British diplomatic and civilian personnel in Yugoslavia were alerted by their embassies today to prepare for the eventuality of immediate evacuation as tension mounted in the dispute over the port of Trieste.

As another indication of the critical situation created by Marshal Tito's rejection of allied demands to withdraw Yugoslav troops from Trieste, British and Americans were warned by their embassies to avoid any action which might cause personal clashes.

The best opinion, however, indicated that any evacuation—which apparently would take place only if the situation reached the point of open conflict—would be unnecessary. Allied diplomats still are hopeful of finding a friendly solution.

No Agreement Reached

Evacuation plans came immediately on the heels of information that Field Marshal Alexander had informed his command in the Mediterranean theater in a special message of the factors involved in the dispute and his revelation that an agreement with Tito had not been reached.

At the time the British military negotiations here with Tito broke off, a government source said that an agreement had been reached on the basis of Tito's demands that his troops remain in Trieste while giving the allies the use of the port.

[The allies insist that the port is needed to supply their troops in the occupation of southern Austria.]

Meanwhile, the Yugoslav agency Tanyug carried Tito's reply to Alexander's message to his troops.

"Displeasure and Surprise"

"I cannot help displaying displeasure and surprise," Tanyug quoted Tito as saying, "at such an impossible comparison in which the presence of Yugoslav troops in the Istria and Slovenian coastland is likened to the methods of occupations of Hitler, Mussolini and Japan."

Alexander had said that Tito apparently intended to back Yugoslav claims to parts of northwestern Italy and southern Austria by force, an action which would be "all too reminiscent of Hitler, Mussolini and Japan."

Headquarters Moves Out

TRIESTE, May 20 (AP)—Marshal Tito's commanders moved their main headquarters out of Trieste last night following the sharp exchange of statements between Tito and Field Marshal Alexander but there was not the slightest relaxation of Yugoslav military control apparent in the city today. The removal was believed to be part of a general redisposition of Yugoslav troops.

During the morning, the Italian "Garibaldi" division, which has been fighting with the Yugoslav Partisans, was sent on parade thru Trieste to the Piazza del Unia.

Meanwhile, a food shortage so acute it may emerge as one of the determining factors in the dispute over Trieste hovered over the city.

Trieste has been cut off from its normal larder in Friuli province. The allied military government is unable to function in the city because of Tito's assumption of administrative control.

Yugoslav military authorities, it was understood, have made over-

PRAGUE NAZIS STILL BEING DUG OUT BY CZECHS

Reds to Train Army

LONDON, May 20 [Reuters]—The organization, armament and training of the new Czechoslovak armed forces will be identical with those of the Red army, Gen. Bohumil Bocek, Czechoslovak chief of staff, said today in a statement broadcast by Prague radio. "Our army, which is destined for fighting, will be formed and grow in battle, and the burocratic conception of an army living in barracks while millions of our brothers in arms, men of the Red army and of our other allies, are still fighting will be abandoned," said Gen. Bocek.

PRAGUE, May 20 (AP)—Occasional gunfire rattles in Prague streets as Russians and Czechs ferret German soldiers from cellars and attics 11 days after liberation of this capital. Only two days ago an exchange of shots in a cemetery interrupted a burial.

Otherwise Prague is recovering rapidly from the five days during which unarmed partisans grabbed guns and even tanks from startled Germans and held strategic parts of the city until the Russians arrived. It is officially estimated 1,900 partisans were killed. Many others are missing.

Prague turned out en masse to help tear down the barricades and clean the city for the dramatic return of President Eduard Benes May 15 after six years of exile. The job was too big for the thousands of German war prisoners and collaborators, including a Czechoslovak movie actress who was forced to sweep the street in a fur coat once given her by Gauleiter Konrad Henlein.

Goes Wild Over President

Prague went wild over Benes. He drove thru the streets in an open car, altho German snipers were still about. The president stopped in the center of the city where four German bombers, in a senseless last fling raid had destroyed nearly a dozen buildings, including the 14th century town hall whose famous clock, telling the hour, day, month, and year, was a "must" on tourist lists for years.

Several thousand German residents of Prague, who got fat during the six years of occupation, now exist on the food ration formerly allotted Jews. Food in Prague generally is skimpy due to transportation difficulties but there are no great shortages. Water, gas, electricity, and telephones were available even during the Partisan revolt. The tramways resumed operations when the barricades were removed.

Lidice to Be Rebuilt

PRAGUE, May 20 [Reuters]—Thirty miles to the northwest of this city there is a desolate, weed covered stretch of land. Three years ago it was a mining village of 200 families, near the Klando coal mine and its name was Lidice, the martyrdom of which was world news in 1942.

Because the villagers would not betray allied parachutists, the full fury of German hate was unleashed and the village was pounded into the ground by dive-bombers, artillery, and tanks. Every man found in the village was executed, and the women and children were thrown into concentration camps.

But Lidice is to be rebuilt. The Czech authorities have drawn up plans and a search is being made for the surviving women and children who were taken away while their husbands and brothers were massacred.

'GOOD, GENTLE, KIND' NAZI HELD FOR WAR CRIMES

Admits He Had Job at Atrocity Camp

WITH U. S. 30TH INFANTRY DIVISION IN GERMANY, May 20 (AP)—Twisting his small, neatly uniformed body in nervous desperation, Karl Voelkner sat in the middle of a room at this division's counter-intelligence corps headquarters and protested passionately that he was a good, kind, gentle German.

Finally the disgusted CIC men interrupted and asked him one question.

Yes, he admitted in a faltering voice, he was an SS obersturmfuehrer and he was commander of the SS [elite guard] company which guarded the infamous Buchenwald concentration camp.

He tried again to protest his complete innocence. But like bored interrogators at a police lineup the CIC men broke in with more questions.

Yes, Voelkner continued, it was true that thousands of prisoners at Buchenwald had been tortured and cremated, that thousands more had been starved or experimented on with brutal "medical tests," that lamp shades had been made from human skin, that countless other unbelievable atrocities had been perpetrated there. Yes, it was all true.

"No, No! Not Me!"

Suddenly he seemed to realize where the slow, inexorable questioning would lead and he squirmed anew with frantic fear.

"No, no! Not me, not me!" he whispered hoarsely, adding that his SS men were merely guards, that the horrors of Buchenwald had been committeed by a headquarters company, that he was always "in trouble" with the camp commandant because he was "too soft."

Voelkner was discovered by the 30th's CIC men in Schierke hospital near Halberstadt, disguised as a wehrmacht officer. The first thing he said after his arrest was that he had nothing to do with the horrors of any camp he had guarded.

In fact, he said, once when he took over a small camp of 1,500 Jewish slaves near Leitmeritz, Czechoslovakia, he actually improved conditions. He said that when he arrived things were so brutal that he realized the Jews soon all would be dead and he would be out of a job. So, he said, he eased things up so that not so many died each day as before.

Evidence Mounts Up

Even as he talked the evidence slowly built up against him.

He joined the SS forces in 1932 and was such a "good" chieftain that in 1940 he was given command of one of the infamous SS totenkopf [Death's Head] battalions to guard concentration camps. That was when he was first sent to Buchenwald—but nothing which happened there was his fault, he repeated.

The counter-intelligence corps men had heard that song before.

They listed what evidence he had given, labeled his case "attention war crimes," and ordered him shipped on back.

Voelkner moved out in short, mechanical steps under guard, his eyes jerking furtively from face to face to see how much impression his plea of innocence had made.

GERMANS HAND OVER MARSHAL SCHOERNER TO U. S. 42D DIVISION

ST. JOHANN, Austria, May 20 (AP)—The German 1st army today turned over to the American 42d division Field Marshal Ferdinand Schoerner, commander of the nazi troops who resisted the Red army in Czechoslovakia after Germany's unconditional surrender.

Schoerner flew out of Czechoslovakia on May 8, deserting his troops in the field, and sought refuge with the German 1st army group. Schoerner had abandoned his uniform and donned a Tyrolean native costume as a disguise in an effort to elude capture. He thought he had reached safety when he got to a German army command post, but the soldiers there turned him over to the Americans.

Meanwhile the hunt for Heinrich Himmler continued in southern Austria. An armored automobile identified as belonging to the former gestapo chieftian was found near Neukirchen, south of Kitzbuhel.

10 STORY RAID SHELTERS NOW ARE HOSPITALS

HAMBURG, Germany, May 20 (AP)—Elaborately equipped 10 story air raid shelters built for the Nazis by slave labor are being used as hospitals for wounded and shocked Germans in this bomb-battered port city. The largest is a black painted vault of thousands of tons of concrete. It required 15 months to build and another three months to install machinery for electricity, air conditioning, and water supply. Mounted on top of the shelter are four twin barreled heavy anti-aircraft cannon and other lighter cannon. Three sets of elevators carried shells to the gun positions during air attacks.

Eighty nurses and five doctors are usually on duty in the complete hospital unit taking up a part of three floors. The wards hold 200 beds and 100 more could be placed in the halls.

The largest shelter could accommodate 10,000 persons comfortably during a raid. A block away from the main structure is another, lacking hospital facilities, but also capable of housing 10,000 persons.

LEOPOLD UNABLE TO BE MOVED, DOCTOR REPORTS

LONDON, May 20 [Reuters]—King Leopold of Belgium is suffering from acute heart trouble and is unable to move about, a statement signed by the king's physician, and broadcast by Brussels radio said today.

A United States medical officer and a specialist have been called in, the radio added.

[Immediately after his liberation from captivity in Germany, King Leopold wrote to his brother, Prince Charles, who in September last year became prince regent, asking him to continue as regent. The king explained his health would not allow him to take up the royal functions. He now is staying at Sankt Wolfang in Austria.]

D. M. DEININGER DIES; RETIRED TRIBUNE AUDITOR

Helped Paper's Growth Thru 30 Years

Daniel M. Deininger, retired auditor and controler of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, died early today in Passavant hospital. He was 75. Mr. Deininger suffered a heart attack last Thursday on his farm, Mardan Woods, near Prairie View, Lake county.

A GREAT INFLUENCE

Daniel M. Deininger was one of the pillars in The Tribune organization for nearly 30 years. As auditor and controler, he had charge of the paper's finances, and his judgment and counsel played a substantial part in the great period of THE TRIBUNE'S development and expansion. Patience and friendliness were two of the Deininger characteristics and his personal influence in The Tribune family was great. Many employes took their individual business problems to him and never found him too busy to give them skilled advice.

Mr. Deininger, known to his associates as D. M., came of old Pennsylvania Dutch stock. He was born in Palmyra, Pa., May 2, 1870. He was educated in Palmyra, and as a youth went to Omaha where he worked for an oil company. Later he became cashier of a bank in Cozad, Neb., and then went to Buffalo, N. Y., where he was auditor of the street railway system.

Modernized Accounts

Col. Robert R. McCormick editor and publisher of THE TRIBUNE, who had been elected president of the Chicago sanitary district in 1905, met Deininger in Buffalo, and was so impressed with his reputation and character that he brought Deininger to the sanitary board as auditor and controler. D. M. introduced the latest modern accounting system in public office.

Deininger was brought to THE TRIBUNE Oct. 20, 1913, by Col. McCormick who had then assumed charge of the business side of the paper. At that time the bookkeeping, as was normal with most newspapers in those days, was primitive. Deininger organized a modernized accounting system and business system, and also had charge of collections. His influence and activities ranged beyond bookkeeping and accounting into that of administration. As subsidiaries of THE TRIBUNE were formed, he took a hand in their organization and management.

THE TRIBUNE acquired the paper mill in Thorold, Ont., in 1912. This was done to assure a stable source of newsprint and to avoid the possibility of a paper shortage. Deininger, under Col. McCormick, took a leading part in organizing the Ontario Paper company, and as auditor and controler managed it. It was during this period that THE TRIBUNE acquired from the government of Quebec control of large holdings of pulpwood timberlands along the north shore of the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

Genius Is Displayed

Deininger's business genius was displayed in the expansion of THE TRIBUNE'S newsprint ventures as the years went by and the newspaper's requirements grew—ventures that included the building of towns, a hydroelectric plant, roads, modernizing the mills, the organizing of THE TRIBUNE'S extensive fleet of pulpwood and paper boats.

In a talk in 1929, Deininger remarked that in 1912 under a new scientific financial policy the first Tribune subsidiary—the newsprint enterprise—was formed, and that by 1928 the various subsidiaries then operating had an income and turnover greater than that of The Tribune parent company in 1912. Deininger had charge of the business end in all the subsidiaries.

Deininger's associates, who held him in great affection, say that under him there was never a defalcation, never a mistake of importance and that his financial genius was matched by his tact and diplomacy. In the last 15 years, D. M. as a sort of older statesman in the Tribune Tower, was an integral part of all the paper's activities.

For years he took an active hand as a director of the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., and took deep personal interest in the allotment of the funds among various benevolent organizations.

Was a Director

His wife, the former Mary C. Storgeon, who was born in Kincardine, Canada, died in April, 1937, when they had been married 48 years. They had no children. Mr. Deininger retired from active work, May 18, 1942, on a pension, and a year later was elected a director of The Tribune company, the New York Daily News, and affiliated companies to take the place of the late E. S. Beck, former managing editor and assistant editor in chief.

Col. McCormick remarked at the time that for 30 years he had been without a worry as to the finances of THE TRIBUNE, because D. M. took care of the financial side of the paper, not only in an accounting but in an administrative way.

Mr. Deininger lived at 1320 N. State st., and in his farm and country home at Palatine where, since his retirement, he had gone in for farming with a zest.

ANSWER OF LEBANON AND SYRIA TO FRANCE BRINGS DEADLOCK

BEYROUTH, Lebanon, May 20 [Reuters]—A deadlock in negotiations between France and the Syrian and Lebanese republics now seems unavoidable as a result of the answer of the two near eastern governments to French proposals. France claims a "preponderant position" in the two countries and continued control of their armies.

The answer was drafted at a meeting yesterday attended by the Syrian and Lebanese presidents.

Beyrouth as a whole is calm, altho the strike, which started Friday as a protest against arrival of fresh French troops, has been prolonged. Pamphlets, signed by youth movements, have been distributed, calling on the Lebanese to resist the French proposals.

Defense Law Passed

DAMASCUS, Syria, May 20 [Reuters]—The Syrian chamber of deputies yesterday passed a law for national defense. It provides for calling up of recruits and organization of the country's defense.

TENSION GROWS IN DISPUTE OVER RULE OF TRIESTE

tures to the allied authorities for permission to bring in food from the Padua area of Italy but it was not likely that this would be permitted.

Trieste Remains Calm

LONDON, May 20 [Reuters]—Trieste remained calm today, tho there were no signs in the city itself of the dispute over the port moving towards a solution, dispatches from the city reported.

Allied troops were moving peacefully thru the street beside strongly armed Slav patrols. Allied sentries standing over the transport parks were now bearing arms.

On the western shore of the Adriatic, the allied military authorities have ordered the Italian civil population to evacuate the whole coastal strip in the region of Rimini, according to notices posted thruout the town by the Italian authorities. Some 25,000 people are involved.

No reason was given for the evacuation, but it was considered significant, the dispatch said, that this strip is directly opposite Pola, naval port at the southernmost tip of the Istrian peninsula and 50 miles south of Trieste.

Householders to Register

Householders in Trieste have been ordered by a new decree issued by Marshall Tito's liberation committee to register within 48 hours all apartments occupied either by the Yugoslav forces or by the allies. Empty apartments are also to be registered.

Attended by what was described as "156 elected delegates" a meeting was held in Trieste, said the Yugoslav telegraph agency, to elect the executive national liberation committee, which will conduct the city's civil administration.

The assembly chose 106 members to form the "consulta," representing all nationalities and classes in Trieste. The consulta will in turn choose it executive committee, which will have administrative and executive authority.

YIELD IN CARINTHIA

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune]

LONDON, May 20—Without announcing Yugoslavia's future claims, Marshal Tito's forces have withdrawn from Austrian Carinthia, leaving that territory to Field Marshal Alexander's troops as demanded by the allies. The withdrawal first reported by the Yugoslav press and radio was confirmed in London tonight.

Altho Yugoslav troops have retired from Carinthia, political conquest of that territory is already under way. The Belgrade newspaper Borba quoted by the Yugoslav radio, said that the Yugoslav government had requested that the Yugoslav army be taken into consideration in the occupation of Carinthia. Borba said the "Soviet union has approved this demand of our government."

However, Borba continued, forces of the western powers occupied a greater part of Carinthia and demanded a withdrawal of the Yugoslav troops. A withdrawal was made.

Later the Yugoslav radio announced that the local national liberation committee — that is, local branches of the Tito movement — had been established "in all areas of Carinthia" and that comprehensive elections were held for a regional liberation committee in the Klagenfurt region.

HINT PLEBISCITE FOR ITALIANS ON FRENCH BORDER

MILAN, Italy, May 20 (AP)—Possibilities of a plebiscite to transfer the Val d'Aosta border region to France were discussed today among the French patois speaking Italians of the area after French government circles in Paris reported the mixed Italian-French population had "given voluntary manifestations" of a desire for French citizenship.

Approximately 100,000 residents of the rich Val d'Aosta area speak a French patois and French Alpinists were reported encouraging the plebiscite by offering favorable monetary exchange rates and tax exemption promises.

Italians sought to counter the movement with promises of greater autonomy for the region.

ZEISS OPTICAL OPERATES AGAIN —FOR THE ALLIES

JENA, Germany, May 20 (AP)—The world famous Zeiss optical works and its glass making subsidiary, Schott und Gen, are operating again—producing for the allies.

American M. P.s as well as German guards wearing auxiliary police bands watch every entrance to the complex buildings. Capt. William Linder said United States army ordnance now is ordering "just about everything Zeiss used to make."

The Zeiss catalogue list included lenses, range finders, binoculars, microscopes, stereoscopes, ophthalmoscopes, micrometer gages, and dial depth indicators.

YANKS CLOSE IN UPON OKINAWA'S SHURI CITADEL

Make Gains on 3 Sides of Fortress

greatest American gains for all last week in the slow, tough battle approximated 800 to 1,000 yards.

Bombers sank a medium freighter and two small freighters in waters around Korea yesterday. A number of landing craft were damaged.

Search planes attacked Kokutan on Shimushu in the northern Kurile Islands with bombs and rockets Friday. Liberators of the 11th army air force bombed Kataoka naval base on Shimushu the same day.

In continued mopping up operations on Iwo Island, the Marianas Islands, and the Palau Islands, 141 Japanese were killed and 167 captured in the week ended May 12.

Held Up at River

WITH THE 10TH ARMY ON OKINAWA, May 20 (AP)—Marines and doughboys of the 10th army continued to batter the Shuri line yesterday, scorching part of the capital city of Naha.

Marines still were unable to cross the Asato river as the Japanese resisted with machine guns and artillery. To the east doughboys were busy mopping up enemy forces behind the American lines.

A small hill, which has been designated Charley hill, in the neighborhood of Conical hill, has been holding up the advance. Rockets of the enemy trapped behind the lines yesterday forced the 77th division to move up supplies by tanks.

The 383d regiment of the 96th division has control of Conical peak and Maj. Thomas Roumell, Detroit, Mich., said his men were looking down on Yonabaru, east coast town and anchor for the Shuri line, 700 yards away.

Yonabaru, like Naha, has been virtually leveled by artillery and naval gunfire.

Repulse Counter-Attack

Just before dawn yesterday the Japanese launched a counter-attack on the north side of the Asato river at Naha, but the 6th marines were waiting for them and pushed them back. Twenty-two Japanese were killed and four machine guns destroyed. The marines have come to call this area "Brooklyn."

The 305th regiment of the 77th division spent yesterday in a number of caves around Dakeshi village just before Shuri after spending the night under heavy mortar and artillery fire. The Nipponese fired nearly 400 rounds during the night.

Tanks flanked Dierk hill, an enemy strongpoint, to put direct fire on the reverse slope. The enemy knocked out three American tanks. First Lt. James R. Green of Albany, N. Y., was in one tank which was hit.

"The inside of the tank looked as if a million Roman candles were exploding at once," Green said. He was not hurt.

"We've stopped some of that Japanese stuff that way," said Marine Lt. Col. Robert L. Dening of Washington, D. C., commander of the 6th armored battalion. Dening related seeing four tanks hit and saved by armor on the front slope.

Tanks on Okinawa are being used as mobile pillboxes, working their way around hills to reverse slopes.

"In doing this," said Dening, "it makes us a sitting duck."

Most tankmen want more armor rather than speed in tanks, and, like Dening, voice a preference for the 75 mm. gun mounted on their turrets.

Some American tanks have taken a beating as 105 mm. guns thundered down on them from Shuri heights. During a recent assault on the northern outskirts of Naha, the enemy concentrated most of its artillery and mortar fire directly on the tanks.

Blast Naha Prison

Two Japanese bombers raided the Yontan area last night but there were no known American casualties.

Corsairs from a marine squadron, using bombs in addition to rockets and machine gun fire, blasted Naha prison, one of the few buildings still standing in the Okinawa capital. The prison was believed to have been a storehouse.

Three fighters commanded by Maj. Robert White, Clarion, Ia., downed one Japanese Tony each. They included Lt. Raymond A. Holzwart, Brookfield, Ill.

Base for Death Blow

Okinawa will become the base for the death blow at the Japanese empire, Lieut. Gen. Buckner, 10th army commander, told a military radio audience today.

The general spoke at the dedication of radio Okinawa, a 50-watt armed forces service setup which began transmission to the troops in this area today.

"Opening of this radio station," said Buckner, "constitutes another landmark in the development of a long-neglected island and affords cheerful means to bring us more closely in touch with each other and the rest of the world."

SAFE WITH $1,120 STOLEN

Burglars broke into the Co-Operative Food store, 1750 North av., yesterday and stole a 500 pound safe containing $1,120, and checks and money orders totaling $467, the owner, William Hargrove, 929 Oakdale av., reported to police.

FORMER BRITON WHO BROADCAST FOR NAZIS TAKEN

WITH THE U. S. 3D ARMY IN AUSTRIA, May 20 (AP)—Norman Baillie-Stewart, cashiered lieutenant in the Seaforth Highlanders who became a German citizen and broadcast Nazi propaganda to Britain from Hamburg, has been taken into custody by the United States 80th infantry, which found the renegade Briton in a luxurious mountain hideout at Alt Aussee, Austria.

The Britisher possibly would have escaped detection, authorities said, had he not offered his services as an interpreter to the military government.

MARINES CLEAN OUT OUTSKIRTS OF RUINED NAHA

BY THOMAS MORROW

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

OKINAWA, May 19 [Delayed]—From a ridge 400 yards north of the Asato river, Naha sprawls along the coast line with gloomy shattered walls and rubble predominating the scene. To the left and slightly to the rear is Shuri castle, a heavily fortified concrete structure atop a rocky ridge.

Marines of the 6th division are working warily thru the ruined outskirts north of the river, cleaning it out preparatory to an all-out Naha assault. Occasionally marines can be seen moving on a house and the tap-tap of small arms follows the approach.

South of the Asato are the Japanese housed in trenches and caves. Thru glasses one or two can be seen moving from one building to another.

Guns Pound Bidge

A thousand yards south of the Asato is a ridge standing guard between the Americans and the bay and an estuary that cuts into main Naha. It is pitted with caves Japanese artillery fire has come from there, and our guns lambast it continuously, sending up showers of red rock and dirt.

The marines are disturbed over reports that large bodies of their troops have crossed the Asato without opposition. Illustrative of their feeling is a telephone call to Pvt. William Schultz, Duluth, Minn., asking that he take a look at a certain point in the city.

"I'll try," he answers. "But every time I put my head up they shoot at me."

Duel of Artillery

This was no overstatement. Machine gun bullets were whining over the ridge top like irritated hornets. Ruined concrete buildings surrounded the observation post where Lt. Kenneth Baugh, Billings, Mont., crouched with Schultz.

On the coast an armored amphibian unit was working over the Naha ridge caves. In a foxhole along the beach Lt. Col. Louis Metzger, commander of the outfit, watched the results. The adjusting round hit below the cave line.

"Up 400, right 50," Lt. Robert A. Fish, Eugene, Ore., droned into the field phone.

The next round, fired for effect, scattered fire and earth along the cave line. This apparently angered the Japanese. An artillery air burst nudged the immediate area. When the next shell hit it was well behind.

HOME OF LISZT INTACT DESPITE WEIMAR RAIDS

WEIMAR, Germany, May 20 (AP)—The home of Franz Liszt is practically intact altho a blockbuster bomb fell only a few feet from it during an allied air raid.

Some of the composer's manuscripts were removed to a bank safe after the first bombings of Weimar.

The piano where the Hungarian born genius wrote his rhapsodies and concertos is in tune. Many American soldiers have visited the Liszt home.

REDS CRITICIZE U. S., BRITAIN IN DOENITZ 'DEAL'

Ask End of 'Dangerous Political Game'

High Nazi in England

LONDON, May 21 [Monday] (AP) — The Daily Mail said today that Arthur Seyss-Inquart, former Nazi high commissioner in Holland, has been brought by plane to England for questioning. Seyss-Inquart, captured by the Canadian 1st army, heads a list of war criminals compiled by the Dutch government.

New York, May 20 (A)—Moscow commentators, calling for an end of "the dangerous political game" of dealing with the "ersatz Doenitz government," questioned today why some Nazi war criminals "have not been caught for some reason or other" by Anglo-American military authorities.

Adm. Doenitz

Soviet newspaper comment, transmitted by the Russian Tass news agency, also reviewed the allies' handling of the "Doenitz incident" and asked, "How do they prepare to punish the Hitlerite criminals?"

Public Indignation Cited

The soviet writer B. Ilyin, in an Izvestia article, said that "a large group of the basest and most dangerous organizers of the sanguinary Hitlerite regime" had been seized or had given themselves up, but that "still others keep playing hide and seek with allied military authorities; tho the net seems to have been drawn around them, nevertheless they have not been caught for some reason or other." Ilyin's reference apparently was to the fact that Gestapo Chief Himmler had not yet been arrested.

Ilyin's article conceded that Doenitz' German "government" had been deprived of its radio station and that other measures had been taken as a result of public "indignation" in the United States and Britain.

Assails Contradictions

The assurances given by allied authorities, Ilyin asserted, "proved to be conflicting, equivocal, and contradictory" As an instance, Ilyin said that Lt. Gen. Lucius D. Clay, Gen. Eisenhower's deputy military governor for occupied Germany, stated that Doenitz and Reichsmarshal Goering were kept as "war prisoners" but the same day, Eisenhower's headquarters announced that Doenitz and his associates were "temporarily used" for the fulfilment of some administrative functions in Germany.

Asserting that Eisenhower had gone to London "presumably to confer with Prime Minister Churchill and Field Marshal Montgomery about the Doenitz incident," Ilyin then asked:

"How do they prepare to punish the Hitlerite criminals? The official order has been issued to treat them as war prisoners. . . . Whether this order applies to Doenitz is not specified."

OSLO COMPLAINS GERMANS STILL HOLD ITS HOMES

OSLO, Norway, May 20 (AP)—Norwegian government and allied military officials have received complaints from Oslo citizens against the presence of armed Germans in the capital one week after the date selected for their departure to concentration areas.

There are 40,000 Germans in Norway and they have been treated with kid gloves so as not to incite any disturbances. Farmers in the Oslo area reported that fully armed Germans are visiting their homes and demanding food.

According to the agreement, all Germans should have evacuated May 12. Every day horse-drawn German caravans leave the city, but many Germans still remain. In Oslo, German officers remain in the homes which they took over during the occupation.

Danes Feel Confident Reds Will Return Isle

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, May 20 [Reuters]—Negotiation for withdrawal of Russian forces from the island of Bornholm will be conducted by direct contact between Copenhagen and Moscow and not by Christmas Moeller, foreign minister, and his three ministerial colleagues. Observers here are increasingly confident that the Baltic Island will be restored to Denmark.

Japanese Prince, Member of Privy Council, Dies

San Francisco, May 20 (AP)—The death of Prince Kotohito Kan-In, 80, a field marshal of Japan and a member of the privy council, was announced by the Nippon imperial household department today. Radio Tokyo reported the death.

G I Joe in the Pacific

KUNMING, China—"What Kunming has most of," said Flight Officer Alvin Kilberg as the homemade bus plowed thru the crowds on the tree lined Burma road into Kunming, "is people. You never saw so many people. There is hardly room for them to squat."

The road crawled with people, marching soldiers, coolies with loads of vegetables, rickshas in which merchants reclined grandly, two wheeled rubber tired carts pulled by tiny ponies, a gaudy crepe paper funeral procession, bicycles with their tinkling bells.

Charley, the Chinese bus driver, kept one hand on the horn. He had lots of luck clearing a path except when he came to a battered Chinese army truck. Chinese army truck drivers, like Chicago cabbies, won't yield for anybody.

"Change Your Money?"

Charley stopped the bus near the fanciest building in town, the eight month old streamlined Red Cross building. Al Kilberg, 5510 N. Marmora av., Chicago, and the rest of the ATC fliers and ground men pulled out.

Their feet barely hit the street before sleezy characters who looked as tho they never had a cent, sidled up and whispered: "Change your money? Six fifty." They meant they would trade 650 Chinese dollars for one American. Three months ago they were offering 400.

"Seven hundred," said Al, grown wise in five months of Kunming life. The money changer faded but others took his place. At last one motioned Al inside a cubbyhole and pulled out a six inch thick pad of hundred dollar bills, Chinese. Nearby a merchant was dickering with the shopkeeper. He carried his money in a suitcase.

Al emerged with 14,000 Chinese dollars. That's a lot of money, except Billy's, the favorite restaurant of GIs, soaked him 2,000 dollars for a steak and French fries.

Luxury Stuff Abounds

Once Al wondered at the shops, full of silks and satins, silver jewelry, Underwood typewriters, Leica cameras, and American fountain pens. He used to ask prices. Then he found a fountain pen sold for upwards of 50,000 dollars, Chinese—about 70 dollars American. No Chinese could afford to buy at such prices and Americans go in only for souvenirs.

But then Al took a ricksha to Yunan college—500 dollars please. the coolie demanded—and inside the 10 foot thick walls that guard the college Al got a lesson in wealth in the midst of poverty. Every student was busy making Chinese characters—with American fountain pens.

FILIPINOS SEIZE LUZON AIR FIELD NEAREST CHINA

MANILA, May 21 [Monday]—(AP) Guerrillas under Col. Robert Arnold broke the Japanese grip on Ilocos Norte province on the tip of northwestern Luzon and captured an important air field. Lt. Jose Llanes, acting provincial commander, said the guerrillas seized the airdrome at Gabu, closest Philippine field to China. The drome is already being used by the United States 5th air force.

Japanese casualties for the seven-months Philippines campaign total 369,818 killed and captured, Gen. MacArthur announced today.

He said 13,886 Nipponese dead had been counted and 602 prisoners taken in the last two weeks on Mindanao and Luzon Islands.

In the Mindanao fighting, where American divisions have cut the Japanese garrison into three segments, the 24th division north of Davao City advanced two miles past the Sasa airdrome and entered the town of Panacan.

Filipinos Make Landing

The 31st division in the interior of Mindanao pushed three miles north along the central highway to within 11 miles of Malabalay, capital of Bukidnon province.

The 43d division, captor of Ipo dam east of Manila on Thursday, has opened the highway from Novaliches to the dam, which supplies one-third of Manila's water needs.

Filipino guerrilla units have landed at Dinahican point six miles from Infanta, on the Luzon east central coast, and pushed seven miles northward in a move to catch the Japanese from the rear.

Plane Sinks Five Ships

MacArthur reported the extraordinary success of a single American plane which destroyed a convoy of three Japanese freighter-transports and two freighters, aggregating 17,000 tons, in a 75 minute attack off Keeling, on the north coast of Formosa.

American bombers pounded Formosa air bases, industrial plants, and communication lines with 286 tons of explosives and in low level sweeps destroyed much rolling stock. Two bombers were lost in the attacks.

YANKS' FIGHTING OVER IN BURMA; TO SUPPLY CHINA

Gen. Sultan Takes Over Service Command

CALCUTTA, India, May 20 (AP)—American operations in the Burma-India theater were entering a new phase today, with emphasis on delivery of supplies to China and diminishing combat efforts by United States troops.

Signalizing the change was the announcement of the consolidation of the headquarters of the India-Burma theater and the headquarters of the services of supply. Both will be under the command of Lt. Gen. Sultan, American commander in chief in the theater.

It is unlikely that either Chinese or American troops will be used again for combat in Burma. They have been inactive the last six weeks, while the British 14th army carried the weight of the Rangoon drive.

Covell Returns to U. S.

Maj. Gen. William E. R. Covell, service of supply commander, is returning to the United States for a new assignment, it was announced. The consolidation move which has been under way for several weeks is designed to set up a more efficient administrative unit and release personnel needed urgently elsewhere.

Our most important mission will continue to be the giving of maximum support to China," Sultan said. "Every vehicle, every ton of supplies delivered to China will aid in licking the Japs."

The increasing emphasis on movement of supplies is a logical result of the opening of the Burma road, prime objective of United States ground fighters from the beginning.

Calcutta Main Feeder

India and Burma remain vital transit routes for shipment of supplies to China, on the ground, in the air, and by pipe line. Calcutta is the principal supply port for China. It is likely to remain so, even with Rangoon in allied hands. Calcutta is organized and functioning as a supply fount, while considerable renovations must take place in Rangoon.

Covell assumed command of the services of supply in the India-Burma theater in 1943. Since then Calcutta has become one of the most efficient ports in the American supply service, the pipe line has been extended into Burma and the Stilwell road has been completed.

Battle Scene Shifts

ADVANCED HDG., Burma, May 20 [Reuters]—The main battlefield in Burma has shifted to the eastern Shan states, where the Japanese today are fighting grimly for their escape roads to Thailand.

The British army has made little progress in the area in the last week and the official weekly review of operations predicts heavy fighting before Burma is swept clear.

Tell of Sinking Cruiser

LONDON, May 21 [Monday]—(AP)—A southeast Asia command bulletin today announced that the sinking of a Japanese cruiser of the 10,000 ton Nati class in Malacca straits the night of May 15 was accomplished at the cost of two dead and three wounded aboard the British destroyer Saumarez.

A Japanese destroyer was damaged.

The British admiralty had announced the action Friday, saying aircraft from the British carrier Shah first hit the enemy cruiser and that five destroyers followed up the strike and sank her with torpedoes.

Milan Papers Demand Cabinet Reorganization

ROME, May 20 (AP) — Milan newspapers today demanded immediate action on the promised reorganization of the Italian government. Milan's Socialist party newspaper Italia Libera called for a new government "immediately, within two or three days, not within three months." Members of Premier Bonomi's cabinet are touring northern Italy, and discussions may begin this week toward the reorganization.

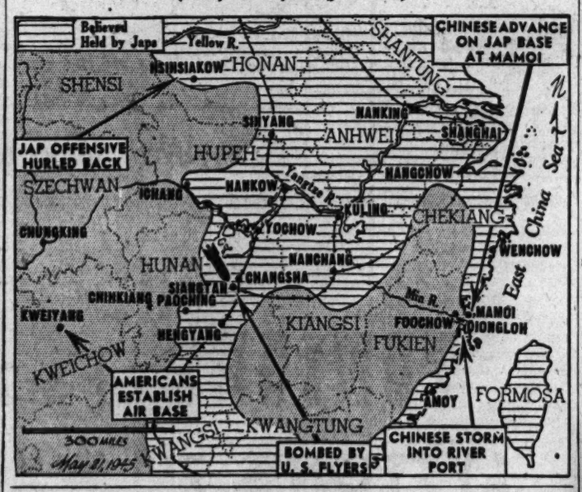
Chinese Pursue Fleeing Japs

(Story in adjoining column)



CHINESE SEIZE PORT 15 MILES FROM FOOCHOW

CHUNGKING, China, May 20 (AP)—A second port has been seized by Chinese troops in pursuit of Japanese fleeing by land and sea from Foochow, the high command announced today.

Approximately 200 enemy troops who tried to make a stand were mowed down as the Chinese stormed yesterday into Diongloh, a Min river port 15 miles southeast of Foochow, the announcement said.

The Chinese drove on three miles east and also were heading northeast in an attempt to pin the Japanese against the sea.

Across the Min river other Chinese forces broke Japanese resistance and were nearing Mamoi, eight miles east of Foochow and one of a half dozen points in the area which the enemy had fortified against an American invasion.

Win 4 Day Battle

These latest successes tended to bolster rumors in Chungking that the Japanese were pulling out of numerous coastal position all the way from Hangchow bay, 650 miles southwestward to Hongkong, fearing they would be turned into pockets of death with an American landing.

The report came close on the heels of a high command claim that a second Japanese offensive in inner China within a month had been hurled back after a four day battle 400 miles northeast of Chungking.

Japs Flee; Leave Supplies

The high command made no claim that the battle was as decisive as that which chewed to bits the Japanese assault force which tried to seize the United States air base at Chihkiang.

But from May 15 to May 18, its announcement said, the battle swayed west of the enemy's southern Honan province base of Hsihsiakow, and when it was over the Japanese fled, abandoning great stores of supplies.

DECATUR YANK'S QUICK SHOOTING SAVES HIS LIFE

SOMEWHERE IN THE PACIFIC [Delayed]—Split second shooting by Marine Pvt. Roscoe M. Brown of Decatur, Ill., saved his life when a Jap at Iwo Island attempted to throw a grenade into his foxhole.

Pvt. Brown looked up one night from his foxhole to see a Jap silhouetted in the light of a flare. "The Jap tried to get out of the light as quickly as possible," said Brown. "He hit the deck, throwing himself in my direction, and the first thing I knew he was almost on top of me."

Brown said he fired instantly at point blank range with his carbine and the Jap slumped to the ground. Next morning he found that the Jap clutched a grenade from which the pin had been removed.

YANKS HARVEST CROP OF 19 JAPS IN RICE GARDEN

4 Chicagoans Garner Cultivators

BY WALTER SIMMONS
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

MANILA, P. I., May 20—Four Chicagoans operating with a 38th division rifle company patrol northeast of Manila turned a Jap victory garden into the scene of defeat.

Feeling out the terrain in an effort to make a junction with a nearby company the patrol ran into 19 hard working Japs who were busily cultivating a rice field.

"We mowed 'em down as they ran for their weapons," said the Chicagoans—Lt. Bernard Tonning, platoon leader, 151 N. Leamington av.; Pvt. Gene Alisiani, 453 W. 14th st.; Pvt. Ben Kwiatkowski, 8832 Marquette av., and Pvt. Sam Ciccarelli, 1416 S. Green st.

In the 33d division area on northern Luzon Pvt. Paul Solomon, 1360 Estes av., Chicago, a battalion headquarters cook, left his pots and pans to go souvenir hunting.

Half way up a hill he bumped into six armed Japs. As quickly as he would drop an egg into a skillet he killed all six with his tommy gun before any had a chance to fire.

Elsewhere in this Illinois national guard division sector Pvt. Earl Boyd, Stoughton, Wis., a mortar gunner, stuck to his position under heavy fire, laying down a barrage of 300 rounds which killed 65 Japs and helped break up a heavy attack. Up ahead in a dangerous position directing fire was Tech. Sgt. Harry Kepford of Muskegon, Mich.

TAFT DENOUNCES RED INSISTENCE ON VETO POWERS

Rep. Sumner Demands End of Aid to Stalin

New York, May 20 [Special]—Russian insistence on a veto power over the use of force in a world organization and use of American aid by Russia to promote aggression were denounced by Sen. Taft [R., O.] and Rep. Sumner [R., Ill.] in addresses here today.

They spoke before a rally in City center sponsored by the American Polish congress of downstate New York and the coördinating committee of American Polish associations in the east. Three thousand persons attended.

Taft said retention by the big powers of a veto right on the use of force "makes almost impossible the establishment of an international law." This is so, he said, "since nothing can be law from which nations may exempt themselves."

Cites Last Peace

"The truth is that as long as vetoes are insisted upon there is no real will to peace," Taft asserted. He said that after the last war the five big nations would have been the United States, England, France, Italy, and Japan. Italy, he contended, would have vetoed any action against itself in Ethiopia, and Japan would have blocked action over its invasion of Manchuria.

"Not only is the organization helpless against the great powers themselves, but it is helpless against all of the satellites," he said. "For instance, if Bulgaria, with the consent of Russia, should attack Romania, Russia could veto any action against Bulgaria, and this might easily be arranged in advance."

Taft deplored Russia's action in determining boundaries in eastern Europe on what he called "the basis of power and not of justice." He said it was discouraging to note "the apparent intention of Russia to dominate the governments of Poland and other countries in eastern Europe."

He asserted that under present conditions he sees no reason why we should continue lend-lease to Russia.

Hard to Live Down

Rep. Sumner asserted that "furnishing American help for the subjugation of 110 million eastern Europeans is going to be hard for us to live down."

"After the foolhardy appeasement policy which France and England tried with Hitler, we should have known that the last one in the world to whom we should concede more world power and territory is a government operating like Hitler's," she said.

"After watching Stalin coöperate with Hitler we should have known that next to Hitler and the Japs Stalin was the last one to whom we should surrender the independence of other nations."

Rep. Sumner said the communist political machine is like the nazi political machine, except that it is more skilful, "using appealing democratic slogans instead of the master race slogans which would appeal to nobody but Germans."

New 'Munich' Parleys

She described the Tehran and Yalta conferences as "Munichs," and said, "We came away from Yalta having unintentionally condemned Polish independence to death, and also Yugoslavia's, with Latvia, Estonia, and Lithuania written off even without getting honorable mention.

"Yalta started all the smaller nations wondering which of them would be the next one to be thrown to the bear. And yet, it is a shock to hear that now thousands of innocent Polish men, women, and little children are being either killed or carried off to Russian slave labor in American trucks."

Rep. Sumner said it is not too late to secure the just peace "without which the age old dance of death will go on," but warned, "we must stop letting diplomatic Delilahs shear your Uncle Samson. We must institute a moral embargo which would outlaw the use of American power to promote injustice to foreign peoples."

DAY by DAY on the FARM by GAIL COMPTON

May 20, 1945

THE herdsman at the Wheaton farm wants to thank readers of the farm column for helping him out of a tight spot. He was trying to find names beginning with B so he could name the Angus calves expected to arrive this month. Stumped, he appealed for help and to date readers have sent in 442 names. He now has a wide list from which to choose.

The wet weather of early May will force farmers to demonstrate again that it takes a great deal to prevent them from working their fields and producing bumper crops. Farms now are so highly mechanized it is possible to do a tremendous amount of work in a short time and under difficulties.

Price of Machines

Farmers have been flooded out in May in recent years and have not planted corn until almost the middle of June. Yet they still harvested an enormous crop. Their machines are built to work under conditions which in the early days would keep a farmer at home. Because of the intense mechanization of the nation's farms a crop failure is almost unheard of and not likely to occur except under the most adverse weather conditions.

However, the farmer has not sold his soul to machines without paying a price. That price is the loss of the valuable habit of doing much of his work by hand. The farmer now counts so much on machines he neglects certain aspects of his farm which demand hand labor.

A good example of this is the spread of the wild mustard weed. This pest is becoming more prevalent every year. Almost every hayfield and roadside in the middle west is dotted with the golden weed. In the "good old days" the farmer thought nothing of getting out in his fields during his spare time and pulling the weeds by hand. It was part of his chores and it enabled him to keep the weeds from spreading.

Weeds Take Over

The farmer of today usually doesn't bother with weeds he can't cut by using his mowing machine. As a result the weeds are allowed to go to seed in ditches and grain and hayfields and spread everywhere.

The weeds are running away with the farms and not only are harming the grain and hay but their effect is seen on the animals. This year the sheep pelts at the Wheaton farm brought a low price because they were dirty and full of burdock and other weeds.

If farmers will get back into the practice of using their hands again they will find it pays big dividends.

The GARDEN by Ben Markland

THE advantages of fall plowing are being demonstrated by gardening conditions in the Chicago area this season. Gardeners who had their plots spaded or plowed last fall found time to disc or rake their topsoil during the warm weather of late March, then immediately planted lettuce, peas, spinach, radishes, onions, and other hardy vegetables.

The cool and rainy weather of April and May damaged few of these plantings, the only exceptions being in gardens in some low, poorly drained areas where standing water this month destroyed a few early vegetables.

Gardeners who did not have their plots plowed last fall or in late March or April this spring now find that the rainy weather of early May has prevented plowing so far this month, with the result that it may be June before some of these plots are ready for planting.

'I FREED SPAIN,' SAYS FRANCO; ATTACKS REDS

MADRID, Spain, May 20 [Reuters]—Gen. Franco in a speech at Valladolid today reaffirmed the strength of his Falangist movement which he said freed Spain from the horrors of its own civil war and the horrors of world conflict.

He attacked communism, and spoke scornfully of Spanish republican exiles.

Speaking at the conclusion of the National Agrarian congress, Franco said:

"Foreign maneuvers against our political unity have failed.

Refers to Birth of Movement

"Those unfortunate Spaniards who are authentic common criminals took with them abroad the loot of the civil war, and are now seeking among foreigners for enemies against their own country."

Franco referred to the birth of the Falangist movement at Valladolid, and said:

"The efficacy of the Falange is proved by the resurgence of Spain in every aspect, particularly in social improvements, in which Spain is among leading countries of the world."

Franco added that international events had confirmed the foresight of the Falangist movement, and that the communist attempt had failed after 25 years.

Party Hymn Sung

His speech was interrupted several times by shouts of "We want Franco, not Russia."

The main square of Valladolid was packed to hear Franco speak from the balcony of the town hall. The Falange party hymn was sung. The speech gave no hint of political changes in Spain.

In a brief speech to the agrarian congress, not delivered publicly, he said:

"Spain is not a dictatorship."

DANUBE STATES URGED TO FORM PRO-RED LEAGUE

New York, May 20 [Special]—Romanian Premier Groza, addressing a congress of Hungarian minority leaders at Cluj in the newly annexed province of Transylvania, urged the creation of an alliance of Danubian states under the general aegis of the soviet union, the soviet Tass agency said today.

"In the sphere of foreign policy," Groza was quoted as saying, "we want an alliance of Romania with all the neighboring peoples and in the first place with our powerful neighbor, the soviet union."

Howard Hume, 118 S. Union av., Dwight, Livingston county, told police that his automobile—a 1941 blue gray coupe—was stolen yesterday from the Chicago airport parking lot, 63d st. and Cicero av.

TOUR OF SPANISH PRISON BY PRESS BACKS CHARGES

MADRID, May 20 (AP)—An investigation of Spain's Nanclares de la Oca prison camp was made Friday by nine foreign newspaper men at the request of the Spanish ministry of interior.

The investigation was invited after Interior Minister Blas Perez issued a formal denial of an Associated Press dispatch dealing with conditions in the camp, terming it "an accumulation of falsehoods and absurdities." After a nine hour investigation of the camp the correspondents found nothing to show any foreigners had died as result of treatment. Many prisoners told them, however, that Spaniards had died.

However, conditions in the camp were such that the original statement that "floggings, insufficient food, forced labor and fascist salutes are still the order of the day" can be repeated.

SHOW GOERING'S 200 MILLION ART LOOT TO YANKS

Experts Catalog Scores of Famous Paintings

the shadowing was as inspired as anything Rembrandt ever did.

Hofer bought the latter from an art dealer in Paris shortly after the Nazis overran France. He paid 250,000 marks [then about the equivalent of $100,000] for it.

One of Last Canvases

"The painting was not signed by Rembrandt," Hofer related, "and Goering wasn't sure of its authenticity. I was, however, and I had to buy it in a hurry, for an agent of Hitler's was to call on the Paris art dealer the next day. It has been fully authenticated as one of the last canvases Rembrandt did, and is worth much more than I paid on Goering's behalf."

Concerning other purchases Hofer said, "When the Nazis went into Holland, Goering told me to hurry there and get everything I could. I said that every art collector in Germany would be on the same mission. Goering said, 'No, no, they won't. I won't let them.' He had his luftwaffe on guard against the others until I had obtained what he wanted."

The 10 Van Dycks in the collection included the famous ones of the duke of Richmond and the duchess of Hamilton.

Rubens' Crucifixion Scene

There were many of Rubens. The best, Hofer said, was one of the two panels from the Bath of Diana. The left panel is missing and its whereabouts is unknown. Other Rubens works shown were his superb crucifixion scene, the very sensuous Judith and Holofernes episode, and two little field scenes.

Hofer showed two portraits by Franz Hals, the outstanding one that of a priest done in 1614.

The Andrea del Sarto was a Madonna and Child depiction. Another canvas on the same subject was described by Hofer as being by an unidentified artist after a drawing by Leonardo da Vinci.

Roger van der Weyden was represented by several scriptural scenes, as were his pupils, Hans Memling and Gerard David. The Holbein and Masolino items also were on biblical subjects.

Two for La Pompadour

In a far different vein were two paintings by Boucher. The French artist did these about 1750 on a commission from Madame Pompadour. They showed some very torrid love making by a courtier and his paramour.

Cranach's pastoral and portrait works were among Goering's enthusiasms. There was the head of a child which he admired because the features resembled those of his young daughter, Edna.

Goering's guest book was on display in one room. It is a large book with heavy, solid silver binding. The first page has only one signature, that of Hitler. Among those on succeeding pages are Hess and Himmler, and there were also the names of the duke and duchess of Windsor, Herbert Hoover, and Charles Lindbergh.

Sleuths Hunt Nazi Loot

WITH THE BRITISH 2D ARMY, May 20 (AP)—Supreme headquarters has sent special sleuths thruout Germany to track down art treasures valued at $500,000,000 stolen by a vast Nazi organization created for the purpose of looting on an incredible scale, it was disclosed today.

Capt. Felix Harbord, a British member of SHAEF's 12 man commission of "monuments, fine arts, and archives," said much of the loot has already been recovered. Lists giving the location of the hidden treasures, some of it German art, have been found.

Find Hungarian Treasury

New York, May 20 (AP)—American troops have found and seized the Hungarian national treasury, totaling $800,000,000 by pre-war exchange rates, in a monastery in Spital, Austria, the French press agency [AFP] said tonight in a broadcast recorded by the federal communications commission. It was transferred from Budapest, AFP said, before the Russians arrived there.

FRENCH STRIKES NEARING CLIMAX; MORE WALK OUT

Expect Production to Suffer Heavily

BY DAVID DARRAH
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, May 20—The epidemic of French strikes appears likely to come to a head early this week and culminate in a period of prolonged social agitation.

Most government ministers remained at their desks today attempting to calm the growing unrest before the work week begins Tuesday.

Rene Pleven, minister of finance and national economy, and Alexandre Parodi, minister of labor, held several conferences with Leon Jouhaux, leader of the French labor confederation, and representatives of the social service employes, during which slight progress was made in ironing out the salary dispute that has resulted in 16,000 government insurance employes of Paris and Lyon going on strike.

Confer on Grievances

Negotiations also are under way between the government and labor leaders on the grievances of miners and railway workers in the north.

The government is accused of systematically refusing to listen to workers' claims, Pleven being the special target of complaints.

Workers have been called for a monster demonstration at the Cirque d'Hiver hippodrome early this week and a decision of some sort is expected then. All secretaries of industrial unions in France have been called to an urgent meeting for next Tuesday.

Meanwhile, France knocked off work for two and a half days at noon yesterday to observe the Pentecostal holiday.

Production May Suffer

Between strikes and holidays, production in France seems likely to suffer heavily at a critical moment when the government is asking for foreign aid.

During May, 13 to 14 days will have gone workless in France because of the holidays to celebrate May day, two victory days, Assumption and Pentecost, and the usual Sundays and half-day Saturdays.

As soon as workers return Tuesday morning strike difficulties likely will be aggravated. Next threatened walkout is of Paris bank clerks. At the same time militants in the metallurgical and heavy industries say that they have done all possible to prevent a conflict.

Others Threaten to Quit

The strike of government insurance workers spread to Lille today. Marseille street car workers threaten to quit Tuesday.

The federation of amusement workers, which includes movies, theaters, radio, and concerts, announced that its 130 unions, with 36,000 members, have been authorized to strike.

AMERICANISM RALLY PLEDGES TO CRUSH JAPS

Gen. Vandegrift Warns Against Laxity

An estimated 40,000 persons visited Soldiers' field yesterday for the fifth annual celebration of "I Am an American" day. There was a spirit of thankfulness for the victory in Europe, tho the ardor of the crowd was dampened by threatening weather. Pledges of renewed courage and effort for total victory over Japan were given.

"We have a hard and perilous war yet to fight," warned Gen. Alexander A. Vandegrift, marine corps commandant. "We have no justification whatever for relaxing our war effort. If Japanese war leaders can detect any lessening of our fighting spirit, any willingness to lose heart in our task, they will have a ray of hope.

Warns Against Truce

"They will have a basis on which to suspect that, if they can drag out hostilities long enough, our spirit will crack and in that event they would expect to get off lightly with a compromise peace. We should then have not an actual end of the war—but merely a brief—and for us, costly—truce."

The conflict in the Pacific has been an amphibious war, he said. Amphibious operations such as the landings in the Marianas, the Philippines, and the Ryukyus have been on such a scale as might seem to be the practical limit of action, but the biggest amphibious landings are yet to come, he said.

Hero Is Honored

Gen. Vandegrift spoke after presenting the congressional medal of honor posthumously to Marine Pvt. Frank Witek, killed in action last August at Finagayen, Guam, who was credited with destroying a large number of the enemy in battle. The medal was received by his mother, Mrs. Nora Witek, 1731 N. Harding av.

A reenactment of the famous flag raising on Mount Suribachi, on Iwo Jima, was staged by three of the six men who originally raised the flag. The other three later lost their lives fighting on the island.

The entire audience then pledged their allegiance to the flag. The Iwo survivors, with an honor guard, then slowly circled the field after presenting a salute to Gen. Vandegrift.

Oath Is Administered

Among those who took part in the celebration were stage and screen stars Lauren Bacall, Humphrey Bogart, Sonny Tufts, Sophie Tucker, Jack Owens, Henry Youngman, Judith Blair, Pat O'Brien, and the bands of Lou Diamond and George Olsen. Gov. Green also was present.

Veterans' and patriotic organizations, nationality groups, WAC, coast guard, and navy bands, musical groups from various Chicago industrial plants, and other groups also participated. The rally was sponsored by the Chicago Herald-American and the treasury department.

Judge Philip L. Sullivan of federal District court administered the oath of allegiance to 300 new American citizens, in whose honor "I Am an American" day is staged every year. Mayor Kelly and the Most Rev. Samuel A. Stritch, archbishop of Chicago, also paid tribute to those who made victory in Europe possible and called for continued effort until the Pacific victory is final.

1,500,000 ATTEND 'I AM AMERICAN' CEREMONY IN N.Y.

New York, May 20 (AP)—Approximately 1,500,000 persons today attended "I Am An American" day ceremonies in Central Park.

The audience, jamming 11 blocks of temporary benches, included 75,000 persons who became naturalized citizens in the last year.

President Truman, in a letter read by Mayor Fiorello La Guardia, declared:

"The teeming millions who make up the metropolis represent every nation on the face of the earth. They are Americans all because they or their forebears sought this land of freedom and opportunity, bringing with them memories of their homelands and the varied cultures from which they sprang."

Herbert H. Lehman, director of the united nations relief and rehabilitation administration, declared "We must not fail in our solemn resolve to implement freedom by helping people to help themselves."

By June 30, he said, his organization will have sent more than 1,200,000 tons of food, clothing, and other supplies to Europe.

ARMY SEIZES WAR PLANT SHUT BY 4 MONTH STRIKE

Gastonia, N. C., May 20 (AP)—By executive order of President Truman, the army today took over the plant of the Cocker Machine and Foundry company here, which has been tied up by a strike of 85 employes since last January. The plant turns out textile machinery necessary for tire production.

Capt. Benjamin R. Anderson of the quartermaster department was designated to take charge of the plant.

The Cocker plants were closed in January because of two labor disputes, one of which involves compulsory maintenance of union membership.

TRUMAN STUDY OF JOB MANAGER PLAN REPORTED

Washington, D. C., May 20 (AP)—President Truman was reported today to be interested in a plan to name a general manager over all federal employes.

The plan is one presented to Mr. Truman by Rep. Ramspeck (D., Ga.), chairman of the house civil service committee, who told a reporter the President is considering the proposal.

Under the plan a special assistant to the President would be charged with achieving economy and efficiency in the government's civil establishment. The general manager would have authority to overrule agency heads on methods concerning procedure of operation and handling of personnel, but would not determine policy.

FRANCE ACTS TO END HOARDING OF SMALL BILLS

New Ruling Aims at Hidden Fortunes

BY ROBERT SAGE
(Chicago Tribune Press Service)

PARIS, May 20 — Frenchmen's last hope of evading governmental check up on private fortunes was dashed today by a semi-official announcement that an imminent exchange of bank notes will affect not only bills of denominations from 50 to 5,000 francs, but 5, 10, and 20 franc bills as well.

The announcement came as an attempt to end hoarding of small bills which almost disappeared from circulation in Paris over the weekend. Most merchants would not make change unless they were able to do so with metal coins. Black market operators offered a discount of 4 to 10 per cent to purchasers who paid for goods in 5, 10, or 20 franc bills—the equivalent, respectively, to 10, 20, and 40 cents.

Last Financial Measure

The bill exchange is meeting vigorous opposition mostly from holders of undeclared fortunes and from peasants who traditionally avoid banking transactions and hoard their money in a woolen sock or under a plank in the floor. Finance Minister Rene Pleven, however, is determined to push thru the measure for three reasons: To invalidate the huge sums taken by the Germans; to ferret out concealed fortunes of war profiteers, black market operators, and collaborators, and to obtain an accurate estimate of personal fortunes on which to apply the capital levy.

The bill exchange will be the last financial measure preparatory to taking the most drastic step France has ever attempted in this direction—a declaration of a levy on capital.

Many Difficulties Seen

As domestic bank accounts are already open to the government, cash put away by the individual remains the only item not yet checked.

The process of exchanging bank notes of every family and business firm in France is expected to present innumerable difficulties. Paris banks already have received 38 pages of instructions on how the transactions are to be carried out.

Exiled Grand Mufti of Jerusalem Held by French

LONDON, May 21 (Monday)—(AP)—The Swiss radio said today the exiled grand mufti of Jerusalem, Mohammed Amein El Hasseini, had been arrested and taken to Paris by the French army and would be turned over to the British.

NYLONS, BEEF WILL SPUR N. U. BOND CAMPAIGN

Nylon stockings, roast beef, cigarets, a date with a professor, a chance to lead Ted Weems' orchestra, a long distance talk with Alan Ladd movie star, and many other things will be auctioned off at a war bond rally of Northwestern university students at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon.

The rally, the first event in a week of activity designed to reach a million dollar quota in bond sales at the university, will be held in Cahn auditorium of Scott hall on the Evanston campus. Sonny Tufts, movie star, will appear.

The rally is expected to yield $100,000 to augment the present total of approximately $820,000.

900 CANDIDATES SEEK 245 SEATS IN CANADA HOUSE

'Babel of Parties' Heard in June 11 Election

BY ARTHUR EVANS
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

VANCOUVER, B. C., May 20—Canada is moving toward its national general election June 11 in a babel of parties of varying forms of political philosophy. A record breaking list of more than 900 candidates is seeking the 245 seats in the Canadian house of commons.

Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King, 70, five times prime minister, who has held that office nearly 19 years in the last 24 and has been leader of the Liberal party for more than a quarter of a century, is in the battle of his career.

Main issue in the campaigning is post-war economic and social programs. Regional issues are spread across the continent. In the nine provinces, six separate parties control the provincial governments, while in 1935 election which returned King to power, eight of the nine provincial premiers were Liberals.

Seek to Revive Issue

Conscription is held by the Liberals and some others to be a moribund issue since the surrender of Germany. But in Quebec and on the coast here it is a factor in the campaigning, and the conservatives are seeking to revive it.

In British Columbia, the dispersal of the 23,000 Japanese here before the war forms an offshoot issue. In Alberta, social credit is the philosophy of the provincial government. In Saskatchewan, the Co-operative Commonwealth federation, based on Marxian socialism, is the provincial control.

Manitoba has a coalition government, as has British Columbia. Ontario is Progressive-Conservative. Quebec's provincial government is Union Nationale; the three maritime provinces, Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia, and New Brunswick, are Liberal.

One of the Worries

These multiple groups and their possible fragmentation effects on the national election are one of the worries of the politicians. In the old house of the Canadian parliament, which was dissolved April 17, 10 parties were represented. The Liberals had 155, the Progressive-Conservatives, or Tories, as they are called here, had 40, the C. C. F., as the Coöperative Commonwealth federation is termed, and the social credits have 10 members each.

The other six parties had 18 seats and 12 seats were vacant. A few seats mean a lot in a close election, for 123 is a bare majority, and about 130 is regarded as a good working majority. Some are apprehensive that no party may roll up a clear majority. This would mean a coalition instead of a stable one-party government.

The battle now starting to become intense is over the election of a new Canadian house of commons. The commons picks the prime minister, who forms a cabinet, and his government holds office while it enjoys the confidence of the house.

The Liberals or Grits, as they are called here, are an old name headed by King, a great compromiser, resourceful, canny, and cautious. On post-war problems the Liberals have been preparing a program somewhat on the New Deal order, much of which is already enacted into law.

Headed by Bracken

The Progressive-Conservatives, or Tories, are headed by John Bracken, 62, for 20 years premier of Manitoba. This party, second in number in the house of commons, is termed the opposition.

The C. C. F. has been headed by M. J. Coldwell since the death of its founder, J. S. Woodsworth, in 1942. The party is for socialization.

Prime Minister King opened his campaign here last week with a declaration that Canada's war effort against Japan is first objective. On post-war affairs he said the main task will be to maintain full employment and to provide social security.

Coldwell came to town today to start activities. Bracken will arrive on the coast shortly.

Full post-war employment is the real issue they expound.

The four western provinces have 71 seats in commons, of which the Liberals hold 44. King will be in this area a week.

BICYCLE SAFETY HINTS GIVEN BY SUPT. JOHNSON

Safety week, which opened in Chicago yesterday under a proclamation issued by Mayor Kelly, will be observed in elementary schools starting today. William H. Johnson, superintendent of schools, outlined a special safety program.

Greater caution was advocated among bicycle riding students. The gasoline shortage has increased this mode of conveyance, Johnson said. He offered a 14 point program for bicycle riders.

Among the points were: Learn to ride well before venturing out; never carry a passenger; avoid busy streets; be sure your bicycle fits you; ride Indian file when with companion cyclers; don't weave in traffic; use conventional arm signals; ride close to the right side of a thorofare; never hitch tows; watch for other vehicles emerging from alleyways and parking spaces; always yield right-of-way to pedestrians; use front light and rear light or reflector at night; use a carrier or basket if carrying bundles; don't park bicycle carelessly.

65 AMBULANCE VETS OF 33D HOLD ELECTION

Sixty-five veterans of World War I., who served with ambulance company 129 of the 33d division, elected Dr. Francis I. Stuart, of Atchison, Kas., as president at the closing session of their 26th annual reunion yesterday in the Hotel Sherman. Other officers elected are: Herman Giesche, Chicago, vice president; Raymond Nestlehut, Chicago, secretary, and Ben F. Isaacson, Chicago, treasurer. Preceding the business and social meeting, which ended the two day reunion, the members visited cemeteries in the Chicago area where they decorated graves of 20 of their buddies. The organization will meet here again in May, 1946.

NOTE—From time to time, in this paper, there will appear an article which we hope will be of interest to our fellow Americans. This is number ninety-two of a series.

SCHENLEY DISTILLERS CORP., NEW YORK

"Quotes"

"American tanks and guns and jeeps are in action all over the world because yeasts made alcohol from sugar, and chemists made this fermentation alcohol into butadiene, and this into synthetic rubber. It is true that in this great crisis in motorization and mechanization it was the zymotechnologist (fermentation chemist) that made rubber supplies possible and reasonably adequate."

We have quoted Dr. R. E. Buchanan of Iowa State College from his recent article in "Science", the organ of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Dr. Buchanan further states: "Right now millions of bushels of grain are being converted into rubber. To what extent may agriculture look to fermentation industries in the future, to assist in relieving us of great surpluses of grains, surpluses which are absolutely inevitable without major changes in world economy, changes which at the best can be brought about but slowly?"

We at Schenley, together with all distillers, ceased producing alcoholic beverages on October 8, 1942. With the exception of two months, August 1944, and January 1945, our distilling facilities have been devoted "around the clock" to the production of alcohol for war purposes. Much of this alcohol is used in the manufacture of butadiene, essential in the production of synthetic rubber, to which Dr. Buchanan refers.

And for a better understanding of our business, may we remind you that much of the grain we use in making alcohol for war, or beverage spirits in peace time, returns to the farms from whence it came. Only the starch in the grain is converted into fermentable sugar by malt, and then into alcohol, by yeast. The rest of the grain values, the proteins and minerals, etc., are recovered, and made into poultry and cattle feed. This feed is needed on the farm to make eggs, dairy produce and meat.

We were very much interested too, in what Dr. Buchanan said in the conclusion of his scientific article: "We are on the verge of new advances which may have the most far-reaching consequences to standards of living and to civilization".

BORRELLI QUIZ BY OPA IS SET FOR THURSDAY

Municipal Judge Francis Borrelli will be ordered to appear Thursday evening before his ration board at 1840 E. 71st st. to explain the source of gasoline the office of price administration charges he used on a recent auto trip to Hot Springs, Ark., the board said yesterday.

In the meanwhile Judge Borrelli said he has written a letter to Atty. James Ronan, chairman of the board, advising him that he would be "glad to appear before your board even without notice as soon as convenient." It added that he had intended to "give an explanation of the personal circumstances that made my sudden trip so necessary." The letter said the trip was made on or about May 12.

OPA officials said a preliminary check of the ration board's records showed no special ration had been issued to Judge Borrelli for his trip, but added that he receives a special ration to carry on his duties. Board members said the case would go thru regular channels.

BIG 5 AGREES ON REGIONAL DEFENSE PACTS

Progress Also Reported on Trusteeships

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., May 20.—Complete agreement on regional arrangements for defense against aggression independently of the new world peace league was reached tonight by the Big Five powers—the United States, Great Britain, Russia, France, and China.

The agreement was made possible by Russia's acceptance in a slightly varying form of the compromise already accepted a week ago by the other four powers.

It also was stated that the leaders in the international security conference are "closer to agreement" on the question of trusteeships for conquered territories and dependent peoples. The leaders are now figuring on winding up the conference by June 9.

For Local Disputes

The new draft of the regional arrangements provision spells out more definitely than the original compromise the reliance on regional agencies for settling local disputes.

It reiterates that regional authority is subordinate to the authority of the world peace league. That is, the league would be paramount to the Monroe Doctrine and the act of Chapultepec.

To deal with threatened aggression in this hemisphere it would be necessary for the United States and other American republics to get the permission of the league's security council.

Could Act if Attacked

In the event of an actual attack, however, the American nations could act at once to repel the aggression without seeking the consent of the league.

The text of the accepted proposal, with the capitalizations denoting new matter added to the original American proposal by the Russians, follows:

"The parties to any dispute, the continuance of which is likely to endanger the maintenance of international peace and security, should obligate themselves, first of all, to seek a solution by negotiation, mediation, conciliation, arbitration or judicial settlement, RESORT TO REGIONAL AGENCIES OR ARRANGEMENTS, or other peaceful means of their own choice. The security council should call upon the parties to settle their dispute by such means.

Must Report to Council

"Nothing in this charter impairs the inherent right of individual or collective self defense if an armed attack occurs against a member state, until the security council has taken the measures necessary to maintain international peace and security. Measures taken in the exercise of this right of self defense shall be immediately reported to the security council and shall not in any way affect the authority and responsibility of the security council under this charter to take at any time such action as it may deem necessary in order to maintain or restore international peace and security.

"Nothing in the charter should preclude the existence of regional arrangements or agencies for dealing with such matters relating to the maintenance of international peace and security as are appropriate for regional action, provided such arrangements or agencies and their activities are consistent with the purposes and principles of the organization. THE MEMBER STATES COMPRISING SUCH AGENCIES OR ENTERING INTO SUCH ARRANGEMENTS SHOULD MAKE EVERY EFFORT TO ACHIEVE PEACEFUL SETTLEMENT OF LOCAL DISPUTES THRU SUCH AGENCIES OR ARRANGEMENTS BEFORE REFERRING THEM TO THE SECURITY COUNCIL.

Peaceful Settlements

"The security council should encourage THE DEVELOPMENT OF PEACEFUL settlement of local disputes thru such regional arrangements or by such regional agencies either on the initiative of the states concerned or by reference from the security council."

The new version was agreed upon at a Big Five meeting in State Secretary Stettinius' penthouse atop the Fairmont hotel. Those present in addition to Stettinius were British Ambassador Halifax, Russian Ambassador Gromyko, Maurice de Jean of France and Chinese Foreign Minister Soong.

After the Big Five meeting the draft was submitted to the Latin American leaders and received their approval.

Stettinius Statement

"I am happy to be able to tell you that 10 minutes ago the five governments reached an agreement on regional matters. Committee work will go forward tomorrow. Sen. Vandenberg has three documents in hand containing all the proposals. There is very little difference in the language from the statement I issued several days ago [May 15]."

It was on May 15 that Stettinius made public the American delegation's compromise proposal accepted at that time by all the big powers except Russia. This compromise subordinated the Monroe Doctrine and the act of Chapultepec to the peace league machinery except in case of attack when the "inherent right of self defense" would take precedence.

The Russians had delayed agreement on the new draft for a week while they were supposed to be consulting Moscow. What they eventually brought in as a counter proposal however was virtually the same as the compromise evolved by the American delegation and accepted by Britain, France and China a week ago.

It now turns out that no instructions were received from Moscow and that the Russian delegates obtained their counter proposal by translating the American delegation's compromise into Russian and then translating it back into English. By this process a slightly varying Russian proposal was produced.

A PEER RUSHES TO ANGLOPHILES' SOCIAL RESCUE

BY WILLARD EDWARDS
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

San Francisco, Cal., May 20.—Reportedly a little miffed by the space accorded in society columns to the Russians, French, Arabians, and Latin American- the English Speaking Union will attempt to grab the social spotlight at the world security conference this week.

Lord Cranborne

A huge reception has been scheduled for Tuesday for Viscount Cranborne, British secretary of state for dominion affairs, and Viscountess Cranborne. Mrs. Marcus Koshlund, vice president of the California branch of the ESU, is opening her big home on Washington st. for the event.

Lord Cranborne, a member of the British delegation, rejoices in the full name of Robert Arthur James Gascoyne-Cecil. He is leader of the house of lords, heir of the fourth Marquis of Salisbury. His wife is Elizabeth Vere, eldest daughter of Lord Cavendish. He is president of the English Speaking Union of the British Empire. Local Anglophiles are touting him as a social attraction equal to a Molotov or Arabian prince on anyone's social calendar.

Tour Private Gardens

Scores of delegates this afternoon attended a tour of private gardens in the fashionable Piedmont district, ending up with a reception in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Scott.

Highlights of the conference social calendar included:

TEA—For women delegates to the conference including Miss Bertha Lutz of Brazil; Mrs. Cora T. Casselman, Canada; Miss Wui Yi-fang of China; Miss Minerva Bernardino, Dominican Republic; Miss Florence Horsbrugh, United Kingdom; Dean Virginia C. Gildersleeve, United States; and Sen. Isabel Pintos de Vidal of Uruguay. It will be given by a group of women's societies.

Prince Gives a Dinner

DINNER—For members of the Arabic speaking delegations by Prince Faisal Ibn Abdul Aziz of Saudi Arabia, in the Palace hotel.

LUNCHEON—For Mrs. Tom Connally and Mrs. Arthur H. Vandenberg, wives of the American delegates, in the Palace hotel.

RECEPTION—For members of the Yugoslav delegation in the Russian Hill home of Mrs. A. S. Musante.

DINNER—For ten South American delegates who are also noted physicians by the Pan-American Medical association in the Bohemian club.

DINNER—For the Guatemala and Paraguay delegates in the Park Lane apartment of Mme. C. E. Grosjean.

DINNER—For the Venezuela delegates in the home of Mrs. Marshall Madison.

Miss Gump Entertains

RECEPTIONS—For the Mexican delegation by Miss Marcella Gump; for the Peruvian delegation by Mrs. Boris Kitchin; for the Costa Rican delegation by Mrs. Drew Chidester; for the Nicaraguan delegation by Mrs. Andre Talbot.

DINNERS—For the Brazilian delegation by Mrs. Amrose Diehl; for the Colombian and Ecuadorean delegations by Mrs. B. C. Begley.

TEA AND MUSICAL—For members of the delegation from the Union of South Africa in the Piedmont home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Llewellyn Wintle.

The first publicized party for the Argentine delegation, last to be admitted to the conference, will be held Thursday by Mrs. Maurice Harrison.

RICHMAN BROTHERS
still RICHMAN BROTHERS

Many people wonder how we can continue to make clothes as fine as ever and sell them at the old low prices. The answer is we still have everything we've always had to give you value—the men, the money, the machinery, the know-how. In addition, we're working harder than ever to keep our old friends and make new ones. In short, we have the will as well as the wherewithal to give you a full 100 cents' worth of value for your clothing dollar. Right now, a large part of our production is for the Army, and you may not find as much to choose from as in normal times. But in all other respects, Richman Brothers is still Richman Brothers.

PROSPECTS FOR MEAT

War Mobilizer Vinson has announced a four point program to increase meat supplies. Cattle feeders are to be paid a half cent a pound bounty on AA and A grade cattle, sold to slaughterers, if the animals have been owned at least a month. The second provision is an extra ¾ cent a pound to packers on all beef to enable them to pay higher prices, without raising selling prices. Step number three is a promise not to reduce ceiling prices on cattle overnight but to give at least a six months warning of any change. Finally, packers are to have a subsidy of 1.7 cents a pound, live weight, on hogs instead of 1.3 cents at present.

We should like to believe that these steps will mean more meat on dining room tables, but we doubt if that is to be expected. The action is inadequate with reference to beef, and too late to have any effect for a long time as regards pork.

The moves to increase feeding operations constitute an attempt to undo the harm done by previous governmental mistakes. Two years ago OPA officials decided to cut the production of the kind of cattle affected by the half cent subsidy. They told a committee of farmers from central Illinois who went to Washington to protest that they should get out of business for there was no place for them in war time.

For the feeders to operate, there had to be an adequate spread between the price per pound of skinny cattle off the range and of the big, fully developed steers out of the cornbelt feed lots. OPA's price differentials were such that the long feeders couldn't function. Short feeding expanded somewhat but the producers of AA and A cattle had to quit or change their way of doing business.

If the consequence had been only that some choice beef was no longer available, the loss would not have been serious. But the marketing of partly grown animals affected the total meat supply. A 1,400 pound steer dresses out at 60 per cent and thus produces 840 pounds of food. The 700 pound steer dresses out at 40 per cent yielding only 280 pounds of food. For every steer that was marketed at 700 pounds which would have been developed to 1,400 pounds, there was a loss of two-thirds of the potential meat. The half cent gratuity will mean little to the feeders unless cattle from the plains are available at a low price.

Nor will the new subsidy on hogs, with ceilings remaining what they are, bring significant changes for a long time. The government waited eight months too long in acting. The important breeding is done in the fall for spring litters. It will be next spring before we get the little pigs that will grow into porkers to be marketed in the winter of 1946, to be cured in time for Easter dinner in 1947. Moreover, the amount of breeding that will be done in the fall will depend upon the size of the corn crop and the ratio that farmers expect will exist between the price of hogs and the price of corn six months later. The evil that was done last year in discouraging hog production by calling on hog farmers to cut production, by shifts in the price ceilings, and by failure to bring relief to glutted markets by relaxing rationing promptly, will affect the supply of ham, pork, and bacon for a long time to come.

It is perhaps not out of place to recall that at the time we pleaded earnestly with the government to alter its policies before it was too late. We asserted repeatedly that the moves were misguided and would result in shortages. It is small satisfaction that those in control now see the error of their ways, for there must be hardship until the consequences of their acts have been fully overcome some time into the future. We hope that other unsound war time measures will be reviewed before another crisis develops.

GETTING THE FACTS FOR AMERICA

With the end of fighting in Europe, the office of censorship has announced sweeping relaxations of its code. In general, the only material which may not be published or broadcast hereafter is that which might aid the Japanese.

In a war in which almost every activity of American citizens was placed under compulsory controls, censorship was an exception. It was made a matter of voluntary compliance with the code promulgated by Byron Price, the news executive whom the Associated Press loaned to the government for this extremely delicate task.

The successful operation of the censorship is something more than a tribute to Mr. Price's ability, common sense, and diplomacy, and to the coöperation given him by the publishing and broadcasting industries. It should also be an object lesson to the do-it-or-else boys, who have bungled the food production, price fixing, rationing, man power, and other administration policies in spite of wide use of compulsions.

In announcing the relaxation of the rules, Mr. Price made clear that his authority stops pretty much at the water line. As he said, he cannot control the military policy in Europe. The question arose in connection with alleged censorship of political news by European military authorities, a recent example of which was the ukase of supreme allied headquarters that correspondents may no longer interview captured nazi leaders without specific permission from SHAEF.

Gen. Eisenhower, in his message to President Truman on the related subject of censorship of material entering occupied Germany, said that military security should be the only reason for censorship. There can be no quarrel with that doctrine.

The fighting in Europe is over. Even when it was going on censorship was supposed to be confined to matters of military security. Certainly there is no excuse for broadening its scope now. The American people are entitled to all the news that their press representatives abroad can dig up. They naturally are not going to take at face value any claims or excuses put forward by nazi prisoners, but they are fully capable of weighing that evidence for themselves. They don't need to be protected against it by some pip-squeak censor in uniform, reluctant to see his authority diminished by the end of the fighting.

While the office of censorship is relaxing its regulations and curtailing its personnel, the office of war information is making strenuous efforts to ignore the nazi surrender and carry on business as usual. Director Elmer Davis' proposal to continue Goebbels' policy of telling the Germans only what the occupying authority wants them to know has been repudiated sharply by President Truman, with the advice and concurrence of Gen. Eisenhower.

Aside from a pretentious series of broadcasts to Asiatic peoples, not one in a thousand of whom have radios, the OWI has devoted little attention to the Pacific war, and there is little if anything that it can do to aid Gen. MacArthur and Adm. Nimitz.

Rep. Gavin of Pennsylvania has proposed that congress save the taxpayers $50,000,000 by refusing appropriations for the OWI for the next fiscal year, which would require the agency to wind up its activities by July 1. Congress should accept his suggestion. If it is followed, the OWI may at long last do something to help win the war—by putting some of its draft dodging personnel in infantry uniforms and shipping them to Gen. MacArthur.

STASSEN ON COLONIES

There is to be a redistribution of colonies after this war, with the victors dividing the spoils in Africa and Asia among themselves. The San Francisco conference is to decide whether these valuable holdings are to be handed over to the new masters in perpetuity. In other words, will any pledge of eventual independence be given the peoples who inhabit the colonies?

Opinion in the conference has been sharply divided. The Russians and the Chinese, who have no colonies, at least of the sort under discussion, favor a pledge of independence. The British are willing to promise self-government to the natives (after an indefinite period of preparation for it) but not independence. The so-called backward peoples, in British thinking, can aspire to dominion status under the crown but to nothing beyond that. The British could not promise full independence to a newly acquired colony and withhold the same promise from India and a great many others like it, and, therefore, the British delegates have been firm against all the plans for granting freedom to subject peoples.

This is not morally defensible but it is understandable. No defense whatsoever can be made for the support given the British by Gov. Stassen in the name of our government. This country has proved that independence is better for a nation than anything the British empire has to offer it. We exist as a nation precisely because our forefathers knew that was so and risked their lives for independence. Gov. Stassen must think they made a terrible mistake which must never be repeated.

There is no explaining Stassen's attitude other than by pointing out that he was a Willkie satellite and that Willkie represented the worst in Wall street. Wall street is willing and anxious to make profits at the expense of the oppressed peoples of Asia. Independence could interfere with profits.

Gov. Stassen is not speaking for the American people in this matter. They will reject him as they previously rejected Willkie. Americans will insist that any part our country may play in world government be devoted to extending freedom and to ending the enslavements that Mr. Stassen seeks to perpetuate.

COCKTAILS TO RELIEVE COMMUNISTS

Communists and fellow travelers in the San Francisco area had a gay time Friday night, when four ballrooms in the St. Francis hotel were rented for a simultaneous jamboree in honor of the Russian delegation to the united nations conference. Most of the guests of honor failed to show up, but cocktails and canapes helped sooth the disappointment.

When the last vermouth bottle had been carted away, the Russian war relief society picked up the check. That is one of the organizations which shared in the national collections a few months ago for the war fund. Those who gave freely to relieve distress in Europe and America, and to provide comforts for American fighting men and women, now discover that they were also kicking in for cocktails for Communists.

Such practices are nothing new among the comrades. When the state department published the financial statements of some of the communist front organizations which were raising funds to relieve suffering in "Republican" Spain, it was disclosed that a number of them had spent more of their collections for propaganda in this country than they had to help stricken Spaniards. [Some of the pro-Franco hat-passers were just as bad.]

In the face of the present scandalous incident, the war fund will hardly dare include Russian relief in any future divisions of its collections.

In the remaining theater of war, the great Hirohito will entertain on what is left of the axis, sometimes referred to as the one-wheeled bicycle.—Detroit News.

THE VANISHING GOTH

A historical parallel to the great post-war mystery story, which Dr. John H. Watson, biographer of Sherlock Holmes, would call the Case of the Disappearing Rug Chewer, may be found in classic lore. Like Hitler, the chief of state was a Teuton; unlike Hitler, he died when his conquests were at high tide. He was Alaric the Goth, first conqueror of Rome, first looter of the imperial city. He was buried secretly in Italy, and there is no record that his remains or funeral trappings have ever been found.

Alaric died of a brief illness while on campaign. After capturing Rome for the third time he marched down the peninsula into the toe of the Italian boot, intending to establish a base there for an invasion of Africa. His baggage train was overloaded with Roman gold, but that stuff is inedible and the corn supply of Africa had been cut off. The military and political situation called for food. The Goths were ready to start for the Mediterranean corn belt when misfortune suddenly smote Alaric twice in the same place. A storm wrecked his ships, and then a fever took his life.

We will borrow the story of Alaric's burial straight from Gibbon's "Decline and Fall":

"The ferocious character of the barbarians was displayed in the funeral of a hero whose valor and fortune they celebrated with mournful applause. By the labor of a captive multitude they forcibly diverted the course of the Busentius, a small river that washes the walls of Consentia. The royal sepulcher, adorned with the splendid spoils and trophies of Rome, was constructed in the vacant bed; the waters were then restored to their natural channel, and the secret spot where the remains of Alaric had been deposited was forever concealed by the inhuman massacre of the prisoners who had been employed to execute the work."

All of which causes us to wonder if there has been any recent tampering with watercourses in the Spreewald.

UTTERLY INCURABLE

When seventeen, and of romantic turn
Of mind, I wore my eager heart upon
My sleeve where all might see it brightly burn
Or smolder drearly, ever and anon.
For oft was I swept up the plumed peak
Of Happiness by the faint flutter of
A silken lash upon a coral cheek
(A lad's a helpless dolt when he's in love).
But just as oft, alas, was I cast down
Into the depths of Misery's demesne
By an averted face or fleeting frown
(A maid delights to tease a lovesick swain).

Think you that I'd be caught in such a plight
Again? Make way, my lads, you're doggone right!

Rare Item for Word Detectives

Speaking of dictionary words that perpetuate the memory of unpopular characters [May 14], consider "silhouette," derived from Etienne de Silhouette, French finance minister to Louis XV. In his attempt to reform the financial condition of France, he got himself into such disfavor by cheap methods that his name became the synonym for everything that was trifling and mean. Thus the fashions of Paris, taking simple and niggardly form, were derisively called "à la silhouette."

But now "silhouette" has a deeper, richer meaning and is used to speak of purple hills against the setting sun; or of a boat at sea, caught in the mirrored pathway of the moon; or of the Pyramids shaped in silvery light against the velvet night of the desert.

IN FRIENDLY TOWN

In Friendly Town, where gardens grow
Without a thought for pride or show—
Just homely gardens, brightly set
With pinks, and squills, and mignonette;
Where little homes of love bestow
Their blessings on some hearts I know;
To those dear scenes my best thoughts go—
In Friendly Town.

No duties drive one to and fro
Save precious tasks of spade and hoe;
The only ever-haunting debt
Is just to live and laugh—forget—
The mad world's greed, and war, and woe—

Shows of the Beer Hall Era

In the 1880s Jacobs' theater, at Kinzie and North Clark sts., was the scene of the first performance of "The Mikado" in the United States. It was a pirated version, but accurate in text.

At 1220-22 North Clark st. stands a four-story building in which Charles Mathai used to offer old fashioned German beer hall shows—a very decent place, with a stage and gallery. He sold out to Adolph Engel, who managed a near-by hall of lower grade. After several changes of hands it became one of Chicago's first 5-cent movie theaters.

Test Your Horse Sense

By Dr. George W. Crane

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers below.

1. Which part of an animal's pelt has the least value for fur? Back Belly Side Shoulder
2. Which one of these is inappropriate in this general grouping?
   Forceps Biceps Pincers Tweezers
3. Which one of these seats normally costs the least?
   Ring side Box seat Bleacher 50 yard line
4. Which one of these names suggests transportation? Goose Island
   Rock Island Green Island Rhode Island
5. An interne would most likely be holding which one of these?
   Scalpel Miter box Baton Micrometer
6. Intoxicating beverages vary in their alcoholic content from approximately 4 to 50 per cent. Since alcohol is almost as fattening as pure fat, dieters must take care. You deserve one point for each correct matching of the beverages in the left hand column below with their ranking in alcoholic content.

[a] Sherry wine	[v] Least alcoholic content
[b] Brandy	[w] Next lowest alcoholic
[c] Beer	[x] Third
[d] Whisky	[y] Next highest content
[e] Ale	[z] Most alcoholic

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—The last question counts five points.]

What should I do?"

If you have a service connected disability which results in an occupational handicap that would not be disadvantageous if you were retrained, you may get this training in college, trade school, or on the job with a business firm. The government will pay for tuition, books, supplies, and equipment, and if your pension is less than $103.50 a month it will be increased to that sum during your training period. If you have a child an extra $5.75 will be added.

Mrs. E. R. writes: "I have two sons in service. One was reported missing last month, and the other is stationed in the United States. PELLAGRA AND POOR NUTRITION

At the present time there are six vitamins which are vitally concerned with health. A marked shortage of any one of these is capable of producing a well recognized disease. There are others, of course, but they are considered experimental.

Among the old standbys is vitamin B which is the most complex of the group. In days gone by it was considered one substance but is now divided into many fractions. Some of these are well known whereas others are still being investigated. Each plays its own role altho we cannot conceive of an insufficiency of one without a deficiency of the remainder.

The average diet probably contains an ample supply. There seems to be little doubt that we have a greater need for vitamin B than did our grandparents. High milling has reduced somewhat the quantity in wheat flour. With our increased sugar consumption, more of this material is required for proper utilization. Stated in another way, our reserve is low because we consume less and our demands are greater.

Nicotinic acid [niacin] was discovered almost three-quarters of a century ago. It was looked upon as a chemical rather than a vitamin. The product has been resting on the shelves of various laboratories for more than 25 years but its curative value was not recognized. The irony of the situation is that during this period, millions of patients suffered from pellagra. Today we realize that this disorder is caused by a scarcity of this preparation.

Pellagra was originally described in individuals whose meals consisted mainly of maize. It was also noted in those who consumed bad whisky or in victims of intestinal disturbances of such severity that absorption of food was hindered. Undoubtedly the basic factor is an inadequate diet but there is a possibility that both maize and whisky give off a toxin which destroys the vitamin.

Symptoms may be slow in developing. They are more prevalent in the spring and summer months. In areas exposed to the sun, the skin becomes red, taut, and blistered. These patches resemble a burn but they persist and tend to become darker. The hands, face, ears, and neck are the usual locations. The patient feels fatigued and develops diarrhea. In minor forms this may be the only manifestation, altho colicky pain may be exhibited. The tongue is sore and appears red and inflamed. If other co-deficiencies exist, the lips—particularly at the corners of the mouth—may become cracked and tender. Neuritis of the limbs often results in excruciating pain.

In advanced cases, definite mental changes are noted. Irritability, oppression, and apprehension are frequent and a diagnosis of neurasthenia may be made. Changes in personality occur with a tendency toward hallucinations.

In severe types, nicotinic acid may be taken by mouth or hypodermically. Following the injection, flushing, burning, and itching may ensue but these sensations are generally temporary and not harmful. When the ailment is slight, smaller amounts are called for. Brewer's yeast and liver extracts may furnish all the necessary requirements. Foods high in B2 are also recommended. Yeast and liver are the outstanding sources, followed by lean meats, poultry, canned salmon, milk, green leafy vegetables, and wheat germ. The vitamin is not damaged by canning processes as it tolerates heat fairly well.

OXALIC ACID

G. F. writes: What foods are highest in oxalic acid?

REPLY

Cocoa, black tea, dried figs, ground pepper, beat leaves, and stems, Swiss chard, gooseberries, parsley, rhubarb, spinach, and nuts.

OUTPOCKETING

The Death of Mike (Pfc.)

[Letter from a marine on Okinawa on May 8:]

"Yesterday was a sad day. We buried Mike, the Col's son. Sure was a swell unspoiled kid.

"He caught a gernade in the back of the head. The Col took it like a true marine.

"Things were to hot up there to bring the body in. The Col didnt want anybody to endanger their lives to get his son. He said, 'I don't want my son treated any different than any other marine.'

"It wasn't until the next noon that they got him out. We were sitting around the Col's tent, the major, John, and myself. The suspence was brutal on the Col.

"We started towards the front to pick up Mike at the collecting station [Raining like mad].

"We got the body & started for the cemetery 10 miles away. They weren't burying any marines due to the mud & the weather.

"A fresh grave was dug & Mike was drapped in the flag.

"Yesterday morning the Col called up Mike's Col and asked him to find out if Mike's buddy was alright? Then at the cemetery a bunch of dead marines were under a tent waiting burrial. The Col looked at them and said: 'Those poor devils haven't got their father here to attend their last rites.'

"One day we went up to visit Mike. The Col asked him how things were going fine said Mike. Then as the talk got underway we found out that the Col's son had only one pair of sox & he & his buddy were sleeping under one blanket.

"Mike didn't pass himself off as the son of a Col. He wanted to be just a plain marine [He was].

"The general wanted the Col to take off for home, but he turned it down.

"If you were here this moment, you'd hear an old familiar sound [Siren] we have a raid coming on. Gotta go now. I've lost weight. We sleep with one eye open no kidding."

Glitter at a Price

It was a few days after Mother's day and the small boy in the theater was saying to the lady beside him: "When I get the money I'm going to buy you a diamond bracelet that is going to cost 10 hundred million dollars, and is it going to glitter!" After a moment's reflection he asked curiously, "How much is 10 hundred million dollars?" The lady with him said she thought that was a billion dollars. The small boy reflected again. "Well," he said at last, "it ought to glitter."

Then I could show my mother
She didn't do so bad."

VICTORY GARDENS

Chicago, May 16—In the war years of 1942-'43-'44, Illinois led the nation in the number of victory gardens planted and the amount of garden corps produced. This is going to be the most critical year since the beginning of the war, in the matter of civilian food supplies. We need victory gardeas as we never needed them before.

Under our system of distribution it is inevitable, especially in war time, that there will be occasional gluts of seasonal vegetables. Some of our people need to be told that the problem is not one of how much food they will have in a week, but over a period of 52 weeks.

HISTORY TO TASTE

New York, May 13—An Associated Press item, date lined New York, May 7, states: "Germany's unconditional surrender today came on the 30th anniversary of the U-boat sinking of the Lusitania—Britain's empress of the seas—which caused the death of 1,198 persons, including 124 Americans. The big luxury liner was torpedoed May 7, 1915, 10 miles off Kinsale Head, Ireland. It sank in 20 minutes. Perhaps no other one act of the first World war did more to alienate from Germany the sympathy of neutral nations. Theodore Roosevelt called it the 'greatest act of piracy in history.' In Germany there was exultation."

A cablegram to THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE from London dated Feb. 5, 1936, reads as follows: "The German admiralty was within its rights in sinking the Lusitania as an act of war, William Henry Dudley Boyle, earl of Cork and Orrery and an admiral, declared today. The earl said the Lusitania, whose sinking contributed to the American entrance into the World war, might conceivably have been used for the transport of 10,000 troops. If women and children choose to cruise about in war areas," he added, "they must expect what they get."

From these news items we see that an act of war, committed by one belligerent against another, was represented as an unlawful act contrary to international law, and was used to whip up the war spirit in our people, resulting in our participation in World War I. Twenty years after the act, it is declared by Britain to have been a lawful act of war. Now the same act is again being cited as "piracy," and used to infuse hatred in our people.

TIME TO GET OUT

Chicago, May 9—Grant it was our duty to help win the war for our allies. Grant it kept the war away from America, but let's not hang around Europe until there is another war over the spoils.

We are only going to make ourselves obnoxious if we try to adjust the lives of Europeans for them. Let our boys come home while Europe still thinks well of us. Let's avoid additional foreign entanglements. We won't if we stay.

TED BOEHM

DEFENDS HIGHWAY HAULERS

Chicago, May 17—Mr. F. J. Bolling seems very disturbed regarding oversize trucks. Carriers are not petitioning for wider and longer trucks, but for uniform widths and lengths so as to be able to operate in several states. Longer trucks tend for more even distribution of loading with no resultant damage to highways. This has been substantiated by several state authorities.

He complains of following highway trailers [they are not box cars]. Ninety-eight per cent of all highway carriers travel at night, leaving the highway clear for day time pleasure driving. No good driver follows any car or truck close enough to get his windshield plastered from the car ahead.

Carriers are asking for wider roads not only for their benefit, but for all highway users, including farmers, who have 25 per cent of all the trucks in the United States. Did you ever try to pass a passenger car pulling a house trailer swaying from side to side on the highway, or a Sunday driver straddling the center of the road? Statistics for post-war planning show this nation will travel all over America in house trailers pulled by passenger cars, outnumbering highway trailers 2 to 1.

Mr. Bolling asks if the carriers are going to pay for the new roads? The carriers have been paying for a long time and will continue to do so for a long time. The average tax paid yearly for a highway tractor and trailer is $1,000. How would you like to pay $1,000 a year tax for the privilege of driving from state to state on a sightseeing tour?

RICHARD ARAMIAN

FOR MUTUAL PROTECTION

Berwyn, Ill., May 12—Undoubtedly we feel sorry for the devastated small European nations, Belgium, Denmark, Finland, the Netherlands, et. al., which were involuntarily involved in the latest world catastrophe, but what of their own responsibilities? Why didn't they form a coalition for defensive purposes years ago? I wonder whether they have learned anything, regardless of the decisions arrived at the San Francisco conference?

I believe that in their case the old adage, "He who travels alone travels the fastest," does not apply.

POSTAL PAY INCREASE

Oconto, Wis., May 16—Some of the news reporters I listened to last night gave the impression that postal employes were receiving a great favor when the house of representatives passed a bill granting them a small increase in yearly pay. Vacation and sick leave they have had for several years. This bill still must pass the senate and be signed by the President. The postal workers have been disappointed too many times to be sure this will happen.

YOU MEAN A MATTRESS CAN HELP ME STAY YOUNG?

YES— if it's a sealy

. . . because its buoyancy helps you sleep like a baby!

Sound, refreshing sleep . . . the kind that restores energy, builds health, makes you wake up feeling alert and lighthearted! That's the kind of sleep that keeps you young . . . the kind a SEALY sun-vitalized cotton mattress helps you to enjoy. All because these mattresses are so buoyant. They flex gently as you stir in your sleep (help you to turn over!). They're perfectly balanced to insure against hollows and tilting. And you'll admire the smart coverings, designed especially for Marshall Field & Company. Come in today! Mattresses in three price ranges: $39.50, $49.50 and $59.50. Three resilient box springs to match!

HERE'S WHY YOUR SEALY SLEEP IS SO REFRESHING

only staple cotton . . . long-fibered Texas cotton is used in all Sealy mattresses. Each sturdy fiber has a resilience that lasts.

blown like snow . . . this wonderful, lively cotton is blown—at high speed—like snow into a huge form.

woven by air . . . after the cotton is blown into the form, air pressure tosses and tumbles it. Finally it's lightly but securely woven together.

renewed by sunshine . . . from time to time, just by exposing a Sealy mattress to sunlight for a day, it will puff up like new—all because of the lively, long-fibered cotton that's in it.

tuftless for more comfort . . . these Sealy mattresses are tuftless for added sleeping comfort. No buttons to catch you. No sagging . . . no humping.

An amount will be added to quoted prices of all our merchandise to cover additional expense due to the Illinois Retailers' Occupation Tax.

Scientific Sleeping Equipment Eighth Floor

1. Sealy mattress, lively cotton . . . durable, hand-sewn border. Strongly built for long service. Stout cream and tan ticking, $39.50. Matching hand-tied coil box spring, $39.50

2. Sealy Sunspun, lively cotton . . . special prebuilt, hand-sewn border that won't break down. Smart, sturdy blue and cream ticking, $49.50. Matching box spring, $49.50

3. Sealy Turnabout, one side hair-filled for cool summer sleeping; one side cotton-filled for warm winter sleeping. Gray and tan ticking, $59.50. Matching box spring, $49.50

STREAMLINED U-BOAT PACK QUITS ITS LAIR

Gunboat Also Gives Up in Norse Fjord

BY HAL FOUST
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

OSLO, Norway, May 19 [Delayed]—Ten German submarines, six of a new type, were escorted here today from their hideout in the irregular coastline of Oslo fjord, 40 miles south of here. The bag included also a German gunboat.

The escort was a British minesweeper, commanded by Lt. Comdr. John Lumbus, with about 3 per cent of the man power and fire power of the force which capitulated but was not disarmed.

Lt. Comdr. M. R. G. Wingfield of the British admiralty staff, who attended to the heel clicking, saluting, and paper-signing formalities, reported the Germans' conduct was in strict adherence to military and naval etiquet. However, the crews and officers of some of the U-boats stood on deck with their backs turned when the British minesweeper passed.

18 Knots Under Water

The new submarines, Wingfield said, had not seen active service when the war ended. The type is distinctive for the unusual speed of 18 knots submerged. Diesel engines, rather than battery driven electric motors, propel the submerged ship, with the engine getting air by means of a tube which goes above the surface of the water like a periscope. Streamlining is emphasized by inclosing the bridge and by mounting the fore and aft deck guns in the same conning tower.

The U-boats were driven into hiding here about a month ago by the bombing of their Bremen and Hamburg bases before they were ready for sea duty. They were designed for sustained operation submerged as protection against air attack. This new type does not have to surface to charge the batteries as does the ordinary submarine. German officers said the ships could be provisioned for 100 day cruises.

Camouflaged for Ice

Two of the older subs were 300 foot ocean spanners. The other two were about 250 feet long, the same length as the new type. One of the newer craft was camouflaged for service in ice fields.

Under the terms of the German surrender, Wingfield said, the warships will retain skeleton crews and be kept in seaworthy condition pending the peace treaty.

The remainder of the crews joined the German army of 300,000 men in Norway, awaiting disarmament and transport to Germany.

'Midsummer Nightmare' . . . . . By Christopher Hale

(Copyright: 1945: By Mrs. Frances Stephens)

SYNOPSIS: Olivia Warburton and her secretary, Winnie Leslie, occupy a cottage, cared for by Tillie, on the Jennesma estate. The Jennesma factory is managed by Dirk Adams, Winnie's fiance. Sybrand Jennesma plans to manufacture his brother Gerrit's latest invention, a car motor, and hopes to interest Morgan Riley, Sen. North, Riley's investigator, fails in love with Olivia. Jason Kimball, in charge of publicity, is fond of Winnie. The oft-married Hilda Jennesma Paradine claims money is missing from her cottage. Hilda is found murdered, a knife in her neck. Tillie informs Police Lt. French that Olivia, who walks in her sleep, went downstairs in the night and took a knife from the kitchen—the knife. The missing money is found in Winnie's bedroom. Eddie Paradine heard nothing, nor is he familiar with Hilda's will. Dirk was with Hilda from 1:30 to 2 a. m. Olivia finds herself turning to Sen. North, but there is a barrier, a secret marriage in her youth. Jerrold Corbin, Hilda's first husband, is upset to learn Hilda left him only $1,000. Tillie is poisoned. There is arsenic in her chocolates. A box of chocolates, one layer partly gone, is found in Olivia's room. Gerrit has received three anonymous threats and Kim four unsigned telegrams. Three days before Tillie's death she deposited $5,000 dollars in cash in her bank. Corbin produces a copy of a will made by Hilda two weeks before her death leaving $5,000 each to her brothers and her husband and the balance of the estate to him. Tillie bought arsenic from the druggist. A fourth threat is addressed to Gerrit. The knife is found in Olivia's garden. Eddie is visited by a woman, then disappears after burning papers. Winnie's attempt to enter the Paradine cottage, at Dirk's urgent appeal, is unsuccessful. Police find Dirk's I. O. U. among Hilda's things.

INSTALMENT XXV.

DIRK IS HELD

The senator gazed at Winnie's enchanting, childlike face as if she were a puzzle-box he could open if he were smart enough. He said earnestly, "My dear girl, surely you can't care for this man. I know your father. He would never stand for your marrying Dirk Adams."

"I'll marry whoever I choose whenever I want to. I'm of age. It just happens I don't want to marry Dirk, or I would."

Miss Warburton rushed in before they closed battle. She explained Winnie's involved position.

The snort with which he received the explanation blew him to his feet. "Mrs. Micawber, hmm?"

"Who's she?"

Miss Warburton was shocked. "O, Winnie, you little barbarian!"

The senator hunched into his wet raincoat. His eyes found Miss Warburton's ecstatically.

"Do you read Trollope and Thirkell, too?"

"You can bring them to me in jail." She smiled wickedly.

"I'll bring them to you, all right. But don't look forward to jail too hard. The competition is getting bad."

"You think the police have lost interest in me, then?" she asked eagerly.

"The police—perhaps, yes."

Miss Warburton, sitting beside the senator in the mortuary chapel where Mrs. Paradine's funeral was taking place, cast a discreet eye around.

All the Jennesma household and staff were here, except Dirk Adams and Edward Paradine.

From the senator beside her Miss Warburton could feel the glow of quiet companionship. She would miss him when he was gone.

"If you're determined to make Dirk a martyr you're building up for a sad flop, my girl," Kim said.

Winnie looked up from her typewriter. She was trying to catch up on her work after the funeral.

"I don't see why. He's arrested, isn't he?"

"Held. Held for questioning.

"Then why won't they let me visit him or even talk to him over the telephone? You're mean, Kim. You won't even let him be in danger without belittling it."

"After what seemed like a long time, he lifted her face, looked down at her, kissed her quickly again, and ran out of the room."

"Danger," he hooted. "He swore to me that he got back to his house at 2 a. m. that night. If he could find just one reliable witness. . . ."

"But that's just it," Winnie cried, excitedly. "She won't admit it. She won't help him. She doesn't want to be dragged into a murder trial."

"She? Who's that?"

"O, darn it. I was supposed not to tell. Don't ask me any more."

Kim sat down on the edge of the desk, swinging one long leg.

"Look, Winnie. You don't love that big drip. It's nothing to me. I just hate to see a nice girl like you thrown away."

"Just a dog in the manger, hmmm? Go away. Go away! You're making me make all kinds of mistakes."

"Okay. But you'll be sorry you treated me like this when the navy christens a sub after me, posthumously. I'll bet I'll be wearing blue this time next year. Bet you a kiss on it."

With that he swooped down, caught her face in his two hands and laid warm lips against her mouth. After what seemed like a long time he lifted his face, looked down at her, kissed her quickly again, and ran out of the room.

Winnie put her head down on her arms on the typewriter.

"I'd like to help you, Adams, for Miss Leslie's sake." Sen. North inspected a chair closely, flicked it off with a folded newspaper, and sat down.

Dirk rested his elbows on the table, ran his fingers thru his hair and sulked. His eyes were bloodshot. A night behind the bars hadn't been fun.

"I can't see how you expect to help me, if you won't even believe me," he said sullenly.

"Don't try that tone on me, young man. I've been attacked by bigger and better bullies than you'll ever be. If you paid Mrs. Paradine back the money you borrowed from her, why didn't you get back your I. O. U.?"

"She said she'd lost it."

North's smile was the famous one that had caused the gentleman from South Carolina to offer to knock out his teeth on the senate floor.

"O, she did, did she?" North said. "And you swallowed it? Why didn't you demand a receipt then? She could have scrawled a line and signed it. That would have been enough."

Dirk scowled down at his hands, mumbled something, and was ordered to speak up.

"Well, then . . . she wanted to make me a present of the money. And when she finally persuaded me to take it she said she'd mislaid the I. O. U. but that she'd find it and destroy it. Naturally, under the circumstances, I couldn't keep at her for a receipt. She didn't want me to write the I. O. U. in the first place, but I insisted. That's the honest-to-God truth, but nobody will believe me."

"I believe you," said the senator grimly. "It's just the fool thing she would do. And I suppose I know why."

Dirk passed a hand self-consciously thru his curls. "Well . . . you know what she was like. She was the boss' sister. What could I do?"

The senator's expression could have been translated "you dirty rat" into any language.

North said, "So it all boils down to this. You didn't pay her back. She paid back herself by offering it to you as a gift. Now let's hear what you did with the money."

"No. That's as far as I go."

"It won't be, for long. The state police are dating you up with the lie detector."

Dirk sneered. "That's what they think. But it has to be voluntary, and I'm not having any. They can make all they want to out of it."

"Did you know they're questioning Miss Leslie tomorrow?"

For a moment Dirk looked concerned. "That's her headache."

North sprang up. He had had enough.

The senator had promised Lt. French to convoy Miss Leslie to East Lansing for the polygraph test. Kim was mobilized as driver, and Miss Warburton found herself in the party without knowing how North had managed it.

His sole purpose in this jaunt was to enjoy Miss Warburton's company for the 60 miles over and back. So he was not amused when Winnie refused to sit in front with Kim.

"You'd better tell the truth, Winnie," he counseled her, curtly. "Nobody has fooled the polygraph yet except imbeciles and psychopaths. And I wouldn't say lying was your forte."

Winnie said haughtily, "I lie quite successfully when necessary. I wish everybody would get me off his mind."

Illinois Parley on Jobs for Vets to Open May 28

Washington, D. C., May 20 (AP)—The 11th annual conference of state veterans' employment representatives will be held in Chicago May 28 thru May 31, the war man power commission announced today. The representatives are attached to each state office of WMC to assist in finding jobs for service men.

U-BOAT SINKS OFF PORTUGAL; CREW ESCAPES

NAZARE, Portugal, May 20 (AP)—A German U-boat, abandoned by its crew, sank off shore today, and Portuguese naval authorities are trying to determine whether it had been scuttled. A report to allied representatives is scheduled tomorrow. Meanwhile, the American naval attache, Cmdr. Kenneth Demarest, conferred with Portuguese authorities.

The Nazare correspondent for the newspaper, Diario Lisboa, said the submarine, U-963, flashed distress signals at 3 a. m. and when a lifeboat went out the captain said his ship was full of water and asked for assistance. The Portuguese ordered the U-boat to the nearest port, the correspondent said, but the crew abandoned ship in rubber boats. The Portuguese towed the U-boat a short distance before it sank. The Germans were interned.

Surrender terms forbid scuttling of any ships.

HEAD INJURED IN ATTACK

William Dillard, 18, Negro, of 1801 S. State st., suffered a possible fractured skull yesterday in an alley at Clark and Van Buren sts. where, he told police, he was assaulted by two Negroes. He was taken to St. Luke's hospital.

1,000 Rabbis Ask Opening of Palestine to Jews

New York, May 20 (AP)—Dr. Felix Levy of Chicago, chairman of the committee on unity for Palestine of the Zionist organization of America, said today 1,000 American rabbis had signed an appeal to the San Francisco conference and to "the conscience of America" for the opening of Palestine to the Jews of Europe. Included among the signers from Orthodox, Conservative, and Reform congregations were also 71 chaplains serving in all branches of military service, Dr. Levy said.

BRITISH HOP OFF TO FIND MISSING MAGNETIC POLE

Bomber Over Roof of the World on Test Run

BY WILLIAM STRAND

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, May 19 [Delayed] — Search for an important part of the earth's anatomy, mislaid some time in the last 30 years, is taking the first flyers across the roof of the world since Russian airmen hopped to Alaska and the United States in 1936. The flyers this time are British. They left yesterday on their mission—to locate exactly the magnetic north pole, last heard from in 1915.

Dereliction of the upper magnetic pole may surprise many people, but scientists say they have long been aware of its vagaries. Map makers have allowed for it with the notation to adjust compass readings so many minutes per year from the date each specific chart was printed.

Off Its Schedule

However, it was explained here today, the pole hasn't moved according to schedule and scientists are perturbed over the phenomenon. When last plotted, the pole was somewhere in Boothia peninsula in northern Canada, but now it's believed to be as far as 400 miles farther north.

Meteorologists profess to understand the mysteries of the pole's movement, but it's pretty deep stuff to the layman. This is said after a brow wrinkling day of looking at myriad maps with whorls and loops of red and black lines, and listening to experts.

Trial Run Over Pole

Regardless, the magnetic pole has moved since the last survey and the Britishers are determined to find it. They are flying a standard Lancaster bomber within the fuselage of which compasses and experimental gadgets are strung from end to end. The heavily loaded plane, with an eight man crew and extra fuel tanks, made a trial run over the geographic north pole before setting out for western Canada yesterday.

They expect to fly 4,000 miles nonstop on the return trip from near the eastern boundary of Alaska to the United Kingdom over the Great Circle. It is on this trip that the flyers will hunt for the mislaid pole —a matter of no little importance, for it is toward this point, and not the geographic or true north, that the compass needle points. Navigators must know its exact location.

The flight, under auspices of the Empire Navigation school, is concerned solely with problems of polar navigation and the testing of recently devised instruments for this particular type of flying, a royal air force staff officer said. Equipment includes special gyros and compasses designed to take the place of the ordinary direction finder when the plane is near the navigation focal points.

Carries Special Gyro

Ordinary gyros are useless near the pole because the wheel is too small and not exact enough, the officer said. Therefore, the plane carries a gyro with a special big wheel. A number of navigators are assigned to make a close study of scores of instruments.

Location of the pole is possible only within an approximate radius of 40 miles from the air, it was explained. After that it will be necessary for a ground party to pin point it exactly.

The flight over the geographic north pole took 19 hours and was uneventful except that the plane was forced back once because of bad weather after having been in the air nine hours. After three hours' rest the crew took off again.

The plane has a cruising range of 5,000 miles, or 25 hours' flying time. It carries food for three months and special equipment for sustaining life in the event of a forced landing in the arctic.

EDUCATION HEAD DEFENDS 15 PCT. RISE IN BUDGET

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Springfield, Ill., May 20—Frank G. Thompson, director of registration and education, today defended his higher budget for the next two years by saying the general office item still is lower than it was for 1939-'41 when living costs were less.

Thompson's appropriation bill, up for final passage in the senate this week, includes $152,244 for the general office division. In the 1939-'41 budget the Democrats received $158,800 for this division. For 1941-'43 he asked $134,672.

The registration division requires $941,592 for the next two years, Thompson said, or an increase of about 15 per cent over 1943-'45. The largest item is $125,785 for personal services. This represents a 23.3 per cent increase in this account. Thompson said it was needed to cover the rise in state employes' salaries.

40 MILE WINDS TOPPLE SIGNS AND LAMPPOST

The city had a variety of weather yesterday, including a brief squall with winds at 40 miles an hour toppling signboards and a Michigan av. bridge lamppost, and snatching hats from pedestrians.

The squall struck the city around noon and Forecaster E. S. Hanlon recorded wind gusts reaching 40 miles an hour at the airport. It lasted only a short time and passed out into the lake, where it died before hitting Michigan, he said.

Slight showers which fell during the day produced only a small amount of precipitation but kept people wary of going outside. Moments of sunshine were enough encouragement for some who traveled to the parks and zoos and attended various celebrations.

At the height of the wind yesterday, a steel lamppost on the southeast end of the Michigan av. bridge fell into the road and smashed. Traffic was blocked until several passing sailors aided a policeman in dragging the post to one side.

Society Outlines Steps to Guard Against Rabies

A warning that there are more cases of rabies in animals in spring than in any other season, and that prevention of rabies in man depends on the control of rabies in dogs, is contained in an article in the current issue of the Chicago Medical Society Bulletin. Any one who has been bitten by a dog should see a doctor at once, the article advises. The health or police department should be notified and the dog impounded for observation. If rabies develops clinically in man, death always results.

BRETTON WOODS FOES BRANDED AS 'ILLITERATES'

Opponents of the Bretton Woods world economics scheme were branded as "economic illiterates" by a college professor speaking on the University of Chicago Roundtable broadcast yesterday. He is Thomas A. Bailey, professor of history at Stanford university.

Other speakers on the broadcast, which followed an introductory talk by Sen. Tom Connally, co-vice chairman of the United States delegation at the San Francisco conference, included John D. Hicks, professor of history and dean of the graduate division of the University of California, and Louis Gottschalk, professor of history at the University of Chicago.

Hicks said he was "optimistic" about the accomplishments of the conference. Gottschalk said the United States should take leadership in creating a security organization, but "feared" the present trends would result simply in a new power alliance.

A new and finer Katy now serves the Southwest!

Within the past four years nearly a hundred million dollars have been put back into Katy properties to afford the most efficient rail transportation the Southwest has ever enjoyed.

In spite of serious shortages of men and materials, every inch of main-line road bed has been reballasted. . . . Nearly 350 miles of new steel have been laid . . . 4,500,000 creosoted cross ties installed . . . 900 locomotives given heavy repairs or rebuilt . . . Revenue freight cars in bad order reduced to 3/10 of 1 percent of ownership—a record "low" in the Company's history. . . . All passenger equipment has been repaired and renovated. . . . Stations, service buildings and bridges strengthened, repaired and painted, and many other improvement projects completed. And the Katy's record of good housekeeping is outstanding.

All this without a borrowed penny—and at the same time the mortgage debt was being reduced approximately $40,000,000.

The Katy is building to keep pace with the new and greater Southwest.

BRITISH PARTIES OPEN DRIVES FOR ELECTION FUNDS

Labor Turns Down Plea to Continue Coalition

BY JOSEPH CERUTTI
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, May 20—With a general election foreshadowed for July 5 or 12, Britain's political party treasurers are piling up fighting funds for what promises to be one of the most vigorous campaigns in Britain's history.

The executive committee of the Labor party conference meeting at Blackpool today turned down Prime Minister Churchill's proposal to continue the coalition government until after the end of the Japanese war. Clement Attlee, deputy prime minister, and Ernest Bevin, minister of labor, supported Churchill's proposals. All the other Labor ministers and the members of the national executive committee headed by Herbert Morrison, home secretary, opposed it.

The Liberals have appealed on a nation-wide scale for $800,000 election funds. The Laborites have called on trade unionists and party sympathizers for $1,000,000. The Conservative finance committee, without mentioning specific figures, told party members that it was "an obligation of honor" for each to pay up according to his means.

Bribery Forbidden

The days when candidates bribed voters have gone. As the result of the passage of the reform act, a candidate who gives, lends, or promises money to an elector for his support at the polls risks jail.

The act failed to banish the power of the purse from British politics, however. It continued to flourish under the guise of gifts to central party funds and local associations.

Conservative candidates, for what are known as "safe' seats, had to pledge in advance up to $12,000 yearly to the party organization. Donations of from $2,000 to $4,000 a year frequently are exacted. The salary of a member of parliament is $2,400 annually.

There are three sources from which candidates generally are financed—their own pockets, local contributions, and subsidies from headquarters. Under this system a tendency has developed for constituencies with a substantial majority of Conservative votes to sell out to the highest bidders, leaving the poorer candidates to contest for hopeless and difficult seats.

Try to Check Abuses

Criticism of the tactics of the Conservative associations has been a recurrent feature of party meetings for years. In a belated effort to check the abuses, Conservative headquarters recently advised the local associations that candidates' subscriptions should not normally exceed $400 a year and 50 per cent of election expenses.

The cost of fighting an election in an average constituency of 50,000 voters is estimated at around $4,800 dollars, so that even if the local associations obey the ruling from headquarters a newly elected Conservative MP can expect to be at least $400 out of pocket at the end of his first year at Westminster. This takes no account of the salary of the local political agent, varying from $1,600 to $6,000 a year, which he also frequently is expected to pay, or of personal living expenses.

Liberals and Conservatives, in war chest appeals to the public or to party members, have referred enviously to the income derived by the Labor party from its political levy on trade union members.

STERILIZE UNFIT BRITISH, BISHOP URGES NATION

Also Proposes Mercy Deaths

BY E. R. NODERER
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, May 20—To save Britain from the peril of "bad racial stocks," the 71 year old bishop of Birmingham, Dr. E. W. Barnes, today proposed legislation for euthanasia [mercy death] and sterilization for mental defectives.

Dr. E. W. Barnes

He told the cooperative congress at Nottingham that the country should protect itself against "scrub" children the same as it does against scrub cattle, since problem children grow up to create problem families.

"We have intensified the process by killing off the best of our youth while the feebleminded ones were of no use to the army and were sent home to be paid high wages in simple jobs they do badly," he added.

"Weak Are Protected"

"Whereas some times good racial stock finds the struggle against bad conditions too severe, bad stock can endure sordid, unhealthy surroundings and breed recklessly to maintain its numbers in miserable poverty.

"Tho we know mental defects are inherited, civilized man protects the weak and even worthless, so our mental deficients and problem families increase."

Warning the country that "for our national welfare we must ultimately try to solve the problem," he proposed sterilization of the feebleminded. He pointed out that many countries have legalized such sterilization.

Church Blames Parents

The general assembly of the Church of Scotland, in a report published today, blamed the "low standard of behavior of many adults" for the "the great increase in juvenile delinquency."

Asserting that "neglect or carelessness no longer is confined to slum dwellers but can be found in those much higher up in the social scale," the church document added:

"In view of the inability or refusal of so many parents to accept responsibility for their children, and their unwillingness to sacrifice their convenience and entertainment, we should be thankful so many turn out as well as they do."

New U. S. Ambassador, Family Reach Argentina

BUENOS AIRES, May 20 [Reuters]—Spruille Braden, newly appointed American ambassador to Argentina, has arrived here in a United States army plane, accompanied by his wife and daughter. Braden, formerly ambassador to Cuba, was nominated ambassador to Argentina by President Truman on April 19.

20,000 CHICAGO NORSE HAIL DAY OF INDEPENDENCE

Lithuanians Observe Freedom Also

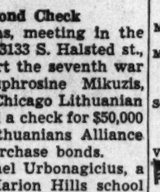
Norwegians and Lithuanians in Chicago yesterday observed the Constitution day of their nations in separate ceremonies. Parades and speeches marked the celebrations which attracted more than 20,000 Norwegians and 2,000 Lithuanians.



Fredrik Haslund

The signing of the Norwegian constitution on May 17, 1814, was commemorated with a parade of 5,000 persons, many of the women and girls gaily dressed in native costumes, from Rockwell st. and Wabansia av. to Humboldt park. About 15,000 persons watched the activities in the park.

Need No Superman

Fredrik Haslund, former secretary of the Norwegian parliament, told the crowd that Norway and America are closer than ever before. In Norway people ride in American cars and use American razors. In America people read the news on Norwegian newsprint, he said.

"Neither America nor Norway need a fuehrer or superman to rule them," he said. "They are true democracies."

$50,000 Bond Check

The Lithuanians, meeting in the Community hall, 3133 S. Halsted st., pledged to support the seventh war loan drive. Euphrosine Mikuzis, secretary of the Chicago Lithuanian council, presented a check for $50,000 to enable the Lithuanians Alliance of America to purchase bonds.

The Rev. Michael Urbonagicius, a teacher in the Marion Hills school in Hinsdale, urged the Lithuanians to support President Truman in any stand against communism. He asserted that Communists, alarmed by a show of firmness by the President, have undertaken a "sly campaign" to discredit him on the charge he is "breaking pledges made by Roosevelt."

Petras Dauzvardis, Lithuanian counsel, reminded the audience of the signing of the nation's constitution May 5, 1920. He asked that the United States and Great Britain do everything in their power to safeguard Lithuanian rights.

FORMER PRELATE ALEXANDROF, 74, IS DEAD IN EAST

Baltimore, May 20 (AP)—The Very Rev. Vladimir V. Alexandrof, 74, former archbishop-elect of the Pacific coast and Alaska in the Russian orthodox church, died in a Baltimore hospital today of a cerebral hemorrhage.

Father Alexandrof was born in Russia July 14, 1870. He was appointed by the holy synod of the Russian orthodox church for service in the American mission in 1895.

In 1924 he was appointed archbishop of the Pacific coast and Alaska. On July 4, 1933, before he was to have been consecrated bishop, he entered the Roman Catholic church and resigned his jurisdiction in the Russian orthodox church. He is survived by a son and daughter.

Tea Will Open Ravinia Ticket BookCampaign

BY JUDITH CASS

IN preparation for the six week summer concert season which will open on June 30, Ravinia park is now undergoing its annual face lifting. With the ticket drive scheduled to start June 1, Mrs. Ernest Von Ammon, chairman of the Ravinia Festival association's coupon book sales committee, will open her Winnetka home a week from Tuesday afternoon for the annual "launching tea."

In charge of sales in the north shore and western suburbs will be Mrs. Alexander F. Beaubien for Waukegan; Mrs. Laurence F. McClure and Mrs. Julius E. Lackner, Highland Park; Mrs. Dwight C. Orcutt, Glencoe; Mrs. Robert O. Butz, Winnetka; Mrs. James R. D. Stevenson Jr., Kenilworth; Miss Frances Scheidenheim, Wilmette; Mrs. Norman Westerhold, Evanston; Miss Alice Barler, Chicago; Mrs. Joseph M. Friedlander, Barrington; Mrs. William H. Weiboldt, River Forest and Oak Park, and Miss Juliette Brown, Lake Forest.

Soloists for the opening performance at Ravinia park by the Chicago Symphony orchestra, conducted by Désiré Defauw, will be Musician 3d Class Oscar Chausow, violinist on leave from the Chicago Symphony, and Musician 2d Class Frank Miller, cellist on leave from Toscanini's radio orchestra. Artur Rodzinski, Erich Leinsdorf, George Szell, Massimo Freccia, Leonard Bernstein, and Pierre Monteux are to be guest conductors for the six subsequent weeks. The regular season will be followed by a week of chamber music by the Pro Arte quartet.

This year's coupon books will contain 15 tickets, each of which will be good for one gate admission or a reserved seat in the pavilion for any regular concert. Because of increased expenses at the park gate admissions will be advanced to $1 plus a 20 cent federal tax, and the books will sell for $10 plus a $3 federal tax. Army and navy personnel and children will be admitted for 40 cents. By purchasing a coupon book a subscriber will save $5 for the 15 admissions.

Romantic News

The chapel of St. Bartholomew's Episcopal church in New York was hte setting Saturday afternoon for the marriage of Miss Mary Constance Bull, daughter of Mrs. Harry C. Calvin of Winnetka, Ill., to Ensign Wilson Askew Jaicks Jr., naval air forces, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jaicks of Lake Forest. The ceremony was performed by the rector, the Rev. Dr. George Paul T. Sargent.

The bride, daughter of the late Richard Sutton Bull, was given in marriage by her stepfather, Col. Galvin Aus, who flew from Europe for the wedding. She wore a gown of ivory colored satin and a veil of old rosepoint lace. Her bouquet was of stephonotis and bouvardia.

Mrs. Ellen Bull O'Brien of Glenview, Ill., was matron of honor for her sister, and the other attendants were Mrs. John H. Hobart of Winnetka and Miss Nancy Jaicks, sister of the bridegroom. Ensign John Mack was best man. A reception was given at the Gorham hotel.

After a wedding trip, Ensign and Mrs. Jaicks will make their home at the naval air station, Wildwood, N. J.

The bride studied at the North Shore Country Day school in Winnetka, Chatham [Va.] hall, and Smith college. Her husband attended the Bell school in Lake Forest, the Hotchkiss school, and Yale university.

In the post chapel at Fort Meyer, Va., Miss Martin Willman McAndrews, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Francis McAndrews of Oak Park, and Capt. William Enda Prendergast of the army were married on Saturday, with the bride's uncle, the Rev. F. X. O'Riordan of Detroit, Mich., officiating. Capt. Pren-

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

Housekeeping Job

A young woman who heads a department handling correspondence for a large firm spoke, recently, of her "housekeeping job." She meant, of course, that the task of organization, direction, and coördination was not unlike the efficient management of a household.

Other firms with similar departments will, I think, agree. For example, the stenographic department of Quaker Oats has an eye, first of all, to furnishings. Posture chairs are adjusted to each typist; all the desks have been remodeled to eliminate vibration and keep the "office home" as quiet as possible.

Twenty-three stenographers, 12 typists, three messengers, and six multigraph operators serve about 20 departments [and 175 dictators]. Normally they turn out from 600 to 800 letters a day, and in addition, type statistical reports, cut stencils, address envelopes, and handle a wide variety of copy material.

Most of the dictation is handled by the girls in rotation, each taking her turn. About one-fifth of them have been in the stenographic department over 20 years—one record dates back to 1908! Mixed in with the "old timers" are young high school graduates and junior typists, and supervising them all is Erna Prisman—the overseeing "lady-of-the-house" in this large scale housekeeping job.

Dis and Data

A St. Luke's nurse has been overseas so long she writes home that she and her friends call the United States "the old country." . . . An employment bureau posted the contribution of M. S. O'Gara, "Re: That Youthful Look" on the bulletin board which pleases us. . . . Were any of our girls at service men's center No. 1 the evening a soldier had his good conduct ribbon rigged up so that it would light up when the button of his shirt was pressed? Pretty cute.

Outdoor WCGs are poring over the Y. W. C. A. bulletin about Forest Beach camp. Registration now is in order at 59 E. Monroe. . . . A note in the mail says "Please add Lt. Dorothy C. McGinnis, a 1936 graduate of the University of Chicago, to the 'Feminine Firsts.' One of the first four women marine corps officers to be assigned outside the country she is serving in Hawaii." . . . I like the "Field Glass" observation "To swallow irritation is easier than to contemplate in leisure, a flagrant act of discourtesy."

WAVE Is Wed to Officer in River Forest

Announcement is made of the marriage on May 16 in the River Forest Methodist church of Miss Jane Harriette Halleck of the WAVES, daughter of Mrs. Harry Gerald Halleck of Granville av., and Lt. William Edwy Parrish of the army, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Parrish of Ridgewood, N. J. The ceremony was followed by a reception in the Oak Park home of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin W. Kushel, great-uncle and aunt of the bride.

The bride attended the American Academy of Art, and Lt. Parrish was graduated in 1937 from Dartmouth college. After a wedding trip they will return to their respective posts, the bride to New Orleans, La., and Lt. Parrish to Chicago.

The Rev. and Mrs. Thomas M. Lineweaver of Danville, Ill., formerly of South Chicago, announce the marriage recently of their daughter, Mary Phyllis, to Lt. [j. g.] Charles Smith White, son of Mrs. J. Erving White and the late Mr. White of Jerseyville Ill. Lt. White and his bride are graduates of Knox college, and she was on the staff of the Mayo General hospital in Galesburg. Lt. White received his commission from the midshipmen's school at Columbia university and has served in the Mediterranean. His bride will live with her parents while he is on active duty. Dr. Lineweaver was pastor of the Bird Memorial church in South Chicago and director of the South Chicago Community center, which he founded.

From Lakewood, O., comes the announcement made by Mr. and Mrs. E. I. Yesberger of the marriage on May 5 of their daughter, Jean, to Ensign Eugene F. De Armond Jr. of the navy air forces, son of Mr. and Mrs. De Armond of Linder av. The ceremony took place in the home of the bride's parents. Both Ensign and Mrs. De Armond attended Knox college. He received his wings from the navy air station at Corpus Christi, Tex., and now is stationed in Atlanta, Ga.

Mr. and Mrs. Elroy C. Sandquist of N. Whipple st. announce the approaching marriage on June 1 of their daughter, Marilyn Alice, to Lt. Robert M. James of the army, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard V. James of La Grange. Miss Sandquist will be graduated this month from the University of Illinois, from which her fiancé also received his degree. He recently completed his training as an air observer with the field artillery and is stationed at Fort Sill, Okla., where the wedding will take place in the post chapel and where he and his bride will live.

Mrs. Robert G. Gerhardt of S. Harvey av., Oak Park, announces the marriage on April 14 of her daughter, Grace Anne, to Gunnar R. Burke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernt G. Burke of Dickens av. The marriage took place in the Second Presbyterian church of Oak Park. Mr. Burke and his bride are at home in N. Albany av.

"Countess Maritza" Succeeds "Du Barry" Next Sunday; Other Notes of the Stage and Music

Wise theater schedules come under the head of highly maneuverable craft, and in the face of great calm at the boxoffice they can put quickly into the port of change. Having sailed out on a season avowedly devoted to operettas new to Chicago, the Civic Opera house quickly veers from "Mme. Du Barry," which closes Saturday night, and hauls up the familiar sails of "Countess Maritza," Emmerich Kalman's Hungarian gypsy version of the taming of a pretty shrew.

"Maritza" first came to Chicago about 20 years ago, with Odette Myrtil of the violin boosting herself to stardom with the song hit, "Play, Gypsies! Dance, Gypsies!" Not long after that she was up in lights as George Sand, which anticipated "A Song to Remember" by casting Guy Robertson as Chopin, and without the aid of José Iturbi, either. I don't remember who ghosted the piano, but I do recall that Chopin looked down his nose at a tenor, saying reproachfully, "You fellows are all alike. If you aren't saying "I, I, I," you are singing "Me, me, me." Mr. Robertson enjoyed that line. After all he really was more a baritone.

When "Maritza" moves in next Monday night it will have Helene Arthur and Roxanne Damar in the roles first played in this country by Miss Myrtil and Yvonne D'Arle, while Harold Patrick, now the card sharp Du Barry, takes the Walter Woolf part—or is your memory that durable? Others of the cast are being transferred from the current show, with Phil Fein new as stage director. If Mitzi Hajos is still about, she ought to know her Kalman. His "Sari" was one of her biggest hits, back in the days when she was a tiny, honey colored blonde with a funny voice that popped and cracked like a particularly successful Fourth of July.

It Isn't Mabel

John Alden Carpenter has written a new symphony not yet ready for discussion. But it isn't that threatened seascape inspired by his celebrated sea shell, Mabel, the one that was to have been in four movements, each named Mabel. . . . Bruce Foote is about to set off to appear in Bach's Christmas Oratorio. No, the weather hasn't mixed him up. The scheduled January performance was postponed by a blizzard, as this one may well be, too . . . Serge Koussevitzky, with members of the Boston orchestra and celebrated soloists, will play a festival of Bach and Mozart at Tanglewood in the Berkshires during July and August.

Johnson Triumphant

Edward Johnson's Metropolitan Opera contract has been extended two more years . . . Pierre Monteux is added to next season's list of Philadelphia orchestra guest conductors . . . Masquerading as Janos Kovacs, Mrs. Basil Rathbone has written a play about Franz Liszt, to be acted by her picturesque husband . . . Edmund Gwenn will appear for Guthrie McClintic in Tennessee Williams' "You Touched Me" . . . In George Kaufman's adaptation, "Hollywood Pinafore," Little Buttercup becomes "Little Butter-up," a columnist played to the thorny hilt by Shirley Booth. Just to be impartial about it, the character is billed as Louhedda Hopsons. Depends on her hats which way the satirical wind really blows.

Cathedral Crowded for Celebrating of Church Anniversary

All Saints Polish National Catholic cathedral, 2012 W. Dickens st., was crowded yesterday morning for impressive services which mark the golden jubilee of the founding of the communion. Bishop Leon Grochowski, of the western diocese who presides over the cathedral, offered the solemn pontifical high mass in the presence of other prelates and dignitaries from various parts of the country.

The communion evolved out of a movement which was begun on Chicago's northwest side. Following the consecration of the first bishop, the late Rt. Rev. Anthony Kozlowski, the church began its expansion thruout city and nation. The ten parishes of Chicago participated in yesterday's jubilee and the 168 parishes of the country observed yesterday's anniversary.

In Ashland Boulevard auditorium yesterday afternoon, the civic side of the observance was held, with Bishop Wallace E. Conkling, of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago, and the Rev. Dr. Marvin M. Deems, representative of the Church Federation of Greater Chicago, participating.

Memorial services for the church's founders and its service personnel who lost their lives will be held today.

White Orchid's Rare Beauty Is Seen This Week

BY REA SEEGER

Once a year, timed almost exactly for early summer weddings, dramatic white orchids appear. According to the florists, there is one entire week, this year it's this week, during which these exotic blooms are radiantly perfect and abundant. White orchids with magenta lips are the special delight of the connoisseur, for their fragile looking but amazingly long wearing petals are alabaster white, with the contrast of deep magenta in the center.

The Canhamiana—the botanical name for this exquisite orchid—is large and luxuriant. These represent the peak of the loveliness for a bridal bouquet or for a single bloom pinned triumphantly to a summer suit if the wedding is not of the pageant type. White orchids are exceptionally effective with dull black dresses or with dress-parade suits or coats of moire and faille. And what's more, Canhamianas last with but average care for more than a single day. Despite the exotic rarity of white orchids, these Canhamianas not only have the once a year appearance, but during that time stand out over every other shade of orchid or other flowers for romantic appeal.

These are particularly exciting gifts to the men who send flowers. For nothing ever packed in a florist's box makes the same impressive entrance. Canhamianas are wide and large. A single beauty easily covers a wide lapel; two, the shoulder, and a triple corsage is equal to the most important or gala occasion. Wear them without any extra ribbons, greenery, or frills. They're exciting enough just as they are.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., May 20 — Robert Cummings had a long distance call from Basil Dean in London offering him the lead in "Young Genius." But Bob told him he had a date with Uncle Sam. . . . Since George Cukor will direct "Razor's Edge" and no girl has been decided upon, I'd like to put in my two cents' worth. The story calls for an American girl — some one like Barbara Hutton when she was young and plump, then develops into what Barbara is today, cynical and slender. If you can get that on the screen, you've got what I think was in Somerset Maugham's mind about the girl. . . . Jean Roberts, 18 year old newcomer from Oklahoma City, who was discovered at a party by Clarence Brown, is testing for a great part — the girl in "Forever." She's a different type — young, with frightened eyes, and the squarest jaw I've ever seen. . . . Makes me feel ancient to hear that Virginia Weidler will beat Shirley Temple to the altar.

Strictly a Ho Hum Idea

David Selznick's asking for the appointment of a motion picture secretary of state is a little presumptuous. . . . When Arturo Toscanini was here, he gave no indication of being interested in a screen story of his life. Now we'll probably break our backs trying to get him. He did a short for the OWI which he seemed to like, but he impressed me as being tired and wanting no more burdens put upon him. . . . Comdr. John Ford, on the set of "They Were Expendable," fell and broke his leg. When his camerman, Lt. Comdr. Joseph August, heard that it was a definite break, he said, "God works in a mysterious way. This will probably keep him from combat duty in the navy." . . . Reginald Gardiner's beginning to complain. Like the dramatic actresses who want to show their legs, he wants to go dramatic, and he has put on a regular campaign for King Charles II. in "Forever Amber." Head man Darryl Zanuck doesn't hold that idea. . . . Mrs. Jan Kiepura doesn't want to sing this coming year. She wants to be just a wife and mother. Let Jan do the work, says she.

Set-Crawling in Hollywood

Audrey Trotter, who came from radio and whose voice is used only in "The Ziegfeld Follies" as a telephone operator in a sequence with Keenan Wynn, was afraid that's all she would get on the screen — her voice. She needn't have worried. She's playing a fine part with Robert Walker and June Allyson in "For Better, for Worse." On the set yesterday I discovered Audrey, a natural blonde in a black wig, being very mysterious. Bob pointed out his new dressing room which the studio gave him for Christmas. He was working with a cockatoo. The cockatoo had to stand on its perch and dance, and Bob sat on a sofa and danced with it. The bird got fed up with that rhythm and took a fiyout powder. Its trainer had to chase it all over the stage. . . . Richard Whorf tells me the Lunts [Alfred and Lynn] will return to this country by the end of this month. They will go directly to their Wisconsin farm. He'll join them for a holiday as soon as "For Better, For Worse" is completed. . . . John Charles Thomas decided to start dieting. He came down for breakfast and said, "I'll have nothing but grapefruit juice." Then he learned there wasn't a grapefruit on the place. Nothing else would do. John got in his car and left in a huff. An hour later he phoned his wife and said: "Have the gardener dig a hole five feet square and six feet deep." He named the location. The hole was dug, then a truck drove up, bearing a tree with two dozen grapefruit hanging on it.

First, Last and Always

The yarn that Bing Crosby won't sign a new Paramount contract unless he gets the same deal Bob Hope got had me holding my sides. It was because of Bing's deal, which he signed last year, that Bob battled with Paramount. Bing was just a little smarter. . . . Note from Harriet Hinsdale, from Warners. She writes: "My eye caught your story about Robert Louis Stevenson. He's been one of my life hobbies. I've written a play called 'Robert Louis Stevenson.' It will be published the end of this summer." Congratulations, Harriet. . . . Leroy Prinz is on his way to New York for the first time in five years to look at new shows and new girls. He hopes to pick some new ones for Warners. Who knows? He might even find another Bacall. The question is — could Warner's stand another? . . . The reason Lela Rogers isn't directing "Tomorrow Is Here" is that the studio wanted to turn her amusing story into one about the boys who've returned as neurotics. I thought we'd finished doing those. . . . Garry Moore takes along his collection of jazz records for the soldiers when he goes overseas. He was one of the best in the country. He also collects electric trains, but when that information leaked out, his wife was furious. She was afraid people would think he's moronic.

Home for Aged Meeting to Hear British Consul

Wilfred H. Gallienne, British consul, will be a special guest and speaker at the annual all-day meeting of the board of directors of the British Old People's home today in the La Salle hotel. The home is in Hollywood, Cook county. Sessions will open at 10:30 a. m. with reports of officers and committee chairmen. Heads of affiliated British service organizations will speak briefly in the afternoon. A talk by Ernest Reckitt, chairman of the home's advisory board, also is scheduled. Mrs. George Cooke Adams is president of the home, where 80 men and women of British birth or ancestry receive care.

Bohemian Woman's Civic Club Will Meet Today

The Bohemian Woman's Civic club has planned to make its annual spring luncheon, set for noon today in the Marine dining room of the Edgewater Beach hotel, an occasion for celebrating the golden anniversary of the Illinois Federation of Woman's Clubs, of which the Bohemian group is a member organization. Mrs. Walter M. Rennie, federation president, and Mrs. Charles S. Clark, who heads the Conference of Club Presidents and Program Chairmen, will be special guests. A highlight of the party will be the installation of officers, at which time Mrs. Edward J. Baumruk will relinquish the president's gavel to Mrs. Otto Zvolsky.

Lost: One Husband's Heart

SHE COULDN'T UNDERSTAND why her husband was drifting away from her. It never even occurred to her that her own "one neglect"—carelessness about feminine hygiene—was to blame. Today, so many modern wives use Lysol disinfectant. It cleanses quickly, thoroughly, and deodorizes, too. Yet it's so gentle for douching; doesn't harm sensitive vaginal tissues—just follow easy directions. Use economical Lysol. Write to Lehn & Fink, 683 Fifth Ave., New York 22, N. dergast is the son of Mrs. Margaret R. Prendergast of New Rochelle, N. Y., and Dublin, Ireland. After a wedding trip to Sea Island, Ga., he and his bride will live in Arlington, Va.

The former Miss McAndrews attended Marymount academy in New York, the Finch school, and Smith college. Capt. Prendergast attended Iona Preparatory school in New York and Blackrock college in Dublin. He is stationed at Fort Meyer.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Krier of Walsenburg, Colo., announce the engagement of their daughter, Carol, to Lt. Kohler McInnis of the army air forces, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emmet Emery McInnis of Evanston. Miss Krier received a degree in dietetics from the University of Colorado last June. Lt. McInnis, who attended the university, recently completed his training as a bombardier. He and his fiancée were in Evanston recently.

Here and There

Small white invitations which were delivered over the week-end to members of the Antiquarian society of the Art Institute of Chicago carried the welcome news that the society is planning one of its infrequent parties, a tea from 3 to 5 p. m. on May 29 to open a special loan exhibition, "The American Craft Tradition in Household Art, 1650-1850." Work was started Saturday on the new installations in galleries L 2 and 3, which will be on view for the first time during the tea.

Welcoming guests at the party will be Mrs. Phillip Miller, president of the society, and members of her board. The new exhibition was made possible thru a loan of an early American collection by Dr. and Mrs. Dudley Phelps Sanford of Aiken, S. C., and thru a fund established by Mrs. James Ward Thorne for the institute's use. The Antiquarians gave their last party a year ago this month when they entertained for Chauncey McCormick, president of the Art institute, and Mrs. McCormick.

Lt. LeRoy Kramer Jr. arrived yesterday from Memphis, Tenn., where he has been stationed at the naval air technical training station, to spend a few days with his wife, the former Betty Gillespie, and to meet his first child, a girl born on Friday in Passavant hospital.

Toys for Ailing Children Are Asked by Sally

BY SALLY JOY BROWN

Articles for sick children are requested today in the following appeals.

The first, from an agency which serves the needs of neglected or dependent children, follows:

"Dear Miss Brown: Will you please try to obtain a tricycle, scooter, or child's automobile for us? At least one of these playthings will be appreciated for little Marsha, whose father is no longer in the home and whose mother is working and therefore is unable to give her the kind of care, which, in this particular case, is so badly needed. This child spent a year in the hospital with a tubercular gland condition, and recently has been placed in a boarding home, near a park, where she has an opportunity to improve her health with out of doors pursuits of normal childhood. Despite her long illness, she is becoming quite active. She has no toys of her own, and badly needs some recreational outlets. A toy vehicle would help in her adjustment to other children."

The second is from Mrs. J., mother of a 10 year old girl, who was stricken with infantile paralysis last October. Good medical care and persistent nursing has enabled her to make an attempt to walk again. However, the doctor has ordered a large size tricycle in order that she may exercise her leg muscles more effectively and thus make it possible to eventually run and play, like other children. The name and address will be given to any interested reader.

Mexican Designs

BY NANCY CABOT

These 14 Mexican motifs offer a group of intriguing subjects typical of our southern neighbors. All the designs may be of bright colors, and they are adaptable for use on towels, napkins, kitchen curtains, or as color spots. They range in size from 2 by 2 to 3 by 3⅛ inches.

For the hot iron transfer pattern of the Mexican motifs, No. 529, send 15 CENTS in coin [wrap coin securely] to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th av., New York 1, N. Y.

Thru the Looking Glass

A skin perfume seems to us to be a good answer for the woman who likes to use a scenting agent that's more concentrated than toilet water or cologne and yet not as potent as regular perfume. This is not intended, of course, to take the place of regular perfume but is ideal for day time wear. As the name indicates, it should be used directly on the skin to release the full loveliness of the scent. You'll enjoy using this right now, but when the temperature begins to zoom you'll find yourself depending on it to keep you comfortable and fresh feeling all thru the sticky, hot days. It's particularly recommended for warm weather because it's so lasting and is cooling and refreshing to the skin.

There are several flower fragrances in the skin perfume to choose from—all lovely and excellent reproductions of the original flower tones. For the woman who likes a scent that's a bit unusual, there's a beautiful blended fragrance. We think this version has lots of appeal and lends itself nicely to all around wear. It's hard to determine the dominating note—there is a detectable bit of spice and a faint hint of lemon—but the over-all effect is of pleasant, appealing delicacy. We'd class this as more sophisticated than sweet, a decidedly distinguished fragrance. You'll find yourself enjoying this the more you use it and discover all the nuances of tone. It's not apt to become boring or tiresome but will grow more likable as it's worn.

You'll want to use this a little more sparingly than ordinary toilet water or cologne and if it is lightly stroked over arms and shoulders and about the throat the scent will waft about for hours, enveloping the person in a pretty cloud of fragrance.

$5 PRIZE RECIPE

Stuffed Artichoke Salad
[Serves four]

4 artichokes
1 cup flaked tuna fish, or shrimps
¾ cup finely chopped celery
¼ cup chopped walnuts
1 teaspoon lemon juice
¼ cup mayonnaise

Wash artichokes, remove discolored outer leaves. Cut off stems about ½ inch below base of leaves. Drop in rapidly boiling salted water to cover and cook, uncovered, 25 to 40 minutes or until tender. Drain upside down. Carefully separate and spread out petals. Cut or scoop hairy growth or "choke" from the choice bottom or heart and discard. Chill thoroly. Fill cavity with well blended fish, celery, nut meats, lemon juice, and mayonnaise.

"How to Cook and Eat in Chinese," by Buwei Yang-chao, is the best book on Chinese cookery I've seen. Published by the John Day Co., New York, this little volume sells for $3.50 at book stores, which seems like a lot of money for a small cookbook at first. When you get into the gay descriptions of Chinese eating habits and foods and read over the recipes for "Mushroom Meets Shrimp Cakes," and "Bean Curd Stirs Shelled Shrimps" you decide the book is worth what it cost. It's amusing, interesting, appeteasing, and what more can you wan of a cookbook of this kind, save that it drive you to the kitchen to let that mushroom meet the shrimp? The book does that, too!

A good gingerbread mix can help out the dessert situation these days. On present sugar rations it isn't possible for the homemaker to make very many cakes or other sweet deserts, but there are dozens of attractive ways to make luscious deserts out of packaged gingerbread mix. Fresh, slightly sweetened fruit or frozen, partly thawed fruit topping squares of war gingerbread can't be surpassed for flavor. Gingerbread a la mode is good, too, and you can bake gingerbread upside down cake using the prepared mix atop any popular upside down fruit combination. Gingerbread may be split and filled with a cream or custard filling, then sprinkled with confectioners' sugar, or it may be served warm with any hot or cold pudding sauce.

Cottage cheese is a good meat substitute, one which is easily available these days. It may be served plain, in salad, or ring mold, cheese cake, or even crumbed and fried as "cutlets."

A wonderful spring salad is composed of cottage cheese into which crisp sliced radishes, green onions, and diced cucumber have been mixed. Served on watercress or green leaf lettuce, that kind of salad carries a lot of appeal. Cottage cheese mixed with chives and garnished with sliced tomato and green pepper rings makes another good salad.

Cottage cheese and chives nested in a shrimp gelatin ring are an attractive Sunday supper dish.

Jellied Shrimp with Cottage Cheese
[Serves six to eight]

1 pound uncooked shrimps
1 bay leaf
1 tablespoon unflavored gelatin
¼ cup cold water
1¼ cups hot water
½ cup lemon juice
2 tablespoons prepared mustard
¾ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon white pepper
2 cups cottage cheese
2 tablespoons chives
Lettuce or other greens

Wash shrimps thoroly in cold water. Shell and remove black veins. Place in boiling water with bay leaf and simmer for 15 minutes. Drain and cool. Soften gelatin in cold water for 5 minutes, add hot water, and stir to dissolve. Add lemon juice, mustard, salt, and pepper. Blend well and chill until partly jelled. Fold in cooked shrimps. Fill greased ring mold, chill until firm. Serve on greens, filling center of ring with cottage cheese and chives.

Rev. Dr. Everett R. Clinchy says:

"Making A Better World will depend as much on real understanding and trust among all of us here at home, as on our relations with foreign countries," says Rev. Dr. Everett R. Clinchy, president of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, and member of the Advisory Board of Clergy of the daily CBS program "Light of the World."

How TRUE STORY MAGAZINE helps to build "understanding and trust" is dramatically shown in the complete novelette, "Every Mother's Son," in the new June issue, just one of many revealing true-to-life experiences you'll enjoy reading.

Inquiring Camera Girl

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Mrs. Carlton Neumeister, 3307 Schubert av.]

THE QUESTION

How did you learn to dance?

WHERE ASKED

Chicago Airport.

THE ANSWERS

Joe Smart, Weatherford, Okla., ship's cook and baker—I didn't know how to dance until I was married. Before that I was too bashful to ask a girl to dance because I didn't know how. My wife likes to dance and she dragged me out on the floor and taught me how. She was a most patient teacher.

Pvt. Charles Everhart, 4210 N. Bell av.—When I was in the eighth grade we had a woman gymnastics teacher who taught dancing every Friday. It was a good idea, I think, because all the youngsters in my class learned to dance at the age when it was easy to catch on. Every one should know how to dance.

Elsie Froyd, 6414 Newgard av., telephone operator—I learned to dance in Sweden when I was 9 or 10 years old. Dances there were held on a big outdoor floor. I was too young to dance with boys. I danced with the girls and watched the older people, copying their steps. The dances were the same as ours.

Robert Baker, 6109 N. Campbell av., engineer—My sister struggled for many nights trying to teach me. She accomplished a lot. Then girl friends taught me some steps. Now I can get around on the floor, but I'm certainly not an Arthur Murray. However, I realize that most people are just ordinary dancers.

James Welter, 2844 Touhy av., motor machinist's mate—The girls in my class in grammar school began getting together and learning to dance. When they got good at it they gave parties and invited the boys to attend, then taught us the steps. In a short while we had picked it up. I've been grateful to these girls ever since.

June Callahan, 8132 Harvard av., singer—When the boys and girl in my classes started going to dances, I wanted to learn, too. I knew that the best way was to get out on the floor and try. I wasn't at all bashful. I just listened to the music and danced. The most important thing was letting myself follow the rhythm.

ANSWERS TO SATURDAY'S QUIZ

Q. 1—As dealer you hold, believe it or not:

♠— ♥— ♦AKQJ74 ♣KQJ10962

What is your opening bid?

A.—Six clubs. Not the least bit sensational, but eminently sound. The only card you are interested in is the ace of clubs. If partner happens to hold it he should realize that you were counting on losing to that card and can therefore have no other losers. It should then become a simple matter for him to pull himself together and bid seven. The objection to opening with two of a suit is that partner may have tremendous values in the majors and carry you to seven without the ace of clubs. That will be a hard one to laugh off. For those employing the system calling only for aces after a two bid, such a call is in order.

Q. 2—As South you hold:

♠A104 ♥853 ♦A109 ♣KQJ5

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South

What do you bid?

A.—Two clubs. While you intend to reach game ultimately, slow progress should be made in order to make certain that the best final contract is reached. Even tho you have the high card requirements for such a bid, a two no trump call would be poor strategy, because of the single spade stopper. The no trump effort can be postponed until later in the auction. If hearts are rebid that should be a much safer spot.

Q. 3—As South you hold:

♠4 ♥A62 ♦AJ1096 ♣AQJ5

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 diamond	Pass	1 spade	Pass
2 clubs	Pass	4 clubs	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Four hearts. Prospects for a slam are bright and it is imperative to show the ace of hearts since clubs have been so violently agreed upon. If partner happens to have a singleton heart he may be able to contract for slam, for which there should be a very fine play.

Q. 4—As South you hold:

♠K109 ♥63 ♦AKJ5 ♣K742

The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 diamond	Pass	1 heart	1 spade

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. Your partner is still on deck and is at liberty to act if his hand has any merit. It would be highly improper for you to bid one no trump at this point just to show you have a spade stopper. Such action on your part would denote a hand well above minimum requirements. If partner is unable to make a move you are just as well out of the fight.

Q. 5—Partner opens with one heart and you hold:

♠A92 ♥943 ♦AJ9 ♣Q1074

What is your response?

A.—Two clubs a compromise bid. The hand is too strong for a one no trump response and not good enough for a two no trump bid which would be forcing to game. If partner rebids two hearts you may try two no trump next time which would show a desire to reach game, but would not insist upon it.

Q. 6—As South you hold the hand shown in problem 5. The bidding has proceeded:

Pass	Pass	1 heart	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—Two no trump. Inasmuch as you have previously passed, partner knows your hand is not the equal of a opening and your jump is now not forcing. He may pass if he chooses. It is not now necessary to make a roundabout bid. A two club response after your previous pass may be dropped by partner.

Q. 7—As South you hold:

♠KQ2 ♥J5 ♦A643 ♣J652

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 spade	Pass	2 spades	Pass
3 clubs	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Three diamonds. This bid serves a multiple purpose. If partner is trying to get to three no trump, this may make it easy. If he is testing the nature of your raise, this will show that you are interested, and if he has slam aspirations your hand is well suited for the purpose, particularly in view of your mild response.

Q. 8—As South you hold:

♠KJ972 ♥Q43 ♦3 ♣J975

The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South
1 club	Double	?

What do you bid?

A.—One spade. It is essential to bid promptly with hands of this type else you may miss your opportunity. You may even find it expedient to help clubs on the next round just for the purpose of competing for the part score. A bid directly over an adverse double does not denote a bad hand. It is merely that you are not strong enough to redouble and are anxious to speak.

Club Women to Hear Talk on Best Seller Techniques

Selling techniques used by some publishers or authors in pushing books into the best seller class will be described by Mrs. Moses L. Purvin before the Woman's City club at 2 p. m. today in the clubrooms. Miss Maude Tiffany, retiring chairman of the current book review committee, arranged the program, which is to be followed by tea under the direction of Miss Helen M. Rathbun. At 10:30 a. m., Mrs. Harry M. Mulberry, president, will meet with the board of managers to consider the club budget for the year as prepared by the treasurer, Miss Mildred Wheelock.

Household Forum

By Louise Bargelt

Mrs. Dan S., Chicago—To get best results when washing painted walls, I apply the foamy soapsuds in a circular motion, and of course wash from the bottom up.

Mrs. Peter S., Lansing, Mich.—A cork makes a handy scouring pad, when polishing small surfaces on cooking utensils.

Mrs. Ed W., Kokomo, Ind.—If you are washing men's linen suits for the first time this summer you'll get best results in drying if you hang the coat upside down and pin at side seams. You can pin the trousers at the waist line unless suit is heavy. Then hang on hangers.

Advice Given on Furnishing Child's Room

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

[Copyright: 1945: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Some persons think that the way a child's room looks doesn't matter. I know two women who have comfortable incomes and charming homes whose little girls' rooms are quite a shock. In each case beauty stops at the bedroom door.

You may not think as these persons do, but still you may have a feeling that children don't notice or care much about how their rooms are furnished. But I know that they do. I know young men overseas in whose thoughts the bedroom they grew up in is a fond memory. However, I did not start this article to talk in that vein, but rather to offer a few suggestions for the furnishing and decoration of a child's bedroom.

First for atmosphere. Be sure that the room when furnished is cheerful, for the day time soft gay colors, and for the night time, good lighting. While an overhead light serves a practical purpose, it seldom is cheerful and seldom lends charm to a room. It is the table lamps that supply this note.

As for color, don't be afraid to use it. So many women are, and they seek the way out in the choice of neutral tones which also may be dull and depressing. Don't be afraid of color, but be sure that you don't use too much of it, and that what you do use isn't strident or disquieting to a child.

For walls, washable paint is excellent. If you must use wall paper, choose a design of simple, quiet beauty, not a tricky one made just for children, nor an obstreperous, restless, too bright design that obtrudes itself upon their consciousness.

The thing to do is to keep the essential needs in mind. Don't lose your head over the charm or prettiness of some furnishing. Of course as your boys grow older they will sprout definite ideas of decoration. But in the early stages "mother knows best."

The ninth annual North Shore contract bridge tournament will be held next Saturday and Sunday at the North Shore hotel in Evanston. Two events are on the program—the team of four game in one session Saturday evening and the open pair game Sunday afternoon and evening.

Preceding the tournament, the fourth annual Illinois masters' individual championship game will be held at the North Shore hotel. Play in this game, which will be in two sessions—Friday evening and Saturday afternoon—is open to all players with 10 or more master points. Entries are limited and participants are asked to send reservation requests to A. J. Mouat, 2718 Central st., Evanston.

Child's Sun Togs

If keeping your youngsters in play clothes is one of the biggest sewing tasks you have, you'll like this pattern because it makes both boys' and girls' sun togs. For Johnny there's an overall with shoulder straps which can't slip. For Cissy there's a bit of a sun frock with hat to keep it company. Style No. 2887 is designed for sizes 1, 2, 3, and 4. Size 2 requires 1⅝ yards of 35 inch fabric with 2⅛ yards of braid for dress and bonnet; 1⅝ yards for long overall; 1 yard for shorter suit.

Order Clotilde patterns from Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Annex, NEW YORK CITY. Print name and address; state size. Each pattern is 10 cents, plus 2 cents for mailing. The summer fashion book, on sale at Tribune Public Service offices, is 15 cents; 12 cents if ordered by mail with a pattern.

Men Giving Churches More of Their Time, Firestone Declares

Even tho most men are pressed with war time duties and other work today, they are giving more of their time to church activities, Harvey S. Firestone Jr. of Akron, O., said last night in Chicago. He was the principal speaker at the 55th annual meeting of the Church club of the Episcopal diocese of Chicago in St. Peter's Episcopal church, 621 Belmont av.

"Men are becoming more aware," said Firestone, "that complete victory calls for something more than buying war bonds, working for the Red Cross, and supporting service organizations, important as they are. It necessitates the maintenance of a spiritual front that will help our country win the peace after our fighting men have won the war."

Mr. Firestone was introduced by Homer Lang, president of the club.

Rational Anthem

There are headlines in the paper,
When a robber breaks a lock,
There are indignation meetings,
If some union takes a knock.

When a widow is evicted
Everybody promptly cries;
If a nice old man is starving,
He is loaded with supplies.

We are sympathetic listeners
To a radio appeal;
O, we like to help the neighbors,
As our lend-lease will reveal.

Tho it never made the headlines,
Some one broke my heart once more,
Now I wonder, will the nation
Beat a pathway to my door?

Will they meet to sign a protest,
Offering to do their part?
Or just send me thread and needle,
Quite enough to mend a heart?

The Maid of Kerry

O, it was long and long ago
That I went down to Kerry,
And it was there I came to know
A pretty Irish fairy;
Her tresses were of sunset gold,
Her eyes were fonts of bliss,
She gave me snowy hands to hold
And crimson lips to kiss.

Since then I've traveled far and wide
On ocean and on prairie,
But, O, no matter where I bide
My heart is still in Kerry;
For tho I've journeyed everywhere
On trains and planes and ships,
I've never seen such golden hair
Nor touched such carmine lips.

Some day I'm going back to find
The happy maid of Kerry,
The little girl I left behind
With lips of reddest cherry;
And, O, it's I'll be staying there,
Nor craving tours nor trips,
If I can smooth her golden hair
And kiss her scarlet lips. —T. E. B.

NORTH SIDERS WHIP DODGERS, 4 TO 2 AND 4 TO 1

Six Game Losing Streak Ends

BY EDWARD BURNS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Brooklyn, N. Y., May 20—The Cubs, who made 31,334 raving Brooklynites happy here Friday night as they lost to the Dodgers, came back to Ebbets field this afternoon to make 36,176 Dodger worshippers miserable as the Chicagoans triumphed in both games of a double header, 4 to 2 and 4 to 1. The winning pitchers were Paul Derringer and Hank Wyse.

Derringer's success today was his second on the five-city trip, with losses to the Phillies and the Giants sandwiched between the two triumphs. It was Paul's fifth favorable decision of the season. Wyse's victory was his third of the trip, with a trimming by the Giants mixed in, and his fourth of the season.

Win 5 Out of 14 Games

Thus ended happily what had been a sad jaunt, which had brought, among other disappointments, a six game losing streak up to the beginning of the hilarious doings today. By taking two today the Cubs were able to salvage five victories out of 14 games played on the trip, which started in St. Louis May 5 with a 5 to 1 victory by Derringer.

In the first game today the victors made all of their runs off a former Cub, Curt Davis, Dodger pitcher-coach who previously had won four for the second placers, the onslaught including Bill Nicholson's homer with none on in the third. Otho Nitcholas, who was with the White Sox 16 years ago, held the Cubs to an infield single by Bill Schuster in two innings as immediate successor to Davis and Les Webber held them hitless in the last two innings.

Hal Gregg, who had won five games while losing one and was the ace in the Dodgers' recent 11 game winning streak, was the losing pitcher in the second game.

Cubs Take Two Run Lead

The Cubs got off to their two run start in the first inning of the first game thanks to a high powered error by Mickey Owen on what appeared to be an easy inning-ending double play. Stan Hack opened the afternoon's activities with a single to left and stopped at second when Don Johnson duplicated the smack. Stan and Don advanced while Davis was throwing out Bill Nicholson, whereupon Phil Cavarretta was given an intentional pass, loading the bases. Peanuts Lowrey slammed the ball into Davis' glove and a leisurely double play seemed in the making when Davis tossed to Owen to force Hack at the plate. However, Owen, in trying to end the inning with a putout at first base, threw the ball past Augie Galan and as it rolled to the end of the right foul line Johnson and Cavarretta scored and Lowrey raced to third. Andy Pafko then lined to Dixie Walker.

Bill Nicholson Hits Homer

Davis disposed of five batters in the second and third innings, but Nicholson jolted this calm with two out in the third by driving the ball not over, but thru, the right field screen, his second homer of the series, his fourth of the season. Cavarretta followed with a single to left but Lowrey popped to Eddie Basinski.

The score became 4 to 0 in the fifth inning. Derringer led off with a single and was forced by Hack. Johnson's second single, on the hit and run, put Hack on third, whence Stan scored on Nicholson's long fly to Goody Rosen.

In the first four innings Derringer confined the Dodgers to a single by Bill Hart with two out in the second inning and a single by Davis which was nullified by a double play in the third—a span almost identical with Paul's first four innings against the Giants his last prior time out.

Olmo Beats Out Hit

Louis Olmo started the fifth inning scare by beating out an infield hit. Hart fouled to Cavarretta but Owen singled to right center, putting Olmo on third. Basinski singled to center, scoring Olmo and putting Owen on third and Basinski advanced to second on Pafko's throw to third. Clyde Sukeforth batted for Davis and fouled to Len Rice and Hack threw out Eddie Stanky.

The Dodgers made their second run in the sixth on a double off the scoreboard in right by Galan and Olmo's single, final hit yielded by Derringer.

The Cubs didn't seem greatly

HOLD 1ST P. G. A.-TRIBUNE BENEFIT TODAY FOR NAVY

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The Illinois section of the Professional Golfers' Association of America has held many a tournament in its career, but this afternoon it will play one which will send it forth on the most important season it ever has undertaken.

The occasion will be a pro-pro event at Shoreacres, held in conjunction with the thirteenth annual free golf school of THE TRIBUNE. More than 40 members of the section will take part in the show, which will be preceded by presentation of a number of golf balls to the overseas veterans now hospitalized at Great Lakes.

Result of Tribune School.

These balls are a direct result of the school, in which civilian pupils for the third year are surrendering to service men and women the prizes for which they were formerly eligible. Alex Cunningham of North Shore, president of the Illinois section, will make the formal presentation today to the veterans at Great Lakes at 1 p. m. The professionals will then give a golf clinic and shot-making demonstration for the men in the hospital before teaming up in their best-ball event.

Similar presentations of golf balls are planned for the near future at Vaughan and Gardiner General hospitals.

List Pro Instructors.

The professionals who took part in the school, reduced to three lessons this year because of the weather, follow:

Alex Cunningham, North Shore; Eddie Bush, Oak Park; Tom Walsh, Westgate Valley; Elmer Schacht, Ridge; Bill Gordon, Tam o' Shanter; Jerry Glynn, Knollwood; Harry Adams, St. Charles; Jimmy Hines, Chicago; Ralph Guldahl, Medinah; John Revolta, Evanston; George Smith, Onwentsia; Charley Penna, Beverly; Pete Wilcox, George Gammon, and Orville Broker, all of Riverside; Jerry Cooke and Chief Specialist Howard Atten, both of Edgewater, and Bill Brown and Art Fladoos, both of North Shore.

Pope Extols Athletics as Moral Force

VATICAN CITY, May 20 (AP)—Pope Pius XII. declared today that sport, based on fair play, "elevates the spirit above small mindedness, dishonesty, and trickery," but he cautioned against participation to excess.

Speaking to thousands of Italian athletes gathered in the courtyard of St. Damaso, the pontiff said:

"What would be the use of physical courage and force of character if Christians only exploited them for the worldly ends of winning a cup or giving themselves the airs of supermen?

Sports Should Be Subordinate to Christian Living

"What would be the use of all this if they did not find within themselves—should this prove necessary—sufficient resolve to sleep a half hour less, or be late for training, rather than go without assisting at mass on Sundays?"

Declaring that athletes must be ready to subordinate everything to their duty as Christians, the pope added:

"Many youths dedicate all their interest and activity to sport, and pay only slight attention to the demands of their studies and professions. Home for them only represents a hotel where they stay as strangers."

Domination of the Body Is Spiritual, Physical

The pontiff, extolling sport as a means of developing will power and a Christian domination of the human body, said the church always held the body in higher esteem than did materialists, regarding it as a "masterpiece of God" and a "temple of the Holy Spirit."

He asserted that sport was an antidote to the lazy life and that it developed a sense of order and inspired moral strength and greatness.

TILDEN WINS IN PHILADELPHIA; AIDS BOND DRIVE

Philadelphia, Pa., May 20 (AP)—Big Bill Tilden celebrated his return to his native Philadelphia with a clean-cut 6-3, 6-3 victory over George Lyttleton Rogers, former Irish Davis cup player.

The 52 year old star followed up his victory by auctioning off his winning racquet for $15,000 in war bonds. Mrs. R. K. Walling of Mount Airy, Pa., purchased the racquet.

Big Bill was never behind in his match with Rogers altho the Irish star managed to tie up the second set 3-3 before Tilden swept the last three games.

Alice Marble, former queen of amateur tennis, took a 5-3 lead over Vincent Richards in a one set match before Richards hit his stride and finished strong to take an 8-6 victory.

BETTER WEATHER BOOSTS CROWDS AT SPORTSMAN'S

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN

Thorobred racing returned to Chicago after a four month federal blackout just a little over a week ago. It came back into being with a scheduled nine day meeting which opened May 12 at Sportman's Park, an opening which, measured by the rule of money wagered, was rather inauspicious altho still a formidable amount by any measure.

The opening day customers, 13,673 of them, laid $684,384 on the line, about $140,000 less than was bet on the first day of the 1944 spring meeting when all of the Cicero half mile plant's records went by the board away below par, and it appeared to many that perhaps racing's comeback had been rushed too much.

Saturday Big Day

Last Friday, however, the best crowd of the week turned out despite continued bad weather and the mutuel handle soared to over a half million. Saturday came around, the second week-end of the meet, and the sport was back to its staggering 1944 level. More than 15,000 patrons turned out and wagered $839,407 on the same kind of program of races that had been presented the first six days of the meeting. Thus the comparatively poor earlier play could be blamed on atmospheric disturbances.

Sportsman's Park goes into its semi-final day today with the total mutuel handle for seven days just $472,924 less than the corresponding period of last spring when a 14 day meeting saw $8,479,195 wagered. The total for the current run is $3,772,989.

A $1,600 allowance race for 4 year olds and upward at 6½ furlongs tops today's program and has drawn seven entries, including Sand Storm, Miss Rink, Happy Pilot, Twixt, Good Bid, King Epithet, and Vinum. Happy Pilot will carry top impost of 117 pounds.

Vie for Riding Honors

Another bit of unfinished business has to do with the race for riding honors. Apprentice Billy Nichols, the 17 year old jockey from West Frankfort, has a comfortable margin in his drive for the major part of $1,000 worth of war bonds put up by President John L. Keeshin.

Nichols' riding has been spectacular. When he's not winning he's giving the fellow who does the best run for his money. Billy has scored nine firsts, but his record Saturday of six seconds in six races boosted him some 20 points above his nearest competitor, Paul Glidewell. Nichols has 87½ points, Glidewell, 65. Next comes J. W. Martin with 55½; Sylvester Haynes, 46; Willie Gillespie, 41; Andy Lo Turco, 34; Eugene White, 32; Eddie Franklin, 31; Aullie Carr, 30; Joe Cavens, 27; Bruno Pucci, 24; and Andy Burdy, 22. Pucci was the leading rider at last fall's meeting.

BUNKER HILL NINE TROUNCES NOTRE DAME, 19-4

Bunker Hill, Ind., May 20 (AP)—Profiting by eight Notre Dame errors, the Bunker Hill Naval Air station baseball team routed the Irish today, 19 to 4.

Bunker Hill belabored two Notre Dame pitchers for 15 hits and rallied for eight runs in the sixth inning. Pitcher Al Piechota and Center Fielder Dick Schlaffer hit home runs for the sailors, and Outfielder Frank Gilhooley hit a home run for Notre Dame. Score:

Notre Dame	100	021	000	4	8	8
Bunker Hill	332	308	01*	19	15	3

Batteries—Le Brou, Ramsey and Murphy, Colich; Piechota and Gleasner.

Jamaica Track Opens Today; Expect 40,000

New York, May 20 (AP)—New York's turf fans today were ready to welcome racing back to the big city tomorrow after a six month absence.

A crowd of upward of 40,000 was expected to be on hand at the Jamaica track on Long Island when the bugle sounds for the first race at 1:30 p. m. [EWT]. A $2,000,000 betting mark seemed assured.

The turf addicts spent today reading up on the past performances of 19 3 year olds, many of them Kentucky Derby candidates, who were named for the 6 furlong $7,500 Experimental handicap, feature of the opening day card.

Topweighted at 119 pounds, Edward Lasker's Flood Town, one of 1944s well regarded juveniles, ruled a 5 to 2 favorite in the early line. William Helis' Rick's Raft, Greek Warrior, Pindus, and Adonis appeared well liked along with the La Favorita farm's Post Graduate and C. V. Whitney's Jeep and Monsoon.

Others named included Chief Barker, Alabama, Apropiado, Jacobe, Wildlife, Bertie S., Speeding Home, Hal, Dockstader, Sir Francis, and Polynesian.

The day is the first of New York's 144 day season. The season ordinarily would have started April 8.

VARIPAPA, YOUNG TURN ON HEAT; RUN LEAD TO 815

Baldwin, N. Y., May 20—The Long Island team of George Young and Andy Varipapa wound up the eastern half of their $2,500 bowling match with the midwest all-champion team of Buddy Bomar, of Chicago, national match champion; and Joe Norris, of Detroit with a lead of 815 pins tonight.

Going into today's play with a 420 pin lead the easterners doubled it in their two blocks of seven games. They were in a fair way to do better than that when Varipapa fell down to 171 in his last game, at which time their lead was 881 pins.

BOSTON FALLS BEFORE GROVE AND LEFTY LEE

Dykes' Pace Setters Increase Lead

James Dykes' gay White Sox not only continued yesterday with their first place occupancy but completed a couple of deals whereby they are assured of remaining undisturbed the next few afternoons. They strengthened their lease on the luxury position by treating Boston's Red Sox to a pair of trimmings, 4 to 2 and 8 to 2, giving themselves a surprising record of nine victories against four setbacks for the now concluded Comiskey park stay.

It was accomplished by some competent pitching featuring Thornton Lee, the aged lefty, and the youthful Orval Grove, some steady fielding, and also bits of excellent hitting by the Dykes commandos. In the first game, Lee, despite an early two run jolt on a homer by Leon Culberson, recovered his balance to win his fifth of the season, his pals rallying against Rex Cecil's throwing. And in the second game Grove had such an easy time he didn't yield even one run until after his co-workers had fixed him comfortably by knocking out Joe Bowman.

Moses Hits Two Run Homer

Various members of the White Sox asserted themselves in the attack that seemed highly satisfactory for the 12,713 who refused to be discouraged by weather threats. Oris Hockett hit a triple in the fifth inning of the first game, an inning in which three decisive runs were scored against Cecil.

In the second game the invaluable Tony Cuccinello exploded three hits and scored each time, twice with help from Cass Michaels. The choicest blow of this game, however, was a two-run homer off Rescuer Yank Terry by Wally Moses who was back in action after a week of inaction due to a shoulder injury.

The only runs off Lee in the first game came with one out in the second inning, the ingredients being a single by Pete Fox and Culberson's homer which sailed into the left field pavilion. The domestic Sox recaptured one of these runs on a minimum of hitting when John Dickshot walked to start the fourth, went to third on Bill Nagel's single and scored on a double steal. In the fifth Mike Tresh singled, Lee sacrificed, and Moses singled to score Tresh. Then Hockett tripled to drive in Moses, after which Hockett counted on Skeeter Newsome's boot of Dickshot's grounder.

Fix Up Grove Quickly

The White Sox put Grove close to his season's third victory by assaulting Bowman for four runs in the second inning of the second game. With one out Cuccinello, Roy Schalk, Michaels, and Tresh singled for two runs. Grove was thrown out and the Boston strategists figured it would be smart to walk Moses, filling the bases. Hockett resented this to the extent of a single, Michaels and Tresh scoring. Moses also tried to score when he thought the Boston fellows were confused about their throwing but they got him at the plate.

When Cuccinello and Schalk singled with two out in the third inning Bowman was yanked in favor of Terry. Michaels singled off the newcomer and Cuccinello scored. The next scoring outbreak was by Boston in the seventh when George Metkovich hit his season's first homer with a mate on base. In the same inning Moses notched his two run homer and in the eighth the eighth run scored on Cuccinello's double and Tresh's second single.

The Sox will leave this afternoon for their first eastern invasion. They open against the Yanks Wednesday.

FELLER FANS 12 IN FIVE INNINGS; SAILORS WIN, 5-1

Moline, Ill., May 20 [Special]—Chief Specialist Bob Feller struck out 12 while yielding five hits and one run in five innings here this afternoon as he and the Great Lakes Naval Training Center team defeated Dizzy Dean and his All-Stars, 5 to 1, before 5,000 fans. The game was sponsored by the Moline Optimist club and proceeds will be used by the organization in its boys' work program. Dean pitched only two innings, giving up two hits and no runs, and then played first base for four innings.

51,340 WATCH GIANTS DIVIDE WITH PIRATES

Voiselle Wins First, 5-1; Roe Second, 4 to 0

New York, May 20 (AP)—Elwin [Preacher] Roe handed the New York Giants their first shutout of the year, 4 to 0, today to give the Pittsburgh Pirates an even break in their double header before the largest crowd of the season, 46,575, paid. Bill Voiselle hurled his eighth victory without a defeat in the opener, the Giants winning, 5 to 1.

Ernie Lombardi hit his seventh homer in the first game to tie Mel Ott and Phil Weintraub for the league lead.

Roe permitted only three hits and fanned eight in the second as he hung up his third triumph. The game was a scoreless duel between Roe and Harry Feldman for five innings, but the Pirates exploded for four in the sixth.

CARDS, PHILS DIVIDE

Philadelphia, Pa., May 20 (AP)—Coaker Triplett's double brought home the deciding run in the ninth inning today to give the Philadelphia Phillies a 7 to 6 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals in the second game of a double header at Shibe park after the Cards triumphed, 6 to 2, in the opener.

Triplett's hit, scoring Glenn Crawford, a former Cardinal, from second base, preserved Relief Hurler Andy Karl's perfect mound record, giving him his third straight victory before 14,625 paid fans.

PEPSIS, MARIOS LEAD

The Pepsi-Colas and the Mario Restaurants were tied at the end of the first two blocks of the three block women's bowling round robin at Bowling Lanes last night. Each team won four and lost two games in the afternoon's and evening's play. The Pepsi-Colas led on total pins, however, 5,512 to 5,206.

Lustre Cremes were third with three victories and three defeats while the Meister Braus were last with one triumph in the six games.

Best individual performances in yesterday's bowling included Nina Van Camp's 644, Carolyn Leuder's 611, Betty McCarthy's 601, and Lee Liepe's 599.

The event will be concluded Saturday night on the same alleys when the final three games will be bowled, starting at 8 o'clock.

BROWNS DEFEAT YANKEES TWICE, 10 TO 1, 5 TO 2

St. Louis, Mo., May 20 (AP)—For the eighth and ninth consecutive times over a two year span the New York Yankees went down to defeat at the hands of the American league champion St. Louis Browns today. The scores were 10 to 1 and 5 to 2.

The Browns won the pennant last year by sweeping all four games of a series with the third place Yankees at Sportsmans park. Prior to that they had won their last game at Yankee stadium.

Today's two victories gave the Browns four straight triumphs over the New Yorkers in three days and boosted the champions into a second place tie with the Detroit Tigers, two games behind the pace setting Chicago White Sox.

Pete Gray, the Browns' one armed outfielder, had a big day, both at bat and in the field. In the first game he did everything right, collecting three singles, driving in two runs, scoring one himself, and making three putouts. In the second game he made one hit—perfectly timed on a hit and run maneuver—and handled six putouts flawlessly.

6 GIRLS' TEAMS TO START SECOND SEASON FRIDAY

The National Girls Softball league, a six team professional circuit which marks its first anniversary with the opening of this season, Friday night will start a 100 game schedule lasting into September.

In Parichy Memorial stadium, Harlem at Harrison, the Queens will meet the Bloomer Girls. Last year, playing as the Brach Kandy Kids, the Queens won the league playoffs and this season have returned with virtually the same lineup.

The Bluebirds, first half winners last season, will meet the Chicks in Bidwill stadium, 1900 E. 75th st.

AEF TRANSFER TO CUT EUROPE DOLLAR INCOME

Cash in Circulation Rises in Britain

BY JOSEPH CERUTTI
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, May 20—The United States government decision to withdraw more than 3 million American troops from Europe will deprive Great Britain and several other countries of a substantial source of dollar income, financial interests said today.

Maintenance of millions of American service men on this side of the Atlantic has involved the expenditure of billions of dollars, despite the fact United States forces imported most of their equipment and food. Altho the transfer operation may take months, complete easing off of what a Financial News writer described as unprecedented "tourist traffic" is bound to affect the foreign exchange position of many countries.

Spending Is Trade Factor

"The presence in Europe and the middle east of millions of American troops has been a major factor in the international balance of payments," he asserted. "Spendings of these well paid troops and the expenditures undertaken by their commands have represented a vast item of invisible exports."

Dollar balances thus accumulated by Britain have been offset to some extent by the removal of a number of articles from the lend-lease list by the United States government, but the net gain in foreign exchange "has been by no means inconsiderable." The same thing is true of all continental and middle eastern countries where American troops are stationed.

Few to Stay in Britain

Whatever American troops remain in Europe will be stationed mostly in Germany, thus the flow of dollars from military expenditure is likely to dry up completely as far as Britain is concerned.

Meanwhile the British public's demand for ready cash to celebrate V-E day and Whitsun public holiday raised the currency circulation to a new peak of 5 billion 46 million dollars, the Bank of England reported. More than 80 millions in new money has gone into circulation during the last two weeks.

ELECTRIC POWER INDUSTRY LISTS RECORDS IN WAR

The electric light and power industry has provided nearly a kilowatt hour of electricity for every dollar spent by the American people for war production in the last five years, the Edison Electric institute reported yesterday.

During the war the electric power industry has set new peaks in output, capacity to produce electricity, customers, revenues, and taxes. All this was accomplished with a comparatively small increase in new generating plants and with an actual drop in workers, rates, and replacement materials.

Installed capacity of power plants increased 25 per cent during the war years, total power produced gained 77 per cent, the number of electric power customers rose 45 per cent, and at the same time the average price per kilowatt hour dropped 25 per cent, the institute said.

Drouth Below Equator Cuts Food Output

Washington, D. C., May 20 (AP)—The office of foreign agricultural relations reported today that douths have materially reduced the output of food in the southern hemisphere at the time of greatest need in liberated Europe.

A substantial reduction in production was reported for such exporting areas as Argentina, Brazil, Australia and South Africa. Europe normally takes the bulk of the exportable surplus of the southern hemisphere.

Changes Pacific War Program

"Present indications are that drouth conditions will tend to reduce southern hemisphere exports of meats and dairy products from the high levels of recent years," the office said. "Grain supplies also have been reduced, particularly wheat and flour from Australia and wheat and live stock feed grains from Argentina."

The report said Australia's reduced output has made necessary a revision of allied supply programs in the Pacific theater of war. Allied leaders had hoped to obtain substantial food support from Australia.

Argentine Crops Small

Argentine production of flaxseed—an important source of vegetable oil needed for food and industrial uses—last year was the smallest since 1918, only about half the usual output. The corn crop was only a third that of the year before and cotton, rye, barley and rice crops were small. A large wheat surplus is available, however, for export.

Argentina's vast cattle industry has been adversely affected. Conditions in Brazil and Uruguay were similarly affected.

In the Union of South Africa, the drouth has produced a serious shortage of grains, meat, and dairy products. The meat shortage, which has been chronic for three years, has been intensified.

WLB TO FOLLOW SAME POLICY ON BUILDING WAGES

Washington, D. C., May 20 (AP)—The construction industry will remain subject to existing wage stabilization policies during the reconversion from war to civilian production, the war labor board said today.

The board announced May 10 that it would follow a policy of keeping wage rates as nearly as possible at present levels during reconversion, with prevailing area or industry rates determining wages when sweeping changes in job content are involved.

Exception was made for the construction field because jobs in the industry "are the same in content whether the work is war production construction or civilian production construction."

OPA Files $915,185 Suit Against Steel Company

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 20 (AP)—Suit for almost a million dollars has been filed by the OPA against National Roll & Foundry company at Avonmore, Pa. The OPA asks $915,185 treble damages for alleged overcharges in prices of steel castings. The complaint charges the company boosted prices on tank parts by misnaming items and requiring extra payment for ordinary services.

STEEL WALLBOARD

I note Edward F. Fisher, former General Motors vice president, has been elected a director of Martin-Parry corporation. Please give me information regarding the latter company.—O. I.

Martin-Parry manufactures drawn steel wallboard which may be erected on existing walls or applied to wood or steel studs. The line includes an all-steel wallboard unit with steel studs and accessories, panels, partitions, interior moldings, and other building specialties.

Since early 1942 the company's facilities have been devoted to war work, and its products have been used on ships. Sales have increased substantially from a low pre-war volume. After the sale of the company's motor truck body business in 1930 and prior to 1940, its sales had ranged from $402,075 in the 1934 fiscal year to $77,567 in 1937. The 1944 volume was $8,172,948.

Net losses were reported each year from 1930 thru 1939. Subsequent profits per share for fiscal years ended Aug. 31 were: 1944, $1.68; 1943, 69 cents; 1942, 25 cents; 1941, $1.59; 1940, $3.78. For the six months ended last February, the share profit was 44 cents on 441,800 shares.

The company last year paid dividends of 30 cents a share, and the same amount so far in 1945. The stock this year has sold highest since 1929, altho, in view of the pre-war record, the peace time earning power of the business is uncertain. As of Feb. 28, 1945, net working capital amounted to $3,432,000, with no funded debt.

CONNECTING ROD ADVANCES TOLD BY STUDEBAKER

Studebaker corporation's Chicago plant is manufacturing on a mass production basis an aircraft engine connecting rod that has increased resistance to fatigue and corrosion, Harold S. Vance, chairman, said yesterday.

The improved part resulted from a year of research and experiment in coöperation with the air technical service command. Altho the Chicago plant is expected to shut down by the end of June and the part was developed primarily for the Boeing Flying Fortress, Vance said its principles were applicable to all planes.

No change in connecting rod design was made. Rather, progressive, straight flow techniques were adopted to known methods of treating metal surfaces under the repeated impact of fine pellets, known as "shot peening." The Studebaker shot peening process differs widely from some of the other methods in use.

CIVILIAN ORDERS FILL STEEL MILL SCHEDULE GAPS

Cleveland, O., May 20 (AP)—Steel production promises to remain at a high rate for some time as civilian needs take up the slack in war requirements, the magazine Steel said today.

"Full effects of cutbacks and cancellations cannot yet be fully appraised, but claimant agencies in Washington estimate third quarter requirements at 16 million tons of finished steel, practically the same as for second quarter," the magazine said.

Open ending of the controled materials plan has proved a disappointment to many consumers, Steel asserted, because they will be unable to adopt early scheduling of various important products if schedules interfere with CMP requirements.

BOOST IN CHINA PRODUCTION OF OIL PREDICTED

KUNMING, China, May 20 (AP)—Installation of a moderate amount of refining equipment would increase substantially the petroleum production of northwest China, an American army oil expert declared today. He was Lt. Col. Charles H. Andrus, San Antonio, Tex., who returned recently from a survey of oil areas in Kansu and Shansi provinces.

His report followed a Washington announcement that both well drilling and refining equipment were en route to China.

"It is my judgment that with a relatively small amount of new equipment one northern district could turn out 1,600,000 tons of gasoline annually, and of better quality than that now being produced by rather primitive methods," Col. Andrus said.

STOVER ASSERTS ODT IS WILLING TO GIVE UP RAIL

The office of defense transportation is willing to return control of the Toledo, Peoria and Western railroad to private management as soon as "proper authority" is received, Holly Stover, federal manager of the road and president of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad, said yesterday. Judge Walter J. La Buy in federal District court ruled Saturday that ODT control of the road had been illegal since Jan. 18, 1944, when railroads thruout the country were released from army control assumed during a strike threat. The court ruling was on a petition by George P. McNear, president of the T. P. & W.

Cable Piano's Chicago Store Purchased by Marshall Field

Marshall Field & Co. has purchased the Chicago store of the Cable Piano company, 228 S. Wabash av., William S. Street, vice president and general manager of the Field retail stores in Chicago, announced yesterday. The price was not disclosed.

The store will be operated at its present address as a Field division until materials become available for expansion of the music department at the main retail store. A large number of Cable employes is expected to be taken over by Field.

Located on Wabash avenue for more than half a century, Cable handled a full line of pianos, organs, radios, phonographs, and records. All will be continued by Field.

The purchase does not involve Cable stores elsewhere in the country. Those properties are being acquired by the management group that has operated the business for many years and which plans expansion in other localities when men and materials become available.

The Cable management declined to disclose how far its acquisition program had progressed or the number or locality of the stores contemplated under expansion plans. It will not operate a store in Chicago.

SWEDISH FIRMS BID FOR TRADE IN SOUTH AMERICA

New York, May 20 [Special]—Swedish manufacturing interests have opened an aggressive campaign to obtain a major share of the estimated 6 billion dollar Latin American trade in the next few years, Americans returning from South America asserted today.

Swedish manufacturers are in a good position to make contacts with Latin American interests. Because Sweden remained neutral during the war, they have no reconversion problems. American manufacturers cannot compete aggressively because the United States still is at war and they have war contracts to complete. British interests also are reported actively seeking trade with South America.

American observers emphasize the activity of such Swedish companies as SKF, Inc., Ltd., the ball bearing and machine manufacturer. This company is able to furnish tools, turbines, engines, and similar articles of machinery quickly, according to reports. Sweden, too, has its merchant marine, which is in position to carry the trade to South America.

People and Events

Mrs. John Sexton, chairman of John Sexton & Co., grocery manufacturer and wholesaler, will observe her 79th birthday at a company party in the Palmer House tomorrow night. Harold R. White, first vice president, who has been associated with the company 50 years, also will be honored. White has directed the company's purchases and sales of canned foods for 40 years.

Robert J. Eggert of the American Meat Institute, John F. Reinboth of the Commonwealth Edison company, and Frank P. Breckinridge of Breckinridge & Co. will address the Chicago chapter of the American Statistical association Wednesday night in the Triangle restaurant, 225 S. Wabash av.

Margaret Micel was appointed assistant airport ticket offices manager for American Airlines at the Chicago municipal airport, Bonham M. Fox, district traffic manager, said. Miss Micel is the first woman to become a supervisor in the line's terminal office.

AVERAGE DRIVER FACES WAIT TILL '47 FOR NEW CAR

Models to Be Improved, but Basically Same

BY PHILIP HAMPSON

When the first new automobiles come off the assembly lines later this year they will have numerous improvements and refinements not contained in the 1942 models whose production was stopped by the war in January 1942. Styling changes will give them a considerably different appearance, but basically they will be the same cars as their 1942 predecessors. This picture of the forthcoming cars was provided yesterday by leading automobile manufacturers.

Not until the industry has filled the emergency transportation needs of the nation will it produce postwar "cars of the future."

Essential Needs Foremost

The war production board recently predicted that 200,000 new cars will be built in the last quarter of this year and 400,000 in the first three months of 1946. This means that essential drivers under the expected continuation of rationing will be the only ones to get the new cars, so it will probably be two or three years before the average citizen can hit the road in a shiny new model.

The Ford Motor company's engineering department is the most optimistic of the big companies about the first cars which will be produced. It has stated that the new Fords will represent the greatest change of any model over a predecessor model since 1932, with about 100 improvements and refinements included.

General Motors corporation, Chrysler corporation, Studebaker, and other company spokesmen all say there will be changes in the new cars, but nothing startling.

More Chrome for Trim

The first cars to be produced will have new fender arrangements, new ornamental trim, new ornaments at the head of the car and other minor items which taken altogether will give the new automobiles a somewhat different appearance from the original 1942 cars. There will be a lot more chrome available and the chrome trim will be arranged to change the cars' appearance.

These changes will be made where they can be done without having to use new tools and dies. The over-all shape of bodies will be retained. Standard sedans and coupes will be turned out; special jobs will have to wait. There will be some changes in interiors. Instrument panels are likely to be changed somewhat.

Discussing mechanical changes, an executive of the General Motors corporation said the industry for the first time in its history has had time to study a model.

Better Brakes Promised

"Usually after we send one year's model cars on their way we have had immediately to turn our attention to the next year's models," he explained.

Among the mechanical or engineering changes in the new cars will be minor improvements in carburetion; better braking systems; better oil filters and oil systems which will increase engine life; more rugged distributor and other electrical parts; improved engine ventilation; refinements in the water cooling systems, and improvements increasing the volume and pressure of the lubricating system, adding to motor life.

New Steels to Cut Cost.

There are to be improvements in the spring suspensions of some models, improvements in shock absorbers will give a better ride, and some parts will be placed better for servicing convenience. The industry knows more about steels and probably will use steels having less alloys in getting the same strength because of better inspection equipment. This will enable cost and weight reductions.

There will be a few new gadgets, notably new jacks which will make it easier to change tires when the occasion arises.

N.U. ASTRONOMERS SEARCHING HEAVENS FOR NEWCOMER STAR

Astronomers at Northwestern university last night peered into the heavens with great expectancy. They were on the lookout for a new brilliant star whose discovery was announced Saturday by Milton L. Humason, astronomer at Mount Wilson observatory in California.

Humanson spotted the new star just north of the end of Big Dipper, about 5 million light years from the earth. It is not visible to the naked eye. Prof. Oliver Lee at Northwestern asserted he probably wouldn't find it until after he gets a location card from contemporary astronomers at Harvard university.

Humason identified his discovery at a super-nova, which appears only about every 500 years. Lee commented that a great catastrophe in the heavens sent the star reeling into range of our telescopes. Generally a nova remains upwards of 200 million light years from the earth, Lee said.

TRUCK STRIKE IS NOURISHED BY GANG WAR ROOTS

BY GEORGE HARTMANN

Chicago's truck strike, tying up delivery of food and war materials, is the indirect outgrowth of 40 years of warfare between rival unions whose struggles have written some of the bloodiest chapters in Chicago's gang history.

It is the latest bid for power of an organization which, in its heyday, controled 40,000 drivers in and around Chicago.

Altho the strike itself was called by the remaining few thousand members of the independent Chicago Truck Drivers' union, that union's mortal enemy, local 705 of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Warehousemen and Helpers [AFL], is inextricably intertwined in the strike's background. The AFL union is not on strike, its leaders insisting upon observance of the AFL's no-strike pledge.

Seeks to Raid AFL

With this wedge, the independent union is seeking to raid the AFL membership, using the argument: "What's the use of belonging to a union that can't strike? Our officials never gave any no-strike pledge, so we can strike anytime."

The beginning of the story goes back to 1908, when a number of local teamster unions broke away from the AFL. These unions subsequently were known as "outlaws." They formed their own council of unions and began organizing teamsters in competition with the AFL council.

The competition was attended by frequent sluggings, bombings, and murders. In those days the men played for keeps. Then, beginning in 1928, the battle for control of the city's drivers took on a new aspect. Gangsters moved in.

Capone Mobster Takes a Hand

The first of these was George [Red] Barker, a Capone mobster who had just been released from the penitentiary. Looking around for a new racket, his eyes fell upon the coal teamsters' union, and found it good. Thousands of members each paying in so much a month or else—all legal—was a better racket than he could have contrived by himself.

This is how he became a union boss. On April 15, 1928, six of Barker's men drove to Brown's Lake, Wis., shot Lefty Lynch, boss of the coal drivers' union, and left him for dead.

A couple of nights later, Barker walked into a union meeting and asked: "Where does the boss sit?"

Barker Becomes Boss

When they showed him, he took the chair. He said: "This seat is for me from now on. I'm boss now."

Lynch, it developed later, hadn't died, but when he came back he found Barker firmly in the saddle, with the moral support of Three Fingered Jack White, Klondike O'Donnell, and Murray Humphries, gangsters all. Barker muscled one union after another into his fold. He drew huge salaries from each and bled the treasuries white.

Then he set up the Trucking and Transportation exchange, and began to whip into line all county trucking contractors.

Contractors who didn't join [at $10 a truck and $1 a month dues] were plagued by strikes and boycotts. Those who did had the privilege of paying their drivers 50 cents a day less, but this was not taken off the drivers' dues.

Rebellion Breaks Loose

Finally, rebellion broke out both in the ranks of the unions and the contractors, until, in 1934, former State's Atty. Courtney and Mayor Kelly cleaned out the gangsters who had taken over the independent unions, ending a murder era whose more notable casualties included:

Patrick [Paddy] Berrell, a vice president of the I. B. T.; Tim Lynch, Dan Tagnettie, a Barker lieutenant; Three Fingered Jack White; and, on June 19, 1932, in front of 1502 N. Crawford av., Barker himself.

Stroke to Regain Prestige

With the end of gang rule, all the independent unions except the one now on strike drifted back to the AFL fold. Its secretary and treasurer, Mike Galvin, a Republican committeeman of the 27th ward, resisted AFL overtures. But its membership, which was nearly 7,500 when Galvin died in front of a shotgun Nov. 23, 1936, has been dwindling since AFL officials claim it has less than 4,000.

There has been raiding back and forth. About a year ago, the I. B. T. started a campaign to take over the independent's membership, but desisted when it became apparent that this could not be achieved without violence.

But the independent union saw the handwriting on the wall, and its leaders may have determined on a bold stroke to regain prestige. In any event, they struck, while the I. B. T., faced with the same war labor decision, did not.

If the independent local wins, it may take over a large portion of local 705, I. B. T.; but if it loses, it may be reduced to a point where it would be unable to function. Its prospects are made darker by reported factional strife within its ranks, with Steve Slahor, president, arrayed against Edward Ragen, secretary-treasurer, and Edward Fenner, executive director.

PRINTER DIES ON WAY TO HOSPITAL

John Beigler, 55, a printer, died early yesterday while being taken to County hospital after he had been found unconscious in his hotel room at 667 Madison st.

THREE SEIZED WHILE RAPING WOMAN IN LOT

Three Negroes, 15 to 18 years of age, were seized early yesterday as they took turns raping a white woman whom they had kidnaped and stripped of her clothing in a lot at 65th st. and Sayre av.

Later police arrested a fourth Negro who admitted he had taken part with two of the others in a group attack on another woman early Friday morning. The group admitted the attacks and also stealing purses from two other women.

Mother Is Victim

Those held are Joseph Jackson, 15, of 6046 S. Elizabeth st.; William Robinson, 16, of 5935 S. Racine av.; Noel Parks, 18, of 1221 W. 60th st., and Theodore Wiley, 17, of 6017 S. Racine av.

Victim of their latest attack was the mother of an 8 year old boy whose husband is a soldier serving overseas. Riding in a borrowed automobile, Jackson, Robinson, and Parks followed the street car which she boarded on her way home early yesterday from a southwest side war plant. When she got off the car near her home, they threatened her with a knife and forced her into the automobile.

She was taken to the lot where her clothing was torn off and she was raped. Summoned by the watchman in an industrial plant nearby, Sgt. John Kringas and a squad from the Willow Springs county highway station seized the men at the scene.

Identification Is Made

On information given by the three held, police arrested Wiley. He, Jackson, and Parks confessed that they had kidnaped and attacked a 19 year old woman as she was on her way home from a theater at 12:45 a. m. Friday. She identified the three men.

They also admitted they had stolen purses from Mary Bratcher, 7240 Perry av., and a companion, Pearl Dillon, of Moline, Rock Island county, earlier yesterday near Miss Bratcher's home.

FAIL TO REVIVE WOMAN

Mrs. Kasmerer Filipczak, 68, of 5632 S. Marshfield av., collapsed from a heart attack in her home yesterday and died despite efforts of firemen to revive her. She is survived by her husband, Andrew, three sons and a daughter.

SIX POLICE CAPTAINS AWAIT QUICK WORD ON REINSTATEMENTS

A decision by the state Supreme court on the petition for reinstatement to duty of six police captains and a lieutenant fired last year after a gambling investigation may come any day now, attorneys for the petitioners said yesterday.

The order will affect Captains Walter Healy, Thomas Connelly, Louis Klatzco, John Cartan, Eugene Barry, and Thomas Harrison, and former Lt. William Drury. They were discharged June 16, 1942, on the technicality that desk sergeants under their control failed to make proper bookkeeping entries regarding gambling complaints.

Their hopes of restoration to their jobs rest in the ruling by Judge Joseph A. Graber of the Superior court last Dec. 22, that they were improperly fired by the city civil service commission which spent six months hearing evidence and arguments regarding the system in vogue on the police department in relation to gambling complaints.
